VOL. IV. RALEIGH, N. C., TUESDAY EVENING, MAY 4, 1869. NO. 223

The Daily Sentinel.

JOSIAH TURNER, Jr., EDITOR.

ASHEVILLE, N. C.

The intelligent and observing correspondent of the Wilmington Journal, Dr. J. B. Purcell, in a recent letter, furnishes that paper with some interesting facts and observations, of a part of which we propose to avail ourself. In a subsequent number we propose extending our quotations.—Speaking of the TEMPERATURE of Asheville, Dr. Purcell remarks:

"By well authenticated records its mean heat was last summer 74 degrees. It was hardly 1 degree higher than that of St. Paul. In winter it is 22 degrees warmer than the latter. Its warmest summer seldom if ever reaches 85 degrees F. It is said that of two hundred and eighty-six points at which the temperature was noted east of the Rocky Mountains, three only are reported to have had a maximum of heat as low as Asheville. This fact alone ought to command attention, and especially so the attention of those who seek temporary homes in the embrace of the Rocky Mountain range.

Concerning the GRAPE CULTURE he says:

"Though this is one of the best grape countries, the vine is not cultivated. It grows wild everywhere, and of every kind. General Martin very kindly showed me nine barrels of wine made from grapes of this character. I tasted all. Some had a little too much of the bitter principle, but time will overcome that. One had a flavor not unlike the Scuppernong. The Catawba is peculiar to this country. The hilly slopes of the French Broad will be one long clothed with vineyards. Emigration is desired. It alone is required. The settlers will blast out the rocks, and will build terraces, and their dwellings from them. The Railroad will run for many miles in the valley of this river, and exhibit on either side scenes among the most picturesque of the universe."

The following observations upon cheese making are useful and suggestive:

"Besides this initiation to the pressing of the vine, we have also that of cheese making. "The Elk Mountain Cheese Factory" began its existence last Spring, and made its first cheese April 29th, 1868. I eat some of this, and found it as palatable as any I saw in your city. The last made was in December, 1868. The company milked during the season about one hundred and seventy five cows. Up to November they made twenty five thousand pounds of cheese. They made three sizes, with corresponding prices. First at twenty cents. Second at twenty-five. Third at thirty cents per pound. From twelve to fifteen cows were lost during the Winter. This was mainly because the cattle had to be wintered out, and proper attention was not given them. Next Winter the company will attend to this matter, and there will be no such loss. Recently seven have been lost by getting into a quaggy bottom, from which, being heavy with calf, they were unable to come. In experimenting, losses have to be entertained. Cheese making here is an experiment. But it is likewise a success. The average cost of cows is a little less than twenty one dollars. Land may be bought for one dollar up to ten per acre. Labor is not dear. It can be produced for ten to fifteen dollars per month. The people are not in the habit of wintering their stock. They will have to do this if they wish to succeed in herd raising, or in cheese making. The company's farm, where this factory is located, is almost six miles from Asheville. It consists of one thousand five hundred acres. About eight hundred is in grass. These eight hundred cost ten dollars per acre. The other seven were added. This property belonged originally to Mr. Woodfin. He started the enterprise. Two Summers since he was in New York, saw Governor Seymour, who took him to some of those in which he is interested, and from him he got the idea.

Two more cheese factories will commence this year. One as far from the town as the "Elk Mountain Factory." The other on the Swananoa, about two miles from town. This will be known as the "Swananoa Cheese Factory." I understand it will be established on the Northern principle—every man who sends in milk from the surrounding region is interested. He will get cheese at the end of the season in proportion to the amount of milk to his credit.—No ice is needed here in the making of cheese. The Springs are cool, and the Summer, you see, is not warmer, nor as warm, as is New York, where it is so extensively manufactured. As good cheese can be made here as in any part of the States. It will not say that it can be made cheaper. It will be made much cheaper than it is at present. The grazing is good. The land needs plenty of cultivation."

Here is a war reminiscence that is characteristic to say the least:

"Asheville has one interesting fact of the war about it, and I have it from the lips of one who was a prime actor on that stage in this vicinity. While the truce was existing between Johnston and Sherman, General Martin was commanding the passage of the Swananoa. The Federal General Gillem was at the other side, and being out of provisions he wanted to join his command in Tennessee. Both Generals recognized the truce of their respective commanders. Acting on this, General Martin not only permitted Gillem to pass him, and through Asheville, under the white flag, but he also supplied him with three days rations. The strict condition of the town was of course noticed by the Federals. About twenty-five men were in and around guarding the situation. Gillem wheeled his command next day on the place, charged and captured it together with its noble defender, thus repaying the soldier's magnanimity with strangy baser than punic. General Martin is robust, and a thoroughly Bona fide looking man in health. He will live fifty years yet."

MR. WASHBURNE AND THE PARISIANS.—The appointment of Mr. Washburne to represent this country at Paris is a compliment which the French do not fully appreciate. The French Courrier, of New York, admits that his appointment to the State Department in the first instance may have been designed to add to his respectability abroad. Mr. Washburne simply, without antecedents, without reputation, without education, without anything that convicted him of being a gentleman, would have cut a poor figure among the refined and highly cultivated people who compose the diplomatic circle of Paris. But ex Secretary of State—ex-Prime Minister!—he might pass for a personage of consideration. His rustic manners, his rude exterior, his neglected education, might be considered republican virtues. The inference would be that his occult merits might be in correspondence with his high honors. Paris is very complacent. It may shrug its shoulders and smile—it may appreciate General Grant's weakness for a friend—but it cannot help thinking there is a little want of tact in sending as homme-mal on such a mission.

The Courrier therefore ventures to remind General Grant of his promise, that if he should make a mistake in an appointment he would not hesitate to correct it.—The moment (says the Courrier) is come to confirm his words by his acts.—Rich. Whig.

BEAUTIFUL INK.

I HAVE JUST RECEIVED A LOT OF GROVE'S Homogeneic Ink for Writing and Copying Fluid. The most beautiful Ink yet introduced. It will not corrode, a pen may lie in it any length of time, it is literally warranted. It is nicely put up in bottles of various sizes, ranging in price at from 25 cts. to $1.00.
