MARRIAGE AND DEATH.—A marriage took place at Prattsville, Greene county, N. Y., at 7½ o'clock on the evening of the 10th instant, and at 9 o'clok on the same evening, or an hour and a half afterward, the husband wept beside the "bride of death." Here is the sad record:

MARRIED.—In Prattsville, on the 10th inst., by P. K. Salisbury, Esq., John Breens, of Middletown, Delaware county, to Miss M. A. Tenn, of Prattsville, Greene county.

DIED.—In Prattsville, on the 10th inst., of asthma and hemorrhage of the lungs, Mrs. M. A. Breens, wife of John Breens, in the 20th year of her age.

THE EMPIRE OF BRAZIL.—Brazil now occupies a very respectable position in the list of powerful nations. Her government is stable and permanent. There is considerable popular liberty, and the masses of her people are progressing rapidly in civilization. Her military and naval resources are large. She has a fleet of sixty-two vessels of war, of which thirty are fine steamers. Her navy is larger than ours. She has a standing army of 25,000 men, and her national guard numbers 400,000.

MESSAGE OF THE GOVERNOR OF LOUISIANA.—Gov. Wickliffe, of Louisiana, states in his annual message that the expenses of the State for 1859, are estimated at $1,201,976. Receipts credited to the general fund for the same time $985,000. The monetary institutions of the State are sound and the amount of actual coin in their vaults has been at all times largely in excess of the requirements of the law. The Governor advocates the annexation of Cuba by negotiation, and if it shall fail, by some more potent solicitation.

A VERY SAD STORY.—An English paper relates the death of a father from grief. It says: "His boy aged eight years was arrested on a charge of stealing a sovereign. Bail was refused, and the lad sent to prison. The father, on parting with his child took the matter so deeply to heart that he went off and never again looked up. A deep seated melancholy took possession of him; he was unfitted to give up work, and on the day his little boy was tried, the father breathed his last. The surgeon who attended him says that he died of a broken heart. The boy was discharged."

THE WIZARD STEAMSHIP.—This novel vessel, in regard to which so much interest is felt throughout the country is now rapidly approaching completion and some of the advantages expected from her construction have already been subjected to a preliminary test. A day or two since the Messrs. Winans, for the first time, put in motion her machinery, the immediate object being to smooth and bring the revolving parts into proper working condition before trying the motion of the vessel through the water. A barrier was carried out to a secure fastening to shore, and an opportunity was then afforded for making some very interesting observations in relation to other matters connected with the vessel. Although the propelling wheel made at times from sixty to seventy revolutions per minute, its extending or projection of the vessel was produced by its motion or the vibratory motion of the machinery. The water was thrown from the wheel, when the greatest speed was obtained, with much violence and in large masses, and in a direction (to all appearance) peculiarly well calculated to produce forward motion only with economy of power. The motion of the wheel was remarkably smooth and free from jar or unpleasant sound.—The ventilation of the vessel and the regulation of the temperature in the cabin, fire rooms, &c., by the provision made for drawing and controlling the currents of air, were highly satisfactory, the temperature not exceeding fifty-four degrees.—Baltimore American.

WILD CHERRY.

To Save W. Fowle.—The Best Medicine—Having witnessed results of a satisfactory character from the use of Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry, in my family, during the past two years, I am induced to express the full faith I have in its curative powers.

I was first induced to try this medicine as an experiment, about two years ago, in connection with the strong recommendation of a friend, who was all sigh gone with consumption, and whose life was saved from the use of it, notwithstanding the great prostration of vital strength, and most clearly demonstrating to my mind its great value as a medicine, that needs only a fair trial to insure a little of demonstration from the public.

Your obedient servant
SAMUEL A. WALKER

Very genuine unless signed I. BUTTS on the wrapper. For sale by Hamilton & Co. Charlotte.

Persons afflicted with the Fever and Ague should use Dr. Hoofland's Celebrated Bitters, whose wonderful effects upon the human system has been proved to those who have been attacked by it in a short space of time by this invaluable medicine. Those who are weak and nervous, and invalids are sleepless and fretful, and whose minds are confused, with doubt staring them in the face, this compound must prove a blessing; building them up as it were from the very dead to life. None can know its true value unless they have tested it. Where all others have failed, these Bitters have restored the sufferers to perfect health. Their popularity in all the Western and Southern parts should introduce them to all others.

A LARGE CHOIR.—The choir at the popular services at St. Paul, London, comprises some 500 individuals, and includes many of the finest amateur singers in London, of both sexes. With the exception of the leader, the whole of them are altogether unpaid, and render their services from pure devotion to the practice of ecclesiastical vocal music. They are all persons to whom music is simply a pleasing recreation; many of them are in circumstances of ease and affluence, some of them being members of one or other of the learned professions; and it is, beyond doubt, the finest, as it is the largest, amateur choir ever organized in any place of public worship.

TO THE PLANTERS OF N. CAROLINA.

KETTLEWELL'S
MANIPULATED GUANO, OR
PERUVIAN AND PHOSPHATE GUANO.

As imported from the Islands of Chincha and Ninomoni, combined and chemically manipulated by machinery.

No. 1, warranted to contain 8 per cent Ammonia, 40 to 50 per cent Phosphate of Lime.

No. 2, warranted to contain 5 per cent Ammonia, 35 to 40 per cent Phosphate of Lime.

Surpassing Peruvian Guano in the production of a final crop, and Bone Dust in the durable improvement of soil.

"My Manipulated Guano having become the acknowledged and universal rival of Peruvian Guano, I shall hereafter be personally for putting upon public record what is so universally known in Baltimore, that I am solely and exclusively the originator of this article by the use of machinery.—American Farmer, 1857.

WE have accepted the Agency for the sale of "Kettlewell's Manipulated Guano" at this place, and respectfully call the attention of our planting community to this popular and celebrated Fertilizer. From testimony received at home and from abroad, we are not hesitate to recommend it as the most reliable and economical manure now offered to the public for wheat, corn, cotton, oats, vegetables and grasses. It will commence dealt for the following reasons:

1st. Because it is imported Guano, intimately combined, so as to meet the wants of crop and soil, and not a manufactured article.

2d. Its fine and dry condition, making it ready for immediate application, without sifting and grinding.

3d. Its production of crop and permanent improvement of land it surpasses all other Fertilizers, not excepting Peruvian Guano.

4th. Its low price.

Peruvian Guano contains 16 per cent of Ammonia and only 25 to 30 per cent of Phosphate of Lime. By reducing the costly Ammonia one half, and doubling the Phosphate of Lime, a far more valuable Fertilizer must be produced. It has been demonstrated that 8 per cent of Ammonia is enough for all crops—more is injurious, besides expensive. Indeed, many prefer the No. 2 Manipulated Guano, because it contains a larger percentage of Phosphate of Lime. In Maryland and Virginia this article has been in use extensively for several years on all crops, renovating the old and worn out lands of those States. Our sister State, South Carolina, is a large patron. Cotton planters give it the decided preference where it has been tried.

We beg that you will at least try this article if you are not disposed to venture largely, and assist us in distributing what we believe a noble good. It is very simple in mode of application, and can be applied broadcast, in hill or drill, in quantity precisely as Peruvian Guano, say from 100 to 300 lbs per acre, with the benefit of improvement to lands the more liberally it is applied.

We offer it at $36 per ton of 2,000 lbs. for No. 1, and $31 per ton of 2,000 lbs. for No. 2. Terms: cash or its equivalent.

R. M. Oates & Co.

Charlotte, February 8, 1859. 2m—2

P. S.—Pamphlets giving full accounts and testimonials will be promptly furnished when requested.

We call your attention to the certificate of Dr. J. M. Strong, who is one of our best known citizens and Planters:

CHARLOTTE, N. C., Oct. 27, 1858.

Mr. John Kettlewell, Dear Sir: I have tried several kinds of fertilizers the past Spring, viz: Peruvian Guano; Manipulated Guano, prepared by yourself; Guano, from the Lodi manufacturing company of New York; also, stable and cow house manure; all of which I applied to cotton; and I will say that I prefer Kettlewell's Manipulated Guano to all of the above named. I used the Manipulated in the same hill with the Peruvian, and in the same quantities, about 125 lbs. to the acre, and I can see no difference in the yield nor in the quality of the cotton. In the same proportions I believe the Manipulated Guano will make as great a yield on cotton, and the quality will be equally as good, as the Peruvian Guano; and it has decidedly the advantage in price and also in the facility of applying it to land. So, at the same price I would prefer the Manipulated Guano. I believe the Peruvian Guano is too high to make it pay in the climate as the drought of the summer here make our crops too uncertain to use readily manure. Respectfully, yours,

J. M. STRONG.
