WM. B. PELL, PROPRIETOR.

Practical Reconstruction in the South.

Clover four feet high is a common thing near Rome, Ga.

Hardly a drunken man was to be seen in Montgomery, Ala., on election day.

It is proposed to improve the drainage of the site reserve in Macon, Ga., at an expense of $30,000.

A schooner called the Central City was launched at Macon last week. She is destined for Brunswick.

The South Carolina Railroad is laying steel rails in that part of the track in the depot yard as an experiment.

The agitation for a new Court House in Macon is revived with some show of success. Over $20,000 is already paid in.

The Montgomery (Ala.) State Journal, November 5, contains eight columns of bankrupt notices. Rubbing out and beginning anew.

The nut and sugar bearing trees in Virginia are beginning to attract attention from farmers and mechanics as valuable sources of profitable commerce. The pecan nut can be raised in great quantities.

It has been decided to hold a State Fair of the Agricultural Society of Georgia.—The City Council of Macon has taken the affair in hand. It is suggested that the Legislature appropriate $10,600 in aid of the undertaking.

The Augusta Constitutionalist, urging the importance of burning cotton stalks to destroy the breed of the worms, remarks that "roasted eggs will not hatch," which confirms the old proverb that there is reason in roasting eggs.

The editor of the Iuka (Miss.) Gazette is boasting over receiving a couple of ten gallon kegs of sorghum from a gentleman from the North, who is making this year an ocean of the article of fine quality in Tishomingo county.

The Marion Crescent says:—We have been informed that a planter in this vicinity recently received $180 for a bale of Zipporah cotton, which was sold in New York at fourteen cents per pound higher than the ordinary upland cotton.

The Yorkville (S. C.) Enquirer says:—On Monday last a considerable amount of land was disposed of at auction by assignees in bankruptcy. The prices realized in some cases show an improved feeling in this species of property. The bids were all for cash.

The Columbus (Ga.) Sun of the 4th. inst. says:—The general agent of the Southwestern Railroad Company notifies shippers of cotton that freights from Columbus to Savannah have been reduced to sixty cents per 100 pounds, and that five days' notice will be given when any change is to be made in rates.

The Fauquier (Va.) Land Journal makes a most encouraging exhibit in regard to the sales of Virginia lands and the accession of new settlers within the past twelve months. It says that "more than $500,000 worth of property has been sold to actual settlers within a radius of ten miles around Warrenton since the close of the war."

Parties from the North engaged in the shipbuilding interest are now here (says the Norfolk Journal,) at Armstrong's sawmill, getting out perfectly straight timbers for a ship to be built at New York. In that city they have newly invented machinery for bending the timbers of a ship to the required shape. Heretofore the difficulty with timber getters has been to get crooked stuff for timbers; now, the difficulty is to get suitable straight stuff.

At a recent land sale in Houston county, Ga., a tract, containing 449 acres, about three miles from Fort Valley, and on which there were only moderate improvements, sold for $5,040. A tract lying immediately on the other side of the road from this, containing 500 acres, with no improvements, sold for $2,500. Another piece of land, containing twenty-four acres, and on which there were few improvements, and until so a tanyard, sold for $500. A half acre city lot in Fort Valley was also sold, belonging to the same estate, for $1,005.

The Charlottesville Chronicle says: "We are glad to see that our Virginia cloth factories are being gradually revived and are sending out even better cloth than before the war. We notice in one of our exchanges reference to the Buckland factory in Fauquier, speaking in high terms of the cloth made. Our Charlottesville woolen mills, which have only been in full operation for about six months, are now turning out cloth of as good quality probably as can be made in the United States. On a recent visit to Norfolk we saw it for sale there and, strange to say, the jobbing house which sold it there purchased it in New York! Made in Virginia, it had been shipped to New York and back and passed through several unnecessary hands, with a profit added each time of course, before it got back to the Virginia consumer. The fact, however, of its being selected in New York by the Norfolk merchant and brought back shows that it compares well with the goods from other places."

From the Petersburg Index.

THE LESPEDEZA, OR JAPAN CLOVER.

We have two or three times, in our local columns, called the attention of farmers to this new variety of clover, which is regarded in the South as superior in value to all other forage plants. It is also esteemed as being equally valuable as an improver of the soil. It has, without much aid from the hand of man, but chiefly by the agency of birds and animals, been extended over a wide area; and its appearance is everywhere hailed by Southern planters as an inestimable blessing. It has the merit of establishing itself even on impoverished fields, and taking full possession, in spite of broom straw and young pines, of brambles and Bermuda grass. It covers the soil with a dense herbage, striking its roots deep into the subsoil, and drawing therefrom materials for the use of the plant—the whole serving in a short period to renovate the surface, and render it capable of yielding new crops of grain.

We have the testimony of various writers of the highest respectability that the Japan clover possesses these merits. Mr. Ravenel, of South Carolina, an eminent botanist, published a highly interesting paper to The Land We Love, which was published in that periodical in last March. Since then, the Rev. R. Mott, of North Carolina, an esteemed clergyman of the Episcopal Church, has written several articles on the subject for the Southern Planter, the Farmers' Gazette, and the Richmond Dispatch.—By this time the plant ought to be pretty well known, by reputation, to the intelligent portion of the agricultural community.

That we have great confidence in these and other authorities, we are free to confess. Even after making much allowance for the enthusiasm of the writers, a wide margin is still left, on which to base an estimate of the merits of the plant. Where every writer certifies to its value, it is certainly entitled to a good degree of confidence; and though it may be better adapted to a more Southern climate, where it is found to flourish as if indigenous to the soil, yet as it has made its way successfully to our next door neighbors, there is every reason to believe that it is capable of holding its own here nearly or quite as well.

And here we cannot forbear citing a few of Mr. Mott's remarks: "I cannot but regard the plant, (he says,) whether we consider the readiness with which it takes hold and flourishes on any kind of soil, its astonishing powers of self-propagation by seed, or its inestimable value as a fertilizer, as a wonderful gift of God to this country just at this time. It is just the thing that we want—a thing that may be turned to profit with the least amount of labor of any thing I know of; that will enrich every inch of land it gets a stand upon; that will kill out sedge grass, and all other useless encumberers of the ground; that will preserve our fresh lands and restore the old; that will furnish large amounts of summer pasturage and winter provender; and, in fine, is fitted to revolutionize the whole agricultural system of the South, making it one of the finest stock raising and grain growing countries in the world."

That the Japan clover will grow as far North as Petersburg, and probably much farther, may be judged from the fact that the writer of this article procured a small quantity of seed last spring from a friend in South Carolina and sowed them in a poor spot in the garden in April. They soon came up, and the plants made a handsome growth during the summer, with a tendency to spread over the ground rather than to grow erect, but affording a quantity of herbage. The blossoms began to come in profusion about the middle of September, and the seeds to ripen from a month to six weeks thereafter.

Though this clover takes possession of the ground, it is never in the way of plowing or cultivation. Being an annual, it dies out in winter, leaving a full supply of seed to yield a crop the ensuing year, and, indeed, for years after the land has been in culture.

We would strongly urge our agricultural friends to try at least a single acre, if no more.

A Most Wonderful and Successful Invention!
NEW METHOD OF WASHING CLOTHES WITHOUT LABOR.
THE AUTOMATIC
CLOTHES WASHER AND BOILER,
Awarded the highest Testimonial wherever exhibited in the United States.

THIS BOILER OPERATES UPON PURELY philosophical principles.

It is self-acting and dispenses entirely with labor and the wear of clothes.

The hot suds and steam, by the action of fire, are driven up through tubes, poured upon the Clothes and forced through the fabric with astonishing rapidity, cleansing it perfectly without any rubbing. It has been thoroughly tested and pronounced unequalled as a Clothes Washer by those who have used it.

All fabrics, from the finest lace to the bed-blanket, can be washed perfectly and with ease without the aid of the rubbing-board. For Flannels it is invaluable as the rubbing, rolling, and pressing process, must necessarily full them, more or less.

It is truly a labor and clothes saving invention. Washing will no longer be a hardship, and washing day no longer a terror and a dread to housewives.

The invention can be used in any boiler, and the low price of the article places it within the reach of every family.

If the directions are strictly followed, success is certain.

The saving in the wear of clothes will very soon pay for the outlay.

It is estimated that 200 to 300 gallons of boiled suds pass through the clothes in thirty minutes; this being the longest time required for cleansing a boiler full of clothes.

Having purchased the exclusive interest and control of the Automatic Clothes Washer and Boiler, for North Carolina, we have established a depot in Raleigh, where we are prepared to fill orders or to sell COUNTY RIGHTS. Letters addressed to us at Raleigh, N. C., or Portsmouth, Va., will receive prompt attention.
