CITY AND STATE ITEMS.

TRIAL OF MAJOR JOHN H. GEE.

EXTRACTS OF EVIDENCE.

FIFTY-SECOND DAY.

TUESDAY, May 22, 1866.

Mr. Palmer, witness for the accused, recalled for the defence.—The hospital report, I got from a drawer in Maj. Mordecai's office; I took it with me when I left.

(Paper shown witness.) I obtained this at the time; this was an order for commandants of prisons to forward weekly reports of prisoners to Richmond.

(Paper shown witness.) An order in regard to lists of prisoners and register.

We slept in the office, the top floor, was over Mr. Lewis' bed. I hung it on a nail on the wall, it was not interfered with; Mr. Lewis took it when we left.

I was at the depot when the men who had joined the Confederate service returned. I judge there were about 150. Recollect Mr. Gee giving Mr. Campbell a written permission to go to Mr. Kein's till he got well, think he was gone several weeks.

I heard a conversation at the time Gen. Winder visited the prison soon after the outbreak; Gen. Winder sat about three feet from me—Mottitt was telling of Hoke taking wood and spoke of that. Gen. Winder told him he must take his orders from him or from the Quartermaster's Department, and his course would be approved, not to take his orders from Maj. Gee.

Recollect Maj. Gee asking the Quartermaster for wood, he said the regular amount had been furnished.

Mr. Lyerly applied to me to go out as a clerk and I told him I would if my duties were not prejudicial to my duties as a soldier, I went out. Mr. Lyerly came to me to take the names of some galvanized Yankees one morning, I refused, Maj. Gee sustained me; I went to his office and made my complaint; he gave me to understand that Mr. Lyerly was not to injure me in any way.

Lyerly's word was law in the prison; I have seen him sign his name "J. A. Lyerly, Superintendent of prison."

The prisoners of war very seldom obeyed the chiefs of divisions. When they took the order they did it through fear of Mr. Lyerly, we supposed.

I have heard Major Gee state that he wished to have a pipe brought from the stream through the prison yard. Have heard him speak to Nichols to exert himself to bring down all the rations he could. It was a general remark.—Have heard him say that he would not let officers recruit till they had shown their orders.

I never saw a notice for recruits signed by him. His conduct toward prisoners was kind. Escaped prisoners who returned were turned in. In one instance he gave food to an escaped prisoner. At the time the officer was stopped from kicking the prisoner, there were a good many around.

I think Dr. Curry and Dr. Wilson were the only doctors with the rank of Major.

One night there were some prisoners of war, ten or twelve, making a noise in Major Gee's office, and he said if to let them remain I would be responsible. They had been brought out to make lists of those who were to be paroled.—He often expressed himself anxious for an exchange, and brought papers out to show us.

He never asked one of us to do the slightest act against the U. S. Government.

S. M. Parish, Grocer, Raleigh.—Was Lieutenant in the Bureau of Conscription, stationed at this place. Millers were exempt, I think, till March, 1864. Instructions were issued under which they were allowed to make applications. A great many were issued. There was an order in October of the same year, that forbade officers from giving any more details and send the parties to camp—to put them in the army.

That order would have put all the males in but through the influence of Maj. Sloan, a great many were allowed to remain at home.

There were constant applications at our office—after this order the instructions were more stringent.

The surplus after a certain amount he could sell to soldiers families or to the government.—They could not sell it to any one else.

Cross Examined.—All millers working under a government contract till the order of October, were exempted. That order took all, if it had been promptly executed.

Re-Direct.—The Secretary of war was to make the details after they were put in the army.

The millers were allowed to remain while the applications were pending.

FIFTY-THIRD DAY.

WEDNESDAY, May 23, 1866.

George P. Kane, sworn.—Forty-five years of age; reside in Danville, Virginia—Tobacco Manufacturer.

I visited Salisbury in January, 1865, to relieve the sufferings of a Federal prisoner. I had, in some instances, got exchanges for prisoners of war. I called at the prison and am not certain whether I saw Maj. Gee. I saw some officers of the prison. They asked whether I would go in or have him brought out. I saw him, and he said he had been supplied.

I went around and examined the prison. I saw most of the prisoners in a very bad condition. The grounds were bad, and evidently required great exertion to drain them, and the officers seemed very anxious to alleviate their sufferings. They said that unexpectedly, a large number had been thrown upon them, and supplies cut off. They told gentlemen in the neighborhood had tried to assist them.

I recognize Maj. Gee as one of those officers.—These statements were to be made to Richmond to show that it was not a suitable place for a prison. I think Dr. Magill was present. The officers spoke very freely of the difficulty in getting supplies and of treating these prisoners as they ought to be treated, and lounge this upon the authorities at Richmond, and their desire to get an exchange. I stared this at Richmond.

Cross Examined.—I cant state that Maj. Gee was the person with whom I conversed. One half of the time I was there was spent in the office. I was not acting officially. I wanted to satisfy myself that the reports I had heard were true.

To Court.—These charges were tropied from Northern papers.

Dr. Magill recalled.—I saw Maj. Gee in conversation with Col. Kane.

FUNERAL.—The remains of Mrs. Col. Baker, daughter of the late Hon. W. H. Haywood, arrived on the cars from New York on Tuesday night, and her funeral was largely attended from the Episcopal Church at 5 o'clock, P. M. on yesterday.

This once large and interesting family have passed through eight instances of sad bereavement within the last four years. A doting mother has been robbed by death of four children and four grand children, in the brief period of four years. The family has the sympathies and prayers of numerous friends.

EXAMINING COURT.—The case of Mr. Hodge, charged with the killing of Mr. Strudevant, was brought before Judges Gilliam, Warren, and Buxton, we learn for committal or bail on yesterday. The Attorney General was represented by Col. Ed. Stanly; Haywood and the defence was completed by Messrs. R. F. Moore and S. F. Phillips, Esqs. The examination of witnesses consumed much time, and up to the present writing we have not heard the result.

RALEIGH AND GASTON RAIL ROAD.—We are glad to see this popular Road, putting on the steam a little stronger. Quick time and low fare is the order of the day. It will be seen that by schedule is changed to-day.

AN OPINION ABOUT FIGHTING.—We clip the following from General D. H. Hill's new Magazine, "The Land we Love." A general officer riding alone two days after the retreat of Burnside, stopped to warm at a fire where a group of Confederate veterans, which had defended the stone wall, was lying down in all the listlessness of the aftermath of a fight. The officer had on a common soldier's overcoat, and was welcomed as a civilian to the firside. A country lad, a farming lad at home, gave him a graphic description of the fierce assault and terrible repulse, in his own homely style, ending his narrative with his ingenuous comments upon fighting in general. "I have been man say that they were again for a fight, but I never did spile for a fight. Stranger I've been in every fight with my regiment, but I never did like fighting. But when we was killing them Yankees so party behind that are wall, and they wasn't hurting us, I was rale sorry to see 'em run. And I tell you, Mr. Stuart's man, that was the only time I ever did like fighting."

Mr. Stuart's man thanked him for his narrative, mounted and rode on, reflecting upon certain furious war speeches he had heard from men whose warlike exploits in the field had not yet become the theme of poetry and of song.

THE TRUTH TOLD BY A RADICAL.—The Rev. R. J. Breckinridge, of Kentucky, says the Philadelphia Age, distinguished during the war as one of the most active pulpit champions of the Federal cause, and temporary President of the Baltimore Convention which renominated Mr. Lincoln, has recently written a letter concerning the future of the blacks to the Northwestern Presbyterian, in which we find this paragraph:

"The great danger of this people is, that they will gradually waste away in the struggle they have now to make in competition with the stronger race for the means of existence—a danger in the face of which exorbitant and unprecedented claims on their behalf are the more melancholy as they are preposterous."

General Scott.

General Winfield Scott was born in Dinwiddie Co., Va., on June 13, 1786, and was consequently at the time of his death eighty years of age. He studied law at William and Mary College, and after practicing his profession for a few years, was in 1808 appointed captain of artillery, and stationed at Baton Rouge. On account of some remarks uttered by him in relation to the conspiracy of Aaron Burr, he was suspended from duty and returned to his native State. In July, 1810, he was promoted to the rank of Lieutenant-colonel, and ordered to the Canada frontier, where he took a prominent part in the affair of Queenstown heights. Soon after the capture of York, Upper Canada, General Scott was appointed adjutant general on the staff of General Dearborn, with the rank of colonel. In the combined attack upon Fort George, in 1813, he commanded the advance, and was severely hurt by a flying piece of timber. In 1814 he was made brigadier-general, and established a camp of instruction at Buffalo, and on July 3d, 1814, he, with Ripley's and his own brigade, defeated the British at Chippewa. On July 28, 1814, he fought the battle of Lundy's Lane, where he had two horses killed under him, and was severely wounded. Soon afterwards he was promoted to the rank of major-general, and visited the continent of Europe in 1815. In 1825 he published General Regulations for the Army, and in 1835 Infantry Tactics, from the French, both of which works were adopted as text books by the United States Government. In 1832 he took part in the war with the Sacs and Foxes, which was carried to a successful termination. At the time of the nullification troubles in South Carolina, Scott commanded the Federal troops in that State, and in 1839 he paved the way, as mediator, to the negotiation which ended in the Ashburton Treaty between the United States and Great Britain. After the capture of Monterey, in the Mexican war, General Scott was assigned to the chief command of the United States army in Mexico, and on March 9, 1847, he landed twelve thousand men at Vera Cruz, which city was captured three weeks afterwards. On April 19th he gained the battle of Cerro Gordo; and on August 20, he gained a victory at Chetubusco. On September 13, Chapultepec was fought; and on the morning of the 14th, the United States army entered the city of Mexico.

In 1852 General Scott was the Whig nominee for President; received 1,386,580 votes—against 1,601,274 received by the Democratic candidate.

At the commencement of the late war, in 1861, General Scott did not resign his commission and tender his sword to his native State, but remained in the service of the United States. His advanced age prevented him, however, from retaining a command, and on November 1, 1861, he retired from active service with full pay and allowances. He then visited Europe, and was received with great distinction, but failed to restore his health. He returned to West Point, having on board Cholera, Yellow Fever and Small Pox. A Clergyman and two nurses went out to the hospital ship, were all struck with Cholera.

From the time of his return from Europe until his death, General Scott lived in great retirement, only broken by an occasional interview with some military celebrity upon whom he desired to confer the honor of his praise. The verdict of history has already been passed upon the merits of Winfield Scott as a general, and of his errors or virtues as a man it is not, perhaps, becoming in us to speak. Where we can not praise, we do not wish to condemn, and the dead at last shall always be free from any but the most charitable and merciful criticism.—Richmond Dispatch.

THE CONVENTION.—In the published proceedings of our State Convention we see that a very important Resolution has been adopted, as follows:

"A resolution removing the water closet from the Capitol was adopted."

This is news! We read in ancient history that the Roman Senate was engaged just before the fall of that Republic in discussing one whole day the best manner to cook a pig. We wonder how many speeches were made upon the "water closet business" in our State Convention.—Weldon News.

HOOP POLES.—The Bridge over Alligator Creek, on the Wilmington & Manchester Rail Road, about one mile from this place, caught fire by some means yesterday, but was extinguished before any serious damage was done.—The fire is supposed to have originated accidentally.—Wilmington Journal.

Order for the Arrest of the Fenians.

WASHINGTON, June 6.

By direction of the President, Attorney General Speed had issued a circular to District Attorneys and Marshalls, instructing them to arrest all prominent leaders or conspicuous persons called Fenians, who are or may be guilty of a violation of the neutrality laws.

The Fenian prisoners at Buffalo have been released by order of the Government. The men on their own recognizance and officers on $500 bail—all to appear at Canandaigua when required, and to subscribe that they will not take up arms.

Special advices received, leave no doubt that a large body of Fenians still threaten Canada.

Great alarm was felt at Montreal. There was a monetary panic and a run had been made upon the Saving's Bank. Gold was at a high premium.

European News.

WASHINGTON, June 6.

Advices from Europe to the 27th ult., received at Halifax, via Queenstown, by the Africa, confirms the report that three of the neutral powers of Europe have addressed identical notes to Berlin, Vienna, Florence, and Frankfort, inviting a conference. It is believed all will assemble, but no reply had been received from Austria.

Warlike preparations continued. Continental news was unchanged. Kossuth, acting in concert with the Italians, is endeavoring to excite a Hungarian revolution.

Large arrivals of specie from America had caused a better feeling and reaction set in on London 'change.

New York Markets.

NEW YORK June 6.

Cotton firmer at 38 to 40. Gold 144¼. Sterling quiet at 10.

Nova Scotia mail leaves this afternoon for the South.

At Liverpool on the evening of the 25th, Cotton firmer, but unchanged. Sales 10,000 bales. There is a general improvement on the stock exchange at London. Warlike preparations continued.

Telegraph Reports received too late for Yesterday's Issue.

U. S. Circuit Court at Richmond

RICHMOND, June 1.

U. S. Court met to-day, Judge Underwood made a violent charge to the Grand Jury, denouncing Richmond as a slave-trading city, its press licentious and treasonable. W. B. Reed, Esq., asked in behalf of Jefferson Davis, if it was proposed to try him or dismiss the indictment, or suspend it. Hennessy, Assistant District Attorney was unprepared to answer in the absence of Mr. Chandler, the District Attorney. He would be present to-morrow, if not Hennessy would answer. The Court then adjourned.

Fenian Filibustering Quelched.

NEW YORK, Jan. 5.

The rumors of columns of Fenians marching into Canada, are not confirmed. Sweeney is said to be at Malone, N. Y. but the probabilities are that the invasion is at an end. President Roberts however has issued a stirring address to Irishmen and promotes Col. O'Neal to a Brigadier Generalship for gallantry. Arms belonging to Fenians have been seized at various points and the U. States is using all efforts to preserve neutrality. Head Centre Stephens declares the movement quashed. Warrants have been issued by the U. S. Commissioners to apprehend Fenian officers now on board U. S. Steamer Michigan for examination before the Commission at Buffalo, who will decide whether they shall be held or trial. Writs of habeas corpus have been served but the hearing has been postponed to give Commander Bryson, of the Michigan, time to consult the government authorities.

Washington Matters.

WASHINGTON, June 6.

The Senate has confirmed as Collectors of the Customs, Albert Elmore at Mobile, and Joshua Hill, at Savannah.

The published statements give the public debt, less the Cash in the Treasury at $3,670,288,000. Decrease 19 millions in May. The cash in the Treasury is stated to be nearly one hundred and thirty millions.

James Stephens, (Fen.) is here. Large numbers of the clerical force of the Departments will be discharged this week.

General News.

WASHINGTON, June 5.

The Congressional proceedings to-day are devoid of interest. Potter's bill spoke in the Senate in favor of his reconstruction bill. The debate will continue.

Cholera.

At New York Quarantine condition of the patients is deplorable. The hospital ship Falcon is full. No more can be cared for. Five people died on board the Falcon.

New York Ex.

NEW YORK, Jan. 5.

Cotton buoyant at 37 c. Sugar closed buoyant. Coffee firm. Money is dull. Gold 144¼!!

MORE WORK FOR THE Nashville Union says one of the Radicals has written to the editor of the Republican newspaper in Nashville:

"See Governor Brownlow and beg him to urge the Legislature not to adjourn sine die, but take a recess. There is yet much to do."

Such are the orders under which the Tennessee Government is "working" at Nashville. Perhaps the "Constitutional amendment" is the next grist to be ground.—Nat. Inquirer.

NEW AND GRAND EPOCH IN MEDICINE!!

Magnetism is the founder of a new Medical System. The quarantainers, whose vast interest depends on the sickness and physique the bowels, must give precedence to the new one that restores health and vigour, with from one to two of its very salutary Pills and cures the most virulent cases with a box of this wonderful and all healing Salve. These two great specifics of the Doctor are fast supplanting all other medicines of the day. Extraordinary cures by Maggiel's Pills and Salve have opened the eyes of the public to the inefficiency of the so called regular medicines, and upon which people have so blindly depended. Maggiel's Pills are not of the kind that are purchased by the dozen, and of which a box will have been created so shortly necessary for health. One or two of Maggiel's Pills suffices to put the bowels in perfect order, tone the stomach, give an appetite, and render the spirits lightsome and gay! There is no griping, and no reaction in the worst constipation. If the liver is affected, its functions restored; and if the nervous system is feeble invigorated.
