THE SENTINEL.

Tuesday Evening, Oct. 16, 1866.

The Tomb of Sidney Johnston.

"Town Talk," of the New Orleans Times, gives us the following. The epitaph is indeed rarely beautiful and appropriate:

A lady correspondent, in a recent stroll through the St. Louis cemetery in this city, visited the grave of General Albert Sidney Johnston, and found a written epitaph pasted upon a rough board attached to the tomb. In her note to T. T., our fair correspondent says she was affected to tears upon reading it, and took the trouble to copy it, verbatim. She begs us to find out the author, and she should be gratified in that desire if it were possible for T. T. to do so. Here is the beautiful epitaph:

IN MEMORIAM.

Behind this stone is laid,
For a season,
ALBERT SIDNEY JOHNSTON,
A General in the army of the Confederate States,
Who fell at Shiloh, Tennessee,
On the sixth day of April, A. D.,
Eighteen hundred and sixty-two;
A man tried in many high offices,
And critical enterprises,
And found faithful in all.
His life was one long sacrifice of interest to conscience;
And even that life, on a woful Sabbath,
Did he yield as a holocaust at his country's need.
Not wholly understood was he while he lived;
But, in his death, his greatness stands confessed
In a people's tears.
Resolute, moderate, clear of envy, yet not wanting
In that finer ambition which makes men great and pure.
In his honor—impregnable;
In his simplicity—sublime.
No country e'er had a truer son—no cause a nobler champion;
No people a bolder defender—no principle a purer victim
Than the dead soldier
Who sleeps here!
The cause for which he perished is lost—
The people for whom he fought are crushed—
The hopes in which he trusted are shattered—
The Flag he loved guides no more the charging lines;
But his fame, consigned to the keeping of that time, which,
Happily, is not so much the tomb of Virtue as its shrine,
Shall, in the years to come, fire modest worth to noble ends,
In honor, our great captain rests;
A bereaved people mourn him,
Three commonwealths proudly claim him;
And history shall cherish him
Among those choicer spirits, who, holding their conscience unmixed with blame,
Have been, in all conjectures, true to themselves, their country and their God.

A Northern clergyman, who has lately been travelling through the South, writes from Georgia, to one of his congregation at Kennebunkport, Me., giving a "pastor's view" of Southern affairs, in which, after characterizing the spirit of some Radical leaders as "abominable," he says "the policy of denying representation punishes whole masses of Southern people who neither need or deserve punishment—they have already suffered enough. All the bitterness and disloyalty that may exist can be more perfectly overcome by magnanimity than by severity. As regards the blacks, this denial of representation will surely secure their utter misery if not their extirpation. The colored people are unprepared for the ballot. They could only use it as a child would fire arms—to their own injury, and an attempt to exercise the right of suffrage on their part would surely cause a war of races. No true friend of the negro would wish him to vote at present. That they may make an intelligent use of their freedom, let them be educated. This is the only hopeful work that the nation can engage in for their benefit. Any interference with the interior concerns of the States will be disastrous." It is true, says the writer, that the government runs some risk in allowing the South to participate in the Halls of Congress, but it runs greater by refusing such participation. No free government is safe in arbitrarily governing a portion of its people, and if it be necessary to so govern the South, our form of government will soon be changed from a republic to a military despotism.

PRESIDENT JOHNSON AND THE RESULT.—The Philadelphia Inquirer's Washington correspondent writes under date of Thursday:

Until this afternoon, the President was confident in the belief that Clymer was elected in Pennsylvania, and that there was no loss in the congressional delegation, but that there was a gain in the Fifth District. He has been deluged with telegrams from various parties claiming "Democratic gains" in nearly every county in Pennsylvania and Indiana. To-day he concedes that nearly all is lost, but is assured by Secretary Seward that the people are a little wild now, but will be as bad the opposite way before another year.

BUTLER IS THE GREAT LEADER WHO WILL IMPEACH THE PRESIDENT.—A letter in the New York Times says:

General Butler is the great leader in this crisis, and to stand by him is to save the country from ruin. It is understood that as soon as General Butler takes his seat in the next Congress—for his election is a foregone conclusion—he will move for the impeachment of the President.

NO FORMER SLAVEHOLDER SHALL EVER BE PRESIDENT OR VICE PRESIDENT.—In a recent Boston speech, Mr. Boutwell said the President had disgraced the country, but he would not be impeached for it, and added:

"I want to say one thing, and so deeply am I impressed with the conviction that no man can ever hereafter be trusted in the office of President or Vice-President who has bought or sold human flesh, that I conjure you and my fellow-citizens forever after to make it a rule of your public policy that no such man be clothed with the highest office in the gift of the people."—[Great applause, and cries of "Good."]

Some weeks since as one of the boys, who while "wearing of the gray," had lost a leg in Johnston's last fight, was stepping on the cars at Salem, Mass., where he had been to procure a cork substitute, an elderly woman, with a very nasal twang, buttled up and greeted him with, "Mister, did you lose your leg in the rebel service?" "No, madam," was the polite reply. "Oh!" and the wrinkles were scarcely preceptible, so genial a smile rippled over her hard face, as she gazed proudly at the young hero, "in ours?" "No, madam," was again the cool response. "Then where on earth did you lose it?" she inquired, much puzzled. "In the Confederate service, madam." "Oh! git out, yed horrid creature you," snapped out this descendant of the witch burners, as she whisked indignantly away.

The Portsmouth Chronicle gives the following as "the reply of a colored gentleman who lives in a neighboring village to an invitation to an evening party":

"—— —— —— respectfully regrets that circumstances repugnant to the acquiescence of the invitee reluctantly compel him to decline the invitation."

In consequence of the bonds and liens, held by the State on various Rail Road Companies, having been in part executed during the late war, I have concluded not to offer them for exchange until the reception of special instructions from the General Assembly.

I have deferred the time of opening bids in order that parties interested might have opportunity of examining the reports of the various Companies for the present year, which no doubt can be obtained from the proper officers of the Companies.

INFALLIBLE YEAST POWDERS.

Scientific men, who thoroughly understand the subject, concur with great unanimity in saying that baking powders such a deleterious influence against health as bad bread. The remedy is at hand in SIMPSON'S INFALLIBLE YEAST POWDERS, the value of which is thus certified:

RALEIGH, Aug. 24, 1866.

I have tested the Yeast Powders you manufacture and can recommend them as vastly superior to any other ever used by me. In addition to the lightness and sweetness of the bread, the powders are economical, as one-third the lard usually required will answer in the making of either loaf bread or biscuit. For pastries and cakes they are excellent.

VINCENT A. ONS.

The price of these powders per package is 25 cts. or 20 cts. per pound. To be had at Wm. Simpson's Confectionary store, Fayetteville Street, Raleigh, N. C.

RALEIGH, Aug. 29, 1866.

This is to certify that I have used Mr. Simpson's Yeast Powders and find them to be superior to any I have ever used. After trying them once no housekeeper will be satisfied without them.

MRS. S. D. HARRISON.

RALEIGH, Aug. 31, 1866.

I have tried Mr. Wm. Simpson's Yeast Powders and find them very good.

ONE THOUSAND ACRES of valuable land, lying on Neuse River, in the County of Johnson, and on both sides of the N. C. R. Road, between Smithfield and Stallings' Depots.

I prefer selling the whole tract to one man, but will cut it into hundred acre tracts to suit purchasers. To a company of men wishing small farms and pleasant healthy locations, it holds out good inducements as I will sell on favourable terms. Persons wishing to examine the land, and coming by Rail Road, can be put off the Cars at Vinson's Mill, where they will always find me.

I will also sell a TWENTY HORSE power SAW MILL in good working order, with teams, waggons, and all appurtenances.
