THE SENTINEL.

JOSIAH TURNER, Jr., EDITOR.

WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 11, 1869.

STRANGE MORALITY.

We have received says the Standard of Monday, the following epistle, together with a request to make known its contents:

DERBY, Conn., July 21, 1869.

SIR: The political corruption of our land is well known. As a people we do not love our country as we should. We do not have that pride in, nor that feeling for our flag which other nations have for theirs. Bribery and corruption seem to be linked with politics. This should be checked, otherwise it does not require a prophetic eye to foresee our doom. All other Republics have failed—we fast follow. To arrest this downfall of a nation the Order of the Eagle has been established, its object being to instil into the young men of America a high spirit of honor, a respect for our country, a love for the flag. To this end it is proposed to organize societies with an oath for members that they will support the Constitution of the United States, vote for the best men irrespective of party, and if ever elected to office never to accept a bribe. The motto is Dulce amor patria.—Branches of this order are to be established, with a system of correspondence, in every city and town throughout the Union, all working together for the common good.—It should be distinctly understood that this is not a secret organization. There are many things that could be attached to keep up the interest—a reading room, or gymnasium, or perhaps a rifle corps.

Will you not aid the good cause by using your influence to organize a branch in your city or town.

For the Constitution and further particulars address

Yours respectfully,

THOS. L. CORNELL, Prest.

E. SPRAGUE, Sec.

To this proposition the Standard answers thus:

"We have complied with the request to make the above public and that is all we can do. We do not believe such a society either practicable or desirable. First, we believe that the "order of the Eagle" if successfully established would be far more corrupt than is now any political party. It would be a centralization of power, which could, and would be used to the great injury of the country. Secondly, it will never do for political parties to become too good. If all were lambs we should be badly fitted to cope with the wolves of other nations. Thirdly, a proportionate sprinkling of rascals is indispensable to the well-being of every community, civilized or barbarian. If all were good, to be good would be unworthy of praise. To be good when opposed by evil is meritorious. Thus the Republican party is the better for preserving its principles untarnished even though contending with such rascals as the sham Democracy. Fifthly, we believe the concern to be a first class humbug gotten up by designing men to serve their own purposes.

For these and other reasons we decline to use our influence to organize a branch in this city. If the originators want "a rifle corps" they must get it without our aid.—In fact we don't believe they will be able to "make a riffle" here."

In the comments of the Standard we are not left to conjecture in regard to the texture of the proposed organization that meets with such strenuous opposition and peremptory rejection by that paper and those for whom it speaks. Its being a political association is no ground of objection, we know, for the Standard and the party of which it is the organ in this State are kept alive solely by the political organizations known as "Union Leagues" and "Heroes of America," and it has not been two weeks since that paper openly declared that it favored and endorsed these societies. Neither can the Standard or its party recoil at the oath proposed, except in so far as it trammels their action in regard to indiscriminative acquisition; for the organizations alluded to above, bind their members by an oath, to obey the behests of the party, an oath taken with unusual ceremonies, and in the sepulchral glimmer of artificial blue lights which cast a death-like hue upon the countenances of the [illegible].

But the Standard's Connecticut correspondent finds it a provision to be incorporated into the Constitution of the new organization, "to vote for the best men irrespective of party, and if elected to office, never to accept a bribe." The Standard can not stand that. It would be striking at the very vitals of it and its party, and what is most astonishing is, (for even the most depraved have generally, enough shame left to prevent them from openly proclaiming their own depravity,) the Standard comes out openly before the world and declares its opposition to the organization that requires its members to swear, "never to accept a bribe," and gives its reason for [illegible] ... "that a proportionate sprinkling of rascals is necessary to the well being of every community, civilized or barbarian. [illegible] will never do," says the Standard, "to become too good," that is, too [illegible] ... and therefore, the originators of this scheme must get up their organization "without our (the Standard's) aid," plainly indicating that such an organization would seriously interfere with its [illegible] ... it leaves itself free to serve its country in the capacity of one of those necessary evils, the "rascals."

This is plainly to be inferred from the article quoted above. Whether the [illegible] ... or their party, they [illegible] the moral scheme of the [illegible]

Radical party so far as its accredited organ may be considered as speaking its sentiments. Such sentiments and such declarations fall strangely upon the ears of North Carolinians. They exhibited a new and a strange sort of morality, that our public journals and public men have never been heard shamelessly to avow before we were inoculated with the "progressive civilization" that had its origin in, and drew its moisture from, a climate beyond our latitude.

But that the above epitomised creed embodies the moral, or political code of the Standard and its party, is abundantly substantiated by facts and incidents that have marked the history of this party in this State since it has been in power. Witness the almost undisguised acts of public swindling and corruption perpetrated by their legislators and officials in the other branches of our State government, in many of which the proprietor of the Standard, whose sentiments that paper is supposed to utter, has been more than suspected of being an active and interested participant.

It is useless to enumerate instances and state particular cases; the country remembers them, and will be less likely to lose sight of them, now that the Standard has so shamelessly, but at the same time, we must say, so frankly, avowed the creed which governs those who have committed these acts.

MEETING OF CLERKS.

Pursuant to notice, a number of the Superior Court Clerks of the State, met at the Court House in this City, to-day, and organized by the appointment of Maj. J. C. Mann, of New Hanover, Chairman, and E. A. Osborne, of Mecklenburg as Secretary.

The following Clerks were found to be in attendance:

A. Clapp,	of	Guilford.
P. T. Massey,	"	Johnston.
G. W. Flow,	"	Union.
J. A. Long,	"	Alamance, Deputy.
M. O. Sherrill,	"	Catawba.
A. Barnes,	"	Wilson.
G. J. Robinson,	"	Wayne.
J. C. Callahan,	"	Cumberland.
J. E. West,	"	Craven.
J. D. Southerland,	"	Duplin.
W. A. Albright,	"	Alamance.
John Blackburn,	"	Forsyth.
J. C. Mann,	"	New Hanover.
L. C. Johnston,	"	Davidson.
E. A. Osborne,	"	Mecklenburg.
J. N. Bunting,	"	Wake.
W. H. Spencer,	"	Franklin, Deputy.
John McDonald,	"	Cabarrus.
S. T. Petty,	"	Chatham.

The meeting proceeded to the business for which it was called, viz: to the systematizing the work of their office. The following were adopted as rules:

1. Where a transcript is docketed from a county other than that in which the judgment was taken, execution should be issued by the Clerk where said transcript was docketed.

2. That judgment in criminal actions should be entered upon the judgment docket.

3. It devolves upon the Clerk, when a transcript is sent from other County than his own, to send the execution, with money received thereon, to the County in which the original judgment was taken.

On motion, the following were appointed a Committee on "the construction of the tax bill": Messrs. J. E. West, of Craven, M. O. Sherrill, of Catawba, and A. Barnes, of Wilson.

On motion, the Chairman was added to the Committee.

The meeting then took a recess until 3 o'clock.

CONVENTION OF CLERKS.—The Convention met at 3 o'clock, yesterday afternoon, pursuant to adjournment.

The Committee appointed at the morning session, to report on the construction of the fee bill, reported,

That they are of opinion that it is not expedient, at this time, to suggest any alteration of the fee bill. They would recommend, however, that bills of fees for different services be made out by the members of the Convention present, in order to arrive at some uniformity of charges.

The report was received and concurred in.

Bills were accordingly made out for the various services of Clerks, by the members present, and laid before the meeting, showing great diversity. The afternoon was mostly spent in discussing the question of fees.

After considerable discussion of various propositions, the following preamble and resolutions were finally adopted:

WHEREAS, We, Clerks of the Superior Courts of North Carolina, in Convention assembled, believe it to be of great public importance that there be some concert of action among the Clerks of the several counties of the State, Therefore

Resolved, That we form ourselves into a permanent organization, to be known as the "Superior Court Clerks' Association" of North Carolina.

Resolved, That a Committee on permanent organization be appointed to report at our next meeting.

The Chairman appointed Messrs. West, Osborne and Barnes, to constitute the Committee.

The Convention then adjourned, subject to the call of the President.

MERCHANTS INDEPENDENT FIRE COMPANY.—This fine organization met at the Court House last night, pursuant to notice—in a horn. The bell sounded out the summons for assembling, twice, but, nary "Independent Merchant" didn't come. There must have been some mistake about it.

The Colored Fire Company No. 1, came out [illegible] matters pertaining to their organization.

TUCKER HALL.—Sargent and Porter had a full house last night and the night before. Those who attended seemed to be satisfied that they had got their money's worth, and some got more, in the shape of gifts distributed at the end of the exhibition.

[illegible] ... Saratoga visit, or he seems to be on a collecting tour, it is a fair question to ask what he expects to get up there. He "thankfully accepted" fifty acres of Jersey sand land, and as the soil of Saratoga is equally open to manurial efforts, he may take fifty acres more in that region. Perhaps the squaws who infest Saratoga with their bead-work and baskets, and who are notoriously liberal, may give him something—[illegible] ... Prepare your presents. Presidents with eight [illegible] pockets and a bag and be [illegible] are not around every day. Saratoga should make ready.—N. Y. World.

TARBORO—THE EDGECOMBE COTTON FIELDS—THE RECONSTRUCTED FARMER—TARBORO SOUTHERNER—GOVERNOR CLARK—THE STATE HOUSE vs. THE LUNATIC ASYLUM, &c.

MEMORANDUM, N. C., Aug. 6, 1869.

A ten hours ride on one of the last days of July landed me in Tarboro, a town unsurpassed in beauty, wealth and hospitality; a few hours more found me out in the cotton fields, and such a splendid sight as these Edgecombe cotton fields it is a rare thing to see. To me the most depressing feature of the degradation of the South is not the bayonet or the negro voter, or the negro Constitution or a debased Judiciary, but it is the frown of the Almighty upon our Agriculture. It is that, since the war, "the heavens have been as brass and the earth as iron" and that the fields have not yielded their increase. God's curse has seemed to rest upon us in all our efforts at rebuilding our fortunes. This has been more depressing than all our other misfortunes. With these feelings I left the parched hills of Orange, and the transition to the Edgecombe cotton fields was like life from the dead. In Edgecombe everything is prosperity, everything is energy, everything is hope. The cotton is magnificent, much of it as high as one's shoulders and with such a display of squares and bolls as the oldest farmer has never seen before. We counted over 150 and heard of 175 on a single stalk; most of the planters confidently expect a bale per acre, and this is enough for anybody.

These same planters are thoroughly awake, and thoroughly in earnest, they believe in cotton, and they believe that it takes brains, pains, and manure, to make it. In Capt. R. C. Brown's cotton fields I noticed but two blades of grass, the cotton touched my chin, and every stalk was manured with home made compost. I visited Col. Cromwell's farm and found it in the highest state of cultivation. His cotton promises at least a bale per acre, and his swamp land corn, acre upon acre, will will yield 9 to 10 barrels of corn. Capt. Dancy, of the Reconstructed Farmer, rode me over his splendid place, and after seeing his farm, I was not surprised that the "Reconstructed Farmer" is taking such a hold upon the people of that section, edited, as it is, by men who are not only gentlemen of the highest type, but who, as practical and successful farmers, can show corn and cotton that challenge comparison with any in the country. Under such influence and with such examples, the Edgecombe farmers are thoroughly awake. They use brains in their farming—they use pains in their farming, and they use manure in their farming, and, as a natural consequence, they have made Edgecombe the first county in the State. Their prosperity reminded me of those glorious old days of the past, the recollection of which sometimes, even now,

"Comes in this night-time of sorrow and care
And brings back the features that joy used to wear."

But my five days passed rapidly away.—A peep into the sanctum of the editors of the Tarboro' Southerner, whose paper is one of the regular visitors of Edgecombe,—another peep into the sanctum of Messrs. Thigpen & Dancy, of the Farmer,—a talk about our school and college days with Orren and Donald Williams, Gaston Lewis, Frank Wilkinson and Fred Phillips, (not to mention a glass of native wine with Fred Phillip's elegant and accomplished wife,)—tea with Gov. Clark, (valeat acres,) who has the handsomest place in Eastern North Carolina, and whose library, besides many other things of the greatest interest, contains the most valuable material for a history of N. C. to be found anywhere,—a chat with my genial host, Capt. R. C. Brown, of the old 44th; he and I "fought, bled" and did not "die" together all over Eastern North Carolina and Virginia,—and, before the train left in the morning, a ride with Capt. Dancy over his splendid farm—these things covered the last day of my stay, and soon the whistle blew, and I was whirling along with many regrets at leaving so delightful a place, and so genial and hospitable a people.

One more incident and I am done: As we neared Raleigh a quiet, kindly looking, New Hampshire Yankee, pointing to the Asylum, asked if that was the State House. On being informed of his mistake, he remarked: "Well, I guess I did not miss it far, for I don't see much difference between your State House and a Lunatic Asylum."

STATE NEWS.

YADKIN COUNTY.—A correspondent from Yadkin states that that county is emerging from Radical rule. The Conservatives "divided to conquer," and have elected about half the township officers, and have an aggregate majority in the County of 750. The writer says, "A subscription of $10,000 to the Valley Railroad, by the county, was ratified by a majority of about 150. Our people are determined to open commercial communication with the outside world. The line from Statesville to the Virginia Road, known as the "Salt-works and Plaister Banks Road," is now being surveyed. The Road is very popular with our people, and though it has not received the promise of a dollar from the State, yet such is the confidence of our people in its President, Col. Wm. Johnston, of Charlotte, whose energy and persistence have heretofore surmounted all obstacles in Railroading, that they will subscribe to the full extent of their means. The road has become a public necessity, and an important link in the line from Augusta to Washington and Baltimore, and will doubtless, if necessary to its completion, attract capital from [illegible]. When the [illegible] we will let you hear from us, in the meantime, remain yours,

THE PENALTY OF NOTORIETY.

Mrs. Lewis, Ida's mother, informed us, [illegible] of Lime Rock, a day or two since, that within the last month between 3,000 or 4,000 persons have visited their home. She also said that it took so much of her time as to hardly allow her to do her housework, and said: "I love my bed too well to get [illegible] ... could." Some of the city bred ladies appeared a little amused at Mrs. Lewis' idea of early rising, and wondered at what hour [illegible] ... Miss Ida expressed much indignation at the stories the newspapers are constantly telling in regard to her presents, nearly all of which are untrue. Many articles, which it has been said she received, she has never heard of except through the papers. In speaking of her pictures, she remarked: "That picture in Harper's is awful; I cannot bear to look at it." Her marriage, which was to have taken place this month, has been put off a year, as has also that of her sister, who is to marry a brother of Ida's betrothed. The sister is of a very retiring nature, never showing herself to visitors, but remaining all the time in the upper part of the house. She is considered very handsome, [illegible] ... Mr. Lewis's [illegible] house is completed and is a neat little affair. A gold medal is shortly to be sent to Ida from a humane society in London.

Connecticut, which has as good a common school system as there is in the United States, now virtually compels children to avail themselves of its advantages. The last General Assembly passed a law which requires three months schooling each year as the legal condition of employing minors under fourteen years of age. If any manufacturer or other person shall hire a minor contrary to the provision of the law, he forfeits $100 to the State treasury for each offence. The schools of the State are free to all, and now the poorest people are compelled to educate their children, since their employment is absolutely conditional upon such education. It is noted that the manufacturers throughout the State cordially approved of the new law, and only a few laboring men oppose it.

EX-SENATOR TURNED COLLEGE PROFESSOR.—Ex-Senator Lafayette S. Foster, of Connecticut, who was for several years presiding officer of the United States Senate, has accepted the position of professor of the Yale Law School, to fill the place made vacant by the death of ex-Governor Dutton.

During his visit to San Francisco, old Ben Wade was asked out to dinner, to meet Mayor McCoppin and others, and at the table was placed at the Mayor's right.—The subject of Chinese immigration and suffrage came up. Wade, in his "bluff" manner, blurted out to the man next to him: "Well, why shouldn't the Chinese come here and have all the rights and privileges? They are a d—d sight better than the Irish!" Mr. McCoppin, of course, had too much respect for his host to resent this insult in a violent manner, but he arose and left the table. After he had left, a gentleman said to Wade, "Perhaps you were not aware, when you spoke, that the Mayor is an Irishman by birth?" "I don't care if he is," was the reply; "I am ready to uphold all I said."

SPARKLING CATAWBA SPRINGS,
CATAWBA COUNTY, N. C.

THIS CELEBRATED WATERING PLACE, formerly called the North Carolina White Sulphur Springs, will be open for visitors on Tuesday, the first day of June next.

Being situated in the northwestern part of the State, in a country remarkable for its beauty and healthfulness—these, together with the virtue of the waters, make it one of the most desirable watering places to be found.

The MINERAL WATERS of these Springs are the White and Blue Sulphur and Chalybeate or Iron, and they possess all the finest qualities of these waters, and are sovereign remedies for all diseases of the liver, bowels, stomach and kidneys, eruptions of the skin, scrofula, weakness, debility dyspepsia, rheumatism, &c.

The proprietor having spent a large amount in additional buildings and improvements generally, these Springs are now in a fine condition, rooms large and pleasant, and good cottages containing from two to six rooms each, well arranged for either large or small families.

Good TEN PIN ALLEYS, BILLIARD TABLES and other amusements.

FINE BATH HOUSES, for Pool, Plunge or Shower Bath, Sulphur Bath, Hot or Cold.

A GOOD BAND OF MUSIC

Will be at the Springs the entire season, and a good Physician permanently located for the benefit of invalids, who will have every attention.

Having secured the services of Mr. J. N. Carra, of Virginia, who has had much experience and stands high as a Hotel keeper, visitors may rest assured that my table will be supplied with the best the market can afford, and everything done that will add to their pleasure and comfort.

The cars on the Western North Carolina Rail Road will leave Salisbury for Hickory Station, the Springs' depot, every morning, (Sundays excepted,) in connection with the North Carolina Railroad, avoiding stoppage or delay at Salisbury, and arrive at Hickory Station in time for breakfast, where good hacks will be in readiness to take passengers over a beautiful, well-shaded road to the Springs—a distance of six miles.

As an inducement for families and parties to spend two months or more, I have concluded to put board down at the following low rates:

BOARD:

For one single month,	$30 00
For two or more months, $40 per month, or at that rate.
Per week,	16 00
Per day,	2 50

Children under ten years of age and colored servants, half price. No charge for infants or children under two years of age.
