DAILY SENTINEL.

WM. E. PELL, PROPRIETOR.

THE GEORGIA CONSERVATIVE CONVENTION—CLOSING ADDRESS OF THE HON. B. H. HILL, ITS PRESIDENT.

Gentlemen of the Convention: Before pronouncing this Convention adjourned, I hope you will pardon me the liberty of a parting word.

Your work in Convention is done, and well done. It will carry gladness to the hearts of your constituents and inspire hope for your children. And thousands of noble and true men far away, and throughout the North, will read the words of manliness and patriotism which you have this day pronounced, and will rejoice and take courage.

Too long have the Southern people been traduced, their motives maligned, and their purposes misrepresented. And by whom? By those who had closed their mouths, and denied them the opportunity of being heard in either refutation or explanation.—Too long have the faithful defenders of the Constitution and of our rights under the Constitution been compelled to stand in the breach and wage the battle in our behalf without the encouragement of a word from their victims of the bayonet. At last you have spoken, and every word you have uttered and every meaning you have felt or expressed brands the charges of your enemies and oppressors as slanderous and traitorously false.

Never, my friends, be afraid of the truth. Never be afraid to speak, to act, to defend the truth. In proportion as you have been maligned the Constitution has been tattered and torn. Too long have you been absent from the Council of the Nation, and during that absence the Constitution has been disregarded, despoiled, trampled upon and cast out. And now, with glad hearts and glorious welcome, the true friends of liberty will hail your coming again! And you will return with an earnest purpose to aid those whom you have left too long in unequal contest, in restoring the Constitution of our fathers and the prosperity of our common country. Do not be discouraged. Stand by the Constitution, and the day of your restoration and its triumph is sure and near.

True, your work in Convention has ended; but the great work has yet to be accomplished. Go home, and as you go, and when you go, speak words of encouragement and counsel to your neighbors. Let it be in your hearts, in your actions, in your determinations, that this fair land in which we were born and reared ought not, need not, and shall not be brought under the dominion of the negro and destroyed as the heritage of our children.

Organize, in every county organize. Not in secret hidden conclaves as those who do evil, but in the open daylight and before the eyes of men, for the sun in the clearest hour of his noon is not brighter than the glorious purpose which moves you and the high work which you seek to accomplish.

You represent a people who know what suffering means. They have lost their property and buried their children and comrades; they have seen their cities burned and their country laid waste; even now they see their industry paralyzed and their fields lying idle, while their coffers are exhausted and their garners are empty. But, thank God, Georgians are honorable; and beaming in your faces and sparkling from your eyes I read the firm resolve that Georgians shall ever be honorable! You have indulged no spirit of hate and engaged in no personal animadversions. You have organized no party for spoils, for you are saving a country for your children.

Earnestly hoping that when we meet again we shall still be able to say we have a country worthy of our fathers, worthy of their children and worthy for our children, and with a Constitution supreme over all its enemies, I now pronounce this Convention adjourned without a day.

THE LAWFUL JURY REINSTATED.

The order of Gen. Hancock reinstating trial by jury, to its former basis under the laws of the State, serves to reveal, even more than has been in regard to civil offices, the spirit and policy of his administration. This order is founded in the audacious propositions that it is for the legislative power of the State to prescribe who shall be eligible as jurors, and for the courts of the State to decide upon the qualifications of jurors as defined by existing legislative provisions. Gen. Hancock's predecessor was not content to leave the composition of juries to be determined by the judiciary in exercising its legitimate function of interpreting and applying the laws.

A ground for military interference in this matter was sought in the assumed identity of the qualified voters under the Constitution and laws of the State with the voters under the reconstruction act of Congress.—By the laws of the State it is required that jury lists for this city shall be drawn from the aggregate of qualified voters. But it does not follow that the negroes made voters for an especial occasion by the reconstruction act form a lawful part of this aggregate. According to the Constitution and laws of the State, only white men are qualified voters. It is possible, even, that the Convention elected mainly by negro votes, may lift the limitation of suffrage to white men female. At all events, before black jurors can be legally drawn by the officers of our State Courts, while the State law respecting juries remains as it is, the Convention referred to must adopt a Constitution which shall confer suffrage on the blacks; and this Constitution must be ratified, as provided in the reconstruction act, and be recognized as obligatory and operative by the judiciary of the State. To overlook the distinctions here indicated, and to seek an argument for a flagrant military interference with the rightful powers of the judiciary by confusing persons who have voted under the self limiting reconstruction act with the qualified voters under the existing Constitution and laws of the State, was something below military pettifoggery.—New Orleans Crescent.

—From the National Intelligencer.

In California the resolutions adopted by the State Convention were unanimous in their condemnation of negro suffrage and the usurpation of Congress; and Governor Haight, immediately after his election was announced, addressed the citizens of San Francisco, and proclaimed that the vote of the State was a protest of the people of California against the military bills.

In Ohio the resolutions under which the convention was conducted denounced, in the most emphatic manner, negro equality in the North and negro supremacy in the South.

In New Jersey the language of the canvass decided against the action and measures of the Congress in every respect mentioned.

And in Pennsylvania the resolutions of the Convention were worthy of the palmy days of Virginia, and reasserted the great fundamental doctrines of the Virginia and Kentucky platform of '98-'99.

In every State in which the negro suffrage issue was presented, they discarded it with an indignant uprising heretofore unexampled. In Ohio there was a change of nearly one hundred thousand votes. In Pennsylvania the Democratic party overcome the large balance of seventeen thousand standing against them. And in New York the Republican majority of 1866 was not only overcome, but a Democratic majority was carried of nearly fifty thousand.

It follows, then, beyond all cavil, that the people of the North and West have plainly and most substantially condemned and repudiated the negrophobiac policy of the Republican party in Congress. It is also perfectly evident that the mischievous innovations and usurpations of the Republican party, combined of an equal proportion of illiberal Puritanism and licentious optimism, through the legislative power of the Congress, have been equally condemned by the people. It is no less clear that the people have pronounced, with a voice of thunder, which had better be heeded, the military bills to be alike offensive, repulsive, illegal, and inexpedient to American freemen.

Will Congress, in its agency for the Republican party, now venture on the tremendous experiment of hearding the Northern and Western people? Will the usurpers and revolutionists still have the hardihood and daring effrontery to press their disorganizing schemes to a conclusion so ominous of foreshadowed dangers? We shall see.

Office N. C. Railroad Company,
COMPANY SHOPS, N. C.,
Nov. 20th, 1867.

MOST OF YOU HAVING AGREED WITH MY predecessor, Mr. Wolfe, to take care for your old bonds, I take this method of informing you we are now ready for the exchange.

To capitalists I would say, we will sell $200,000 of eight per cent. coupon bonds, secured by mortgage on the Road, and payable in five, ten or twenty years, as the purchaser may choose, interest payable semi-annually.

The bond of the Company is above PAR.

Bonds to first title date will be issued.

The property mortgaged to secure the payment of these bonds is worth by company's own valuation of it, three times as much as the bonds.

The bonds will be sold only at par.

THE

AMERICAN BITTERS.

The Great Southern Tonic,

AND THE MOST PALATABLE STOMACHIC EVER USED.

FOR THE CURE OF DYSPEPSIA, DISORDERED Digestion, Flatulency, Irregular Circulation of the Blood, Bilious Complaints arising from a morbid condition of the Stomach and Bowels. An Elegant Tonic is delivered across all the Digestive Organs, and the system generally. For the use of invalids it is the most wholesome and efficacious Tonic in the world. It strengthens nature and enables the system to triumph over disease. In weakness attended with tremulous and general nervous derangement, it is peculiarly adapted, giving strength and tone to the nerves. To delicate Ladies and Children it is invaluable—and to that class as a pleasant and agreeable Tonic is wanted, this should be used.

Dr. Johnson, F. Bruce, one of the most scientific and well known Physicians in the Southern States, testifies to its great value, besides many others who have been greatly benefited by the use of these Bitters.
