Diplomats Vie With Bombers

A smashing aerial assault upon the German naval base at Kiel in which repeated bomb-hits were scored on the already-damaged Nazi battleship, Scharnhorst, was reported last night by the British Air ministry.

The raid on Kiel, carried out Monday night, was another attack in the continuing series between Britain and Germany. The British said the 26,000-ton battleship, twice before reported damaged by British arms, was hit by bombs as she lay in a floating dock for repairs.

Germany said damage in the Kiel raid was slight but that five persons were killed.

The Nazis kept up raids on Britain in the long English twilight yesterday. The British said at least 10 persons were killed and 110 injured in a German raid on northeast England—the second time in as many days that Nazi air warriors have taken advantage of the extended daylight for bomb forays.

In southeastern Europe, where Germany wants to maintain peace to protect her huge economic stakes in Rumania, heavily-armed Hungary and Rumania exchanged bitter accusations in their quarrel over the rich province of Transylvania, now held by Rumania.

Farmers' Convention Offers Lively Week

A five-day program packed full of education, recreation, and entertainment is awaiting rural people who attend Farm and Home Week at N. C. State College, July 29-August 1.

Dr. I. O. Schaub, director of the Extension Service, and Miss Ruth Current, State home agent, said this year's program is expected to strike the best balance between instruction and entertainment in years.

Reports from every section of the State indicate a record-breaking attendance this year. With AAA committeemen scheduled to attend, the enrollment may reach 2,500. In years past, attendance has averaged between 1,500 and 2,000.

Joint sessions of men and women will be held each of the five days except Thursday to begin each day's program. Following this session, the two groups will break up into separate meetings where they will receive instruction in a wide variety of subjects.

For instance, women will be given their choice of classroom work in the following subjects: clothing, foods and nutrition, health, home management and food conservation and marketing, house furnishings, home beautification, horticulture, hospitality, 4-H leadership, music appreciation, parliamentary procedure, poultry, recreation, and libraries. On the other hand, the men will study poultry, forestry, the AAA program, cotton, tobacco, beekeeping, horticulture, crop rotations, legumes, and other farm subjects.

Each evening will be turned over to recreation. Included on these programs will be games, contests, music, group singing, and square dancing.

Complete details on the convention may be obtained from Dan M. Paul, State College, Raleigh.

A Few Pointers On The Art of Worrying

"Don't, if you're wise, let another day dawn without doing some good healthy worrying. When critics ask cheerily, 'Why worry?' be ready with a ready retort—'Why not worry? What else in the history of the world [illegible] their [illegible] opportunities to worry?'

With [illegible] in check, Frank Sullivan [illegible] Good Housekeeping readers, in the July issue, [illegible] the fine art of worrying. [illegible] day, he advises, to the worry a real one comes along you'll be [illegible] prepared. In order to [illegible] yourself fully, sample a few and see which clicks best with your temperament. But don't pick it off just because you're having too much fun. Remember that tomorrow you may be having more fun.

Imaginary, not real worries, says Mr. Sullivan, are the best type, but the classic ones such as your health, your financial security, the fate of Europe, the younger generation, and the going-to-the-dogs of America all offer fine opportunities which should not be neglected. Concluding his enlightening discussion, Mr. Sullivan has this to say. "Get yourself a cause for alarm. Let no day pass without crying over some spilled milk, even if you have to spill it yourself. Always trouble trouble before it troubles you. A good attack is absolutely the best defense."

SEED

As a result of the European war, United States farmers may be called upon to produce a larger portion of American seed supplies than they have for many years.
