AIR POWER NEEDED TO WIN THE WAR

Dr. Wayne Orton Delivers Talks And Says 'We Got To Get Air Condition'

CHAPEL HILL, April 2.—(AP)—Declaring that air power is the supreme necessity in winning this war Dr. Dwayne Orton, president of Stockton Junior college in California and at present educational consultant for the Civil Aeronautics Administration, said here today that "we have got to air condition America now—today. It is a matter of fly or die."

Dr. Orton was one of the principal speakers at the sixth annual meeting of the North Carolina School Board association which brought several hundred members from various sections of the state to the one-day session at the university.

Other speakers today included State Superintendent of Public Instruction Clyde A. Erwin, Dr. Franklin H. McNutt, head of the Education Department of the Woman's college of the university H. E. Stacy, of Lumberton, past president of the School Board association; Supt. Fred Waters of Hendersonville; President W. A. Dees of Goldsboro, who presided, and Controller W. D. Carmichael, Jr., of the university.

"We (America) have been the inventor of the airplane but we have missed its strategic value," Dr. Orton said, pointing out that every major loss to the enemy thus far in the war has been due to superior air power of Germany and Japan.

He appealed to the school men to begin preparing people now to live in an air world by infusing aeronautical knowledge and preflight courses into the schools.

Prof. Guy B. Philips, executive secretary of the association, was in charge of the program.

Greetings were extended by Supt. J. C. Lockhart, president of the North Carolina Education association and Mrs. J. S. Blair president of the North Carolina Congress of Parents and Teachers

H. E. Isenhour of Salisbury chairman of legislative committee, gave the report from that body.

The association re-affirmed its stand on approving the culmination of the 12th grade and the extending of school, attendance age from 14 to 16.

Mr. Dees was re-elected president of the association; N. S. McArhur of Fayetteville, vice-president, and Temple Gobbel, Chapel Hill, reelected treasurer.

Superintendent Erwin explained the mechanics of installing the 12th grade into the state schools and pointed out that the number of teachers employed will depend on the number of students, not on the number of grades.

Dr McNutt traced the growth of democracy in this country in an unusual manner and declared that on the schools depends the future of this country. "Democracy is slipping in this crisis today but the schools constitute one place where it sill works"

Mr. Stacy and Superintendent Waters described plans for the campaign of the association to promote the adoption of the proposed constitutional amendment to set up a central state board of education.

Mr. Dees, delivering his presidential address, emphasized the importance of preparing North Carolina boys and girls to enter colleges on equal terms with those of other states. "We must meet the challenge of this goal or we will lose our system of free public education," he said.

Welcoming the school men to Chapel Hill, Mr. Carmichael told them that the university is doing all in its power to aid in the war effort. Pointing out that so far state college and the university here have not felt the expected depletion in enrollment, he said "the only way enrollment may be maintained in the coming year is for us to rise to greater heights in war training on the campus." 2

Nazi White Paper Foreword Written By U. S. Official, Dies Prober Tells House

WASHINGTON, Apr. 2— (AP) —A member of the Dies committee told the House today that C. Hartley Grattan, economic analyst for the Board of Economic Warfare man "White Paper" which atwrote the foreword to a 1940 Gerheaded by Vice President Wallace, tempted "to lay the blame for the invasion of Poland on certain American officials.

"This foreword," added the committeeman, Rep. Voorhis (D-Calif), "consists all the way through of a vigorous denunciation of this country's foreign policy of support to England and France."

Voorhis emphasized that the foreword was written at a time when Russia and Germany had a non-aggression pact. He noted that Grattan was one of the men mentioned by Rep. Dies (D-Tex) in a letter last Sunday to Vice President Wallace, which charged that 35 officials or employes of the Economic Warfare Board had been linked with communist-front organizations.

Voorhis made his remarks about the time that the White House was striking out at Dies, chairman of the house committee on un-American activities. William D. Hassett, a presidential secretary, told reporters that Axis radio stations had been repeating the Dies charges against the 35 warfare board officials. Hassett said that a German station, another in Vichy and station Debunk, which purports to be in this country, but actually is in Europe, had broadcast Dies' accusations.

Hassett asserted that the White House was not drawing any conclusions, adding that he thought the "conclusions are quite obvious."

At Jasper, Tex., Dies replied that the best way to stop Axis powers from quoting such charges is to rid the public payroll of men who have been affiliated with communist-controlled organizations.

Rep. Voorhis, who discussed Grattan in the house today, has not always seen eye to eye with Dies on committee procedure. In fact, he complained earlier in the week that the charges in Dies' letter to Wallace had been made without the knowledge of the committee, and without having given a hearing to the men accused.

Today, however, he said he had received information about Grattan which "makes a most serious picture."

"On yesterday, "he said," it was brought to my attention that Mr. C. Hartley Grattan in May of 1940, which was between the time of the signing of the pact between Russia and Germany and the time that Germany atacked Russia, wrote the foreword to the so-called 'German White Paper,' which was an attempt to lay the blame for the invasion of Poland on certain American officials, and that this foreword consists all the way through of a vigorous denunciation of this country's foreign policy of support to England and France.

"The German White Paper was distributed in America through Manfred Zapp, the head of Transocean news service, which was shown conclusively to be a Nazi propaganda agency.

"I understand that the vice-president has stated that thorough investigation will be made of all these charges in order that justice may be done to individuals and the government service protected as well. I believe that in connection with such an investigation this fact about the German White Paper, taken together with the other matters about Mr. Grattan presented in Mr. Dies' letter makes a most serious picture indeed so far as he is concerned."

Noted Obstetrician Dies In Chicago

CHICAGO, Apr. 2—(AP)—Dr. Joseph B. DeLee, 72, world-famed obstetrician who believed that permanent peace would spur the birthrate, died today of a heart attack.

His death closed a half-century of ceaseless work on behalf of mothers and babies. Besides founding Chicago's lying-in hospital and assisting in deliverance of upward of 8,000 babies, Dr. DeLee found time to write a half-dozen huge volumes on obstetrics.

He taught obstetrics at Northwestern university for 32 years and since 1929 had been professor emeritus in that subject at the University of Chicago. In 1895 he founded the Lying-In hospital in a slum tenement and lived to see it grow into a $2,000,000 institution.

"Bring permanent peace into the world," he said in an interview on his 70th birthday, "and people will bring more babies into it. Many women approaching motherhood have told me: 'Doctor, I hope it's a girl, then she won't have to got to war.'"
