JOSIAH TURNER, Jr., EDITOR.

THE PRESIDENT'S SPEECH—A STATESMAN'S OPPORTUNITY.

One would have supposed that if President Grant had possessed the mind and the resources of a statesman, he would have found ample opportunity, when called on the other day at the Boston Peace Jubilee for a speech, to say something else than what he did say, which runs in this wise:

"It affords me great pleasure to visit the capital of the State which has done so much for my support, and for the support of the Union in time of the great rebellion; a State whose principles did so much to give me whatever political position I have attained; and a State where I have received such a hearty welcome in other days."

This so-called Peace Jubilee is presumed to have been given in celebration of what is called the return of peace. Without stopping to inquire what sort of peace it is we have, and over which this Boston gathering met to rejoice, surely the occasion was one which presented to President Grant an opportunity—which no public man of any note could well have disregarded—to express his opinions on the foremost topics of the day—our relations with England, our relations with Cuba, and other foreign matters—the currency, taxation, the revenues, and especially on the condition and prospects of the lately rebellious Southern States as a part of the American Union, in the cessation of whose hostilities to the Federal Government consisted that peace which the assemblage before him were celebrating. But President Grant had not a word to say on any of these or kindred subjects. He contented himself with referring in the most execrable possible taste, with many "I's, and "me's and "me's, to what he chose to think, if he was collected enough to think anything, Massachusetts "had done" for "his support," which could only have been in worse taste by expressing also what had been likewise done through him and his disgraceful nepotism for his family and kindred. Had a statesman stood in his place he would have made such an exposition of public affairs, in a concise and pointed way, as would have been instructive to the country, and in so doing have filled the idea which the people have of a Chief Magistrate, who is supposed to be familiar with the principles, the workings, the condition of a government of which he is the chosen head and the chief administrator. Had any public man occupied his position who had opinions at all pertinent to this occasion and worthy of his position, he would certainly have expressed them. President Grant had participated conspicuously in the struggle which brought rebellion to a close, and had he nothing to say about peace!—nothing to say about the might and power, the resources, the valor which overcame so formidable a combination against the Union!—nothing to say, as the result of his reflections upon what had been accomplished, that would bear upon our destiny in the future!—no sincere and patriotic hope and confidence to express that two sections of our common country, having tested their strength, and each given the other cause for pride in the kinship that existed between them, because of the manhood and bravery they respectively displayed, might henceforth live together in kindly relations and reciprocal good will!—no recommendations, no appeals to make to the better feelings of the country to exercise, one section toward the other, charity, moderation, forbearance, and to eradicate animosity, resentment, mutual criminations, and all bitter and humiliating memories! To allow all considerations, all suggestions like these to pass by without a word, and to dwindle down in thought and speech to such utterances as those in which President Grant indulged, was not to have been expected from a President of the United States, nor can his remarks on this noted occasion, we think, be considered worthy of a statesman, which a President is presumed to be.

Altogether, we regret that we cannot congratulate the country upon the address with which President Grant has favored it. Perhaps, however, we ought to be thankful for what he has given us, nor look the gift horse in the mouth.—Nat. Intelligencer.

OUR FIRST LOVE.

The Frenchman who said that we always return to our first loves, saldone of the true things of human nature; and every mature mind knows its truth. We do return to our old loves, and no after affection ever destroys their place in our hearts. There are abundant reasons for this going back upon life—at least in thought and desire, if not in actual renewal. In youth, when our sensations were all new, and when the mere fact of living was in itself a joy, everything was painted in rose colors; everything was perfect, and each emotion in its novelty was a veritable revelation of the divine. We had not then become blunted by satiety, chilled or corrected by experience. We firmly believed that, what we felt, no one else had ever felt before, or would ever feel again with anything like our intensity; we firmly believed that all other people's emotions were tame and colorless beside our own. For youth is in itself a perpetual recreation of the primeval Adam, and each man lives for a time in a paradise of his own making, which no brother has ever shared. We and our special Eve dwell in it alone for just as long a time as the fervor and experience of our first passion last. The pity is that it lasts so short a time, and that we awake, while yet so young, to the consciousness that all this exquisite delight is only delusion, and that "the mind sees what it brings" in love as well as in other things. The love of a boy or girl is unique. It is never repeated in kind, though it may be even surpassed in degree; for the love of the mature heart is more powerful than that of the youthful; but the freshness, the ecstatic sense of certainty, the sublime belief in itself and its own immortality, in its unchangeableness and fixtures, characteristics of the first young love, have no echo even in the strength and fidelity of the mature.

A lady called at a dry good store yesterday, and after examining one of the articles, remembered that she wanted some cosmetic for her toilet, and turning to the proprietor of the store said, "Have you any Bloom of Youth?" The merchant over whose head more than fifty summers have passed, turned to one of his lady clerks and asked in a business way, "Have I any bloom of youth left?" The clerk looked up with a quiet smile, and answered, "I believe not, sir."

Largest amount of Losses to Widows and Orphans!
The Largest Revenue to the States. But two of the fifty-eight Companies permitted to do business in New York and Massachusetts had so large an income for the year 1868; but two had so large a number of Policies in force, but one among all those incorporated under the laws of the State of New York had so small a per centage of Expense to Income during the year 1868.
Its expenses are lower than most Companies', and consequently its ability to make and pay liberal dividends to the insured is greater than that of most other Companies. It is one of the great Companies of the land in Income, in Assets, in Number of Policies, in Amount Insured, in Solidity and Strength, in Soundness, Cheapness, Promptness, and Success. SPARKLING CATAWBA SPRINGS,
CATAWBA COUNTY, N. C.
THIS CELEBRATED WATERING PLACE, formerly called the North Carolina White Sulphur Springs, will be open for visitors on Tuesday, the first day of June next.
Being situated in the northwestern part of the State, in a country remarkable for its beauty and healthfulness—these, together with the virtue of the waters, make it one of the most desirable watering places to be found.
The MINERAL WATERS of these Springs are the White and Blue Sulphur and Chalybeate or Iron, and they possess all the finest qualities of these waters, and are sovereign remedies for all diseases of the liver, bowels, stomach and kidneys, eruptions of the skin, scrofula, weakness, debility dyspepsia, rheumatism, &c.
The proprietor having spent a large amount in additional buildings and improvements generally, these Springs are now in a fine condition, rooms large and pleasant, and good cottages containing from two to six rooms each, well arranged for either large or small families.
Good TEN PIN ALLEYS, BILLIARD TABLES and other amusements.
FINE BATH HOUSES, for Pool, Plunge or Shower Bath; Sulphur Bath, Hot or Cold.
A GOOD BAND OF MUSIC
Will be at the Springs the entire season, and a good Physician permanently located for the benefit of invalids, who will have every attention.
Having secured the services of Mr. J. N. Carver, of Virginia, who has had much experience and stands high as a Hotel keeper, visitors may rest assured that my table will be supplied with the best the market can afford, and everything done that will add to their pleasure and comfort.
The cars on the Western North Carolina Rail Road will leave Salisbury for Hickory Station, the Springs' depot, every morning, (Sundays excepted,) in connection with the North Carolina Railroad, avoiding stoppage or delay at Salisbury, and arrive at Hickory Station in time for breakfast, where good hacks will be in readiness to take passengers over a beautiful, well-shaded road to the Springs—a distance of six miles.
As an inducement for families and parties to spend two months or more, I have concluded to put board down at the following low rates:

For two or more months, $40 per month, or at that rate.

ROBERT SOUTTER,
OF GRANVILLE COUNTY,
Reading the importance of spreading the growth of Wheat in this County; and the farmers, knowing so well the absolute necessity of supplying themselves at an early period with "Good Wheat" of the finest quality, ready to plant in the Fall, the undersigned takes this early method of inviting applications from farmers, for what they may require to plant next Fall, of the very "Select Seed Wheat" which he expects to deliver at moderate prices, from the crop growing now at his "Oakland Farm" near Townsville, in this County.
This Wheat was planted last Fall, with Guano, of seed selected in Baltimore with great care by my predecessor, Mr. Chas. H. K. Taylor, who paid $3,25 for it there. It has had the advantage of a heavy top-dressing in Spring of Chicago bone Fertilizer, and is now very promising.
Like the good Sorghum Seed which I have offered to the farmers of Granville, I hope the orders for my "Seed Wheat," may be equally attractive, to absorb all that I can expect to spare of it.
Address me at Kittrell's Springs, or Mr. Thos. W. Taylor, at Oakland Farm.
