HEADQUARTERS.

[Special Cor. Daily Review.]

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 16, 1877.

Richard S. Spofford has contributed an interesting letter to the discussion relation to the counting of the vote. He claims that the House has the right to count. He does not base his opinion on any affirmative clause in the constitution, as the power is not in terms given, but deduces it from the power of the House, in event of a failure to elect a President by the direct vote of the people, must proceed to elect one of the three highest candidates How, asks Spofford, could the House know there had been no election, or who were the highest candidates were, unless they counted the vote? Perhaps Mr. Spofford's ingenious theory would have received support at a time when the powers of Congress were controlled by a party, but now it can hardly receive support than will leave it to be taken at a more propitious season. The method prepared by the Senate committee, though not by any means partaking more of the spirit of concession. It may be briefly stated as follows: The House and Senate shall meet in the hall of the House; the President shall open the certificates; shall sum up the votes. When a return is received from a State, the concurrence of both Houses shall be required to reject the vote. When two returns from a State are received, the dispute is referred to a commission of Senators and Representatives and the Judges of the Supreme Court of the United States. The nine Senators and Representatives are to be selected by the Senate of five Senators and five Representatives, and the dropping of one from the decision of the Commission will be the Judges who would act are conservative leanings, Clifford and Strong. Swayne is not a violent partisan, this leaves but one—Judge Miller of Iowa—who could, by any stretch of imagination, be suspected of being influenced by his political preferences.

In my mind, is a great back-down on the part of the Senate Committee. It will be remembered that the first claim was that the presiding officer of the Senate had the power to decide questions that might arise.

The Senate and House Committees on Privileges will meet to-day. Petitions from parts of the country are daily received by the Committees and the Senate Committee asking that "politics" be not allowed to interfere with a settlement of the question.

The House on Friday the Judiciary Committee reported in favor of compelling Western Union Telegraph operator at New Orleans to make public the dispatches passed through him by various parties during the Presidential election. Orton, President of the Western Union Telegraph Company, will be before a House Committee shortly. The object is to get hold of the dispatches sent by Chandler, Secretary of the Interior and Chairman of the Republican National Committee. What bearing the administration did telegraph is doubtless disreputable, for there is no more conscience in politics than there is in politics and don't know the difference between counting a man out, and fairly electing him and then trying to get him for office. The Committee of the House had him up once and have him again to-day, but at the time of this writing, nothing has come to the result of his examination been made public. It is said, however, that very damaging disclosures will be made. The whole plot to interest the voters has been so plainly to be the power of the administration conviction has been so general that Tilden was really elected, that the action of Chandler over his own signature is promised—would immediately cause an unprecedented uprising of the people in the interest of Tilden and would cause a disappearance from the political horizon of Chandler, Grant, Sherman, at once and forever.

Catching Hawks.

This season is approaching when the most destructive to young chickens, the method of catching and killing these marauders will be in order. It is a well known fact that a hawk will perch on some conspicuous place near a poultry yard, from which to pounce on his victims. Taking advantage of this, erect a pole with a cross at the top just large enough to hold a long steel trap. Fasten this trap by a chain to a staple in the pole. The results, No bait will be required. The hawk will be quite certain to alight on the trap and be caught. A farmer who has tried this method recommends it in killing all the hawks in the neighborhood, and now can raise chickens without loss except by accident.

THE OBSERVER

NEEDS NO FORMAL STATEMENT OF principles, nor elaborate recital of what it will do, or expects to do, in the coming year. It can offer no stronger guarantee for its future than is afforded by its past conduct. It will labor earnestly and faithfully for the advancement of the Democratic party, and for the good of the State, which it believes to be one and inseparable.

To this end is desired at once a largely increased circulation for THE OBSERVER, and the wholesome literature it is giving to the people of North Carolina. Once in a household, THE OBSERVER becomes a fixture. It needs only to be seen to make its way into every nook and corner of the State. That it may be so seen, and speedily, its Editors offer the following

SCRIBNER'S MONTHLY.

An Unrivaled Illustrated Magazine.

When Scribner issued its famous Midsummer Holiday Number in July, a friendly critic said of it: "We are not sure but that Scribner has touched high-water mark. We do not see what worlds are left to it to conquer." But the publishers do not consider that they have reached the ultima thule of excellence—they believe "there are other worlds to conquer, and they propose to conquer them."

The prospectus for the new volume gives the titles of more than fifty papers (mostly illustrated), by writers of the highest merit. Under the head of

we have "A winter on the Nile," by Gen. McClellan; "Saunterings About Constantinople," by Charles Dudley Warner; "Out of My Window at Moscow," by Eugene Schuyler; "An American in Turkistan," etc. Three serial stories are announced:

Nicholas Minturn,

By Dr. Holland, the Editor, whose story of "Sevenoaks" gave the highest satisfaction to the readers of the Monthly.

The scene of this latest novel is laid on the banks of the Hudson. The hero is a young man who has been always "tied to a woman's apron strings," but who, by the death of his mother, is left alone in the world,—to drift on the current of life,—with a fortune, but without a purpose.

Another serial, "His Inheritance," by Miss Trafton, will begin on the completion of "That Lass o' Lowrie's," by Mrs. Hodgson Burnett. Mrs. Barnett's story, begun in August, has a pathos and dramatic power which have been a surprise to the public.

There is to be a series of original and exquisitely illustrated papers of "Popular Science," by Mrs. Herrick, each paper complete in itself.

There are to be, from various pens, papers on

"Home Life and Travel."

Also, practical suggestions as to town and country life, village improvements, etc., by well-known specialists.

Mr. Barnard's articles on various industries of Great Britain include the history of "Some Expriments in Co-operation," "A Scottish Loaf Factory" in the November number, and "Toad Lane, Rochdale," in December. Other papers are, "The British Workingman's Home," "A Nation of Shopkeepers," "Ha'penny a Week for the Child," etc.

A richly illustrated series will be given on "American Sports by Flood and Field," by various writers, and each on a different theme. The subject of will have a prominent place, whilst the latest productions of American humorists will appear from month to month. The list of shorter stories, biographical and other sketches, etc., is a long one.

The editorial department will continue to employ the ablest pens both at home and abroad. There will be a series of letters on literary matters, from London, by Mr. Welford.

The pages of the magazine will be open, as heretofore, so far as limited space will permit, to the discussion of all themes affecting the social and religious life of the world, and specially to the freshest thought of the Christian thinkers and scholars of this country.

We mean to make the magazine sweeter and purer, higher and nobler, more genial and generous in all its utterances and influences, and a more welcome visitor than ever before in homes of refinement and culture.

FIFTEEN MONTHS for $4.

Scribner for December, now ready, and which contains the opening chapters of "Nicholas Minturn," will be read with eager curiosity and interest. Perhaps no more readable number of this magazine has yet been issued. The three numbers of Scribner for August, September, and October, containing the opening chapters of "That Lass o'Lowrie's," will be given to every new subscriber (who requests it), and whose subscription begins with the November number.

Subscription price, $4 a year—35 cents a number. Special terms on bound volumes. Subscribe with the nearest bookseller, or send a check or P. O. money order to

PROSPECTUS.

THE RALEIGH OBSERVER

ON THE 16TH DAY OF NOVEMBER, 1876, and in the city of RALEIGH, the undersigned will commence the publication of a DAILY and WEEKY Democratic newspaper.

Of long experience in their profession as editors, respectively of the Fayetteville OBSERVER and the Wilmington JOURNAL, they do not affect to doubt the soundness of the general judgment which assigns them ability to furnish a newspaper suited to the needs and adapted to the tastes of the people of North Carolina. Differing in politics in the olden time, there was never a difference between the OBSERVER and the JOURNAL in zeal for the interests and honor of North Carolina. To promote the one, and to uphold and add to the other will be the object of the OBSERVER now.

Of very decided opinions on questions of public interests, and apt to give those opinions plain expression, they deem it the first duty of a newspaper to furnish its readers with the information necessary to the formation of their opinions,—to publish all the news, and their purpose is to make THE OBSERVER now, as of old, a truthful, accurate, condensed history of the times in which we live. It was thus that the old OBSERVER won its hold upon the people of North Carolina, enjoying the affections of its party friends, receiving the respect and confidence of its bitterest political foes, and commanding in its comparatively isolated location a circulation larger than was ever attained by any other North Carolina newspaper, and it is thus, by like dignity and fairness that the editors of THE OBSERVER, transferred to the State Capital, hope it will deserve, and soon equal, and then surpass, its former circulation and prosperity.

It will be their high aim to deserve the public confidence by earnest efforts to promote the public welfare, first and foremost of North Carolina, next of all the Southern States, and finally, and though these of the whole Union. They think that this can only be effected by the prevalance of Democratic principles and the dimmissal of the Radical party from the places and power which they have so greatly abused, and under whose baleful rule the South has been outraged and the whole country has been impoverished and disgraced.
