From Georgia.

Chattanooga, Nov. 13.—Nothing of importance from the front.

A party of Georgia State Troops and Indians killed, on the line between Georgia and North Carolina, the notorious Bryson and thirty-four of his gang.

A special dispatch dated Sweetwater, Nov. 12th, says the Federals have removed all their surplus to Knoxville for safety and now live on half rations. Some recaptured prisoners were executed here yesterday.

Another special dispatch says that two Yankee officers have deserted and come in who report that Grant is soon to assault Lookout. The army is on half rations.

From Charleston.

CHARLESTON, Nov. 13.—The firing of the enemy has been rapid and continuous all day from the mortar and rifle guns. No Monitors were engaged. An occasional shot and shell was thrown by the enemy at Moultrie.—Some few shots fell at Mount Pleasant. We have heard no casualties. No report from the Fort this evening.

(SECOND DISPATCH.)

CHARLESTON, Nov. 14.—Moderate firing on Sumter was kept up all night. No report from the Fort yet this morning. One man was killed at Moultrie yesterday.

(THIRD DISPATCH.)

CHARLESTON, Nov. 14.—The enemy's fire on Sumter continues steady. Gregg opened fire this afternoon on James Island and Moultrie. Lamar and Battery Simpkins replied. No casualties reported this evening. The monitors fired a few shots.

From Richmond

RICHMOND, Nov. 13.—Intelligence from Northern Virginia to-night shows but little change in the situation.—Meade is believed to be making his way to the lower Fords of the Rapidan. The impression is gaining ground in the army that he does not desire to bring on an engagement. A reconnoitering party of Yankees came to Liberty Mills yesterday, and were driven back.

Gen. Imboden, when last heard from, was in Alleghany County. The report of his fight in the Valley and being wounded is considered premature.

The Georgia Legislature.

MILLEDGEVILLE, Nov. 11th.—The Hon. J. H. Lumpkin has been unanimously confirmed by the Senate, Judge of the Supreme Court of the State of Georgia.

Both Houses have passed Resolutions requesting the Secretary of War to revoke the authority of Impressing Officers and appoint citizens not liable to conscription.

AFFAIRS IN EAST TENNESSEE.

A correspondent of the Atlanta Confederacy writes from Dalton on the 6th, giveth the following information in East Tennessee:

I returned this morning from a visit to our East Tennessee department. It is pleasant to notice the energetic energy in our East Tennessee territory. The Southern portion of the country fully, since our arms retrieved the Hiawassee, are [illegible] and, by hoeing their crops, [illegible] their devastated fields. All the roads from the great roads, which were subject to be worn by passing, from September, have been wantonly injured from Loudon to Calhoun. The enemy has [illegible] very little corn or other [illegible]. Finding from these central channels of [illegible] understand there [illegible] wheat, ungathered [illegible]. Our commissaries may still obtain large supplies [illegible] I hear that beyond the [illegible] exhausted the country [illegible] since Vaughn has gone [illegible] for substitutes and [illegible] from Southern men, these have [illegible] Union [illegible] almost justly [illegible] Lincoln thoughtfully [illegible] would not have been adopted [illegible] been that Andrew Johnson of the Democratic party, and all the Whig members in the House of Representatives [illegible] it. An awful responsibility [illegible] who have thus misrepresented [illegible].

The reoccupancy of our section of the State from the Vandals who now hold it, is one [illegible] topic from Georgia to the Coast. I understand other measures are already adopted for its certain [illegible] accomplishment. I may not detail them [illegible] and will be effective. Vaughn will have his full share in the enterprise. The prestige which [illegible] with him of having twice before beaten Burnside and Hooker will stimulate the courage and endurance of our officers, and at the same time create despondence and panic in the ranks of the enemy. I must not be more specific.

A friend now in Abingdon writes me that the force of the enemy in upper East Tennessee is principally between our railroad and Kogersville ready to fall back to their fortifications at Cumberland Gap. He estimates this force at less than ten thousand. Should General Bragg co-operate with Longstreet, and each move simultaneously, though in opposite directions, we may soon see East Tennessee without an invading foe. Everything is being done on our part to push up our forces and supplies.—The utmost capacity of our railroad will be put into requisition. President Wallace has increased his motive power and the number of his cars. I saw him early last week going in a hand car along his road patiently and carefully examining for himself the condition of the track, the water-tanks, wood sheds, &c., &c. His supervisorship of the whole is keen, and his vigilance unabated. In our Hegira he brought off safe not only the rolling stock of the company, but all its moveable effects from every work shop and station on the road. Nothing has been lost.—His vigilance has been such that although no schedule can at this time of urgent haste be invariably followed on the main trunk and the branch, yet no collision has taken place and not a single passenger or operator has been killed. No considerable delay has yet occurred, although the tories along the line have, in three or four instances, perhaps more, resorted to the policy advised in 1861 by Johnson, Nelson and others, of injuring the railroad. Last week they drew the spikes out in several places and left the rails lying loose in their proper places and causing thereby the running off of the trains. They have also cut the wires and taken two miles of it away. No vigilance of railroad officers can guard against such accidents, and the military ought to scour the whole country near our road and capture or kill every miscreant and hang at once such accomplices. Once Friday night one of these offenders crept up to the house of Mr. Tucker, in Bradley county, near the railroad, and shot him dead, wounding at the same time one of our soldiers near him. You have already heard of the killing of Harley Jr., in Blount. We may expect such occurrences while a Federal or any enemy remains in the country. Their speedy expulsion or their death should be the aim of all.

Heavy skirmishing is reported on our extreme right yesterday. I have no details.

By a private letter from Abingdon I hear that in the fight at Rheatown two days since Frank Bounds, Jr., a tory renegade, was killed, and two of our men, Barton Hackney and Bain Ramsey, taken prisoners.

I sent you yesterday two copies of the Knoxville Bulletin. I hope you will give your readers a synopsis of the revenue system authorized and adapted by the Washington Depot. Will our Union people expect further clemency on the part of our authorities?

FROM CHARLESTON.

The Mercury of Thursday says the following:

The enemy of late has somewhat changed his system of attack, pulling his bombardment at times more severely during the night than the day.

Mortar shelling by night was first resorted to on Monday night. On that night, also, the number of rifled shots was greater than on any preceding night, one hundred and eighty-six mortar shells were thrown, of which fifty-nine and one hundred and twenty-four rifled shot, of which sixty-two missed.

The enemy has not engaged in combating his heavy guns, none of his rifled shots being fired from higher ranges than he has hitherto employed. We are therefore probably justified in inferring that his heavy guns have been endamaged by the late storm upon them, and perhaps, that his stock of heavy ammunition has been considerably reduced.

We have no report of the number of shots for the last two days. On Tuesday night the fire was rather severe, but grew languid on Wednesday. Gregg only firing at intervals of from fifteen to twenty minutes. The mortar bombard, in the fort from sunset to two p. m.

The only casualty that has reached us is that of private M. A. Brown, Company C, 25th S. C. V., who was slightly wounded, on Monday night, in the foot and ankle.

At half past ten o'clock last night the following dispatch was received from Fort Johnson:

FORT JOHNSON, Nov. 11, 10 p. m.

Brigadier General Gardner:—The Yankees have just held a small light on their outer lines, between Wagner and Gregg. From what I could see and from the report of our advance guard, I think two companies of Abolitionists must have [illegible] each other in the darkness, when upon their discovering each other, several hundred small arms were fired. I am ignorant of the result.—Everything quiet.

(Signed) GEORGE P. HARRISON,
Colonel Commanding Fort.

The Mercury of Friday says:

We can form no correct idea of the number of shots fired at Sumter on Tuesday and Wednesday. On that day there were forty-six rifled shots, of which three or four may have fallen short, and a much larger number missed, and thirty shots from the mortars, of which [illegible] missed.

The musketry firing along the shore on Morris Island on Tuesday is now understood to have been a device of the enemy to attract the [illegible] of our men, and to bring them to the parapet. This supposition is made plausible by the fact that immediately after the firing a strong calcium light was thrown on the fort from Gregg, and the next moment four or five guns were discharged at once. There was but one victim of this very Yankee artifice—a sergeant, who was wounded by the fragment of a shell.

The bombardment on Wednesday displayed an increase of vigor—Gregg and a single monitor keeping up a continuous fire on the fort throughout the day. At the hour of going to press the fire was still sustained with considerable severity. The calcium light, also, was again exhibited.

About midday, a monitor and a gunboat rounded the point, and entertained themselves for an hour with the harmless amusement of shelling Sullivan's Island from a respectful distance.

Fort Moultrie, and the batteries on James Island, continued their daily fire upon Gregg. Battery Simkins is said to have done some admirable shooting. After the explosion of one of its shells, several men at the Yankee fort were observed to be borne off in litters.

GEN. HOOD AT WILMINGTON.—The Journal of Thursday says:

We noticed that the train from the South which early or rather late this morning, brought in a stand of arms the gallant General Hood, who lost a leg at Chickamauga, Wetherd, and we believe Franklin, that he is to reside some time in Wilmington as the guest of General Whiting.

He was accompanied by several officers, among whom we presume was his physician. In one apartment was on the wounded General, who remarked Brigadier G. W. Smith, now a citizen of the State of Georgia.

We were glad to see that General Hood was able to travel, but it will greatly surprise those who thought he more than prudence would dictate. We, may however, that none but good effects will result to the result of this railroad trip.

Like many other, in a [illegible] Hood is in personal appearance [illegible] conditional from a [illegible] taxes rendering [illegible] our fair of light brown and [illegible] Hood looks like a [illegible] and [illegible] and in [illegible] and [illegible] in the field.
