The Daily Sentinel.
JOSIAH TURNER, Jr., EDITOR.

THE "SLEEPING BEAUTY" OF TENNESSEE—A REMARKABLE CASE.

A correspondent of the Louisville Commercial, writing from Union City, Tennessee, gives the following interesting particulars of the celebrated "Sleeping Beauty," of Tennessee, whom he recently visited: So much has already been written in regard to the lady known here as the "Sleeping Beauty" that I can scarcely hope to give you anything new, but will add my testimony to that already given, and make you a plain statement of facts as I know them from her mother, brother and friends who now have her in charge in the same house in which I am stopping, and from which I am now writing to you. Miss Susan Caroline Godsey was born in Obion county, Tennessee, and within ten miles of this city, of poor but respectable parents. Her father has been dead for over twelve years. Her mother still lives and watches over her loved child and the sunken eyes and furrowed brow show very plainly the trials and sorrows she has experienced in her duty for twenty one years. She is very poor, and to some extent, dependent upon the contributions of visitors to take care of and procure proper supplies for her charge.

Miss Godsey was taken sick when about four years of age, with what was supposed to be chills and fever, but which baffled the skill of nurses and physicians for more than two years, at which time she fell into a nervous sleep, from which she has not awoke since for a longer time than twelve minutes. She usually sleeps soundly from eleven o'clock at night until about six in the morning, and through the day awakes about once an hour. Her waking spells are never of less than four nor more than twelve but usually about six minutes duration. In her waking moments she speaks both pleasantly and intelligently, answers promptly any questions asked her, and appears quite happy and contented.

One of the strangest points of this strange case is the seemingly total absence of anything like respiration. A piece of the finest polished glass held to her lips fails to disclose the slightest trace of breath. Her pulse is perfectly still, and but for a nervous or tremulous motion of the body, which never ceases, you might at any time call her dead. She has grown during her affliction from a little child to about the average height of her sex, and weighs ninety six pounds, and although her body and hands show her very poor in flesh, her face is full and smooth, and her features well developed. Indeed, such a face [illegible] her features portray that she is not inappropriately called the Sleeping Beauty of Tennessee.

A GEM.—The following little paragraph, which a friend hands us, contains a whole volume of truth and [illegible], and if well studied and applied would prevent much unhappiness in this world, and prove a most effectual remedy for much that now exists: "It is the easiest thing in the world to be happy if men and women would only think so. Happiness is only another name for love; for where love exists in a household there happiness must also exist, even though it has poverty for a close companion. Where love exists not, even though it be in a palace, happiness can never come. He was a cold and selfish being who originated the saying that 'when poverty comes in at the door, love flies out at the window,' and his assertion proves conclusively that he had no knowledge of love; for, unquestionably, the reverse of the axiom quoted is nearer the truth. When poverty comes in at the door, love, true love, is more than ever inclined to tarry and do battle with the enemy. Let those who imagine themselves miserable, before they find fault with their surroundings, search in their own hearts for the true cause. A few kind words or a little forbearance, will often open the way to a flood of sunshine in a house darkened by the clouds of discord and unamiability."

BREAKING IT GENTLY.—When the lamented Judge Bagley tripped and fell down the courthouse stairs and broke his neck, it was a great question how to break the news to poor Mrs. Bagley. But finally the body was put into Higgins' wagon and he was instructed to take it to Mrs. B., but to be very guarded and discreet in his language, and not break the news to her at once, but do it gradually and gently. When Higgins got there with his sad freight, he shouted till Mrs. Bagley came to the door. Then he said:

"Does the widder Bagley live here?"

"The widow Bagley! No, sir!"

"I'll bet she does. But have it your own way. Well, does Judge Bagley live here?"

"Yes, Judge Bagley lives here."

"I'll bet he don't. But never mind—it ain't for me to contradict. Is the Judge in?"

"No, not at present."

"I just expected as much. Because, you know—take hold o' suthin, mum, for I'm a going to make a little communication, and I reckon maybe it'll jar you some. There's been an accident, mum. I've got the old Judge curled up out here in the wagon—and when you see him you'll acknowledge yourself that an inquest is about the only thing that could be a comfort to him!"

BEAUTIFUL AND APPROPRIATE DEDICATION.—Mr. Stephens sends forth his second volume of the war between the States, with the following beautiful and appropriate dedicatory: "To the memory of those whose lives, in the late war between the States, were sacrificed, either in battle, in hospital, in prison, or elsewhere, in defence of the Sovereign Right of Local Self Government, on the part of the people of the several States of the Federal Union; and in defence of those principles upon which that Union was established, and on which, alone, it or any other union of the States can be maintained consistently with the preservation of Constitutional Liberty throughout the country, this volume is most solemnly and devoutly dedicated; while others are to-day strewing flowers upon their graves, this oblation, with like purposes and kindred emotions, is thus contributed by the author to the same hallowed shrine."

At the late reunion of the Illinois Fourteenth regiment, a letter from Senator Yates was read, in which he said: "If we the people of the United States, shall faithfully [illegible] the real objects for which the war was fought, [illegible]" Mr. Yates ought to have thought of [illegible]

WALTHAM WATCHES.

THE EXTENSIVE USE OF THESE WATCHES for the last fifteen years, by Railway Conductors, Engineers, and Expressmen, the most exacting of watch-wearers, has thoroughly demonstrated the strength, steadiness, durability and accuracy of the Waltham Watch. To satisfy that class in all these respects, is to decide the question as to the real value of these time-keepers.

More than 450 000 of these watches are now speaking for themselves in the pockets of the people—a proof and a guarantee of their superiority over all others.

The superior organization and great extent of the Company's Works at Waltham, enable them to produce watches at a price which renders competition futile, and those who buy any other watch, merely pay from 25 to 50 per cent. more for their watches than is necessary.

We are now selling Waltham Watches at less prices in greenbacks, than the gold prices before the war. There is no other manufacture of any kind in the United States of which this can be said.

These time-pieces combine every improvement that a long experience has proved of real practical use. Having had the refusal of nearly every invention in watchmaking originating in this country or in Europe, only those were finally adopted which severe testing by the most skillful artisans in our works, and long use on the part of the public, demonstrated to be essential to correct and enduring time-keeping.

Among the many improvements we would particularize:

The invention and use of a centre-pinion of peculiar construction, to prevent damage to the train by the breakage of main springs, is original with the American Watch Company, who, having had the refusal of all other contrivances, adopted Fogg's Patent pinion as being the best and faultless.

Hardened and tempered hair-springs, now universally admitted by watchmakers to be the best, are used in all grades of Waltham Watches.

All Waltham Watches have dust-proof caps, protecting the movement from dust and lessening the necessity of the frequent cleaning necessary in other watches.

Our new patent stem-winder, or keyless watch, is already a decided success and a great improvement on any stem-winding watch in the American market, and by far the cheapest watch of its quality now offered to the public. To those living in portions of the United States where watchmakers do not abound, watches with the above mentioned improvements which tend to insure accuracy, cleanliness, durability and convenience, must prove invaluable.

Every watch guaranteed by the Company.

To prevent imposition, buyers should see that every watch should bear either of the following trade marks.

American Watch Co.,	Waltham, Mass.
Am'n. Watch Co.	Waltham, Mass.
American Watch Co., Crescent St.,	Waltham, Mass.
Appleton, Tracy & Co.,	Waltham, Mass.
Waltham Watch Co.,	Waltham, Mass.
