THE DARK DAY OF 1780.

Candles at Noonday—The Phenomenon described by an Eye-Witness—Nature Hushed in Terror—A Night of Total Blackness.

(From the Cape Ann Advertiser.)

The 19th of May, 1780, was a remarkable one in the annals of New England, on account of the thick darkness that over spread the land, like a funeral pall. It was a day long to be remembered and talked of by those who witnessed the strange, and at that time fearful phenomenon. There was much writing upon and discussion of the subject at the time, and afterward, but I believe no satisfactory conclusion was ever arrived at as to its cause. There were some who thought that it must have proceeded from a total eclipse of the sun, that had from some cause escaped the calculations of mathematicians and astronomers, but that was easily shown to be impossible by facts and figures.

It was then the darkest and most hopeless period of the war of the Revolution, and it was thought by many of the desponding and discouraged to be significant of the end of that which then appeared to them a hopeless struggle. Some of the more sanguine insisted that as the hour before the dawn was always the darkest, so this strange and portentous gloom was but the prelude to the bright dawn of Liberty and Independence that was soon to follow.

The father of the writer was then a boy of thirteen years, and was at work with his father and brother, planting or preparing the ground. It was a dull, hazy morning, and as the time passed it gradually thickened, and by 10 o'clock the increasing darkness began to be quite apparent. They kept on with their work, and as the gloom increased they observed that he would pause once in a while and look intently all around the horizon and over head, but made no remark until he directed the oldest boy to go to the barn and turn the horse and all the cattle that were inside out into the open lot, and to close and secure every door and window. It appeared that he was apprehensive that some sudden and furious gust or squall would soon manifest itself, and that the animals would be in less danger out in the field than inside the building.

Still the darkness grew thicker and deeper until presently he said they might as well quit work for the present. On reaching the house the mother and sister were about their usual duties, pale and silent.—Little was said except an occasional remark or direction in a low tone. No one seemed inclined to conversation or demonstration of any kind. Soon dinner was ready, with candles lighted the same as at night, but not a morsel was eaten. A dead silence seemed to prevade all nature, broken only by occasional bleating of a lamb, or the distant lowing of the kine, which wandered about restless and uneasy. The domestic fowls seemed to be inclined to come to the conclusion that it it was not night, they could put no otherconstruction upon it, so, after clocking over the matter for a while, they went to roost. And thus the long and dreary hours passed away.—Along in the afternoon the veil was lifted in some degree, and at the time of sunset it was about the same as ordinary dull and cloudy day.

The light which followed was, it is said, as dark proportionately as was the day. It was the perfect "blackness and darkness." Not the faintest outline of any object could be discerned against the sky. A light would penetrate it but a little way, and then seem to disclose but a solid wall of blackness around.

A CHALLENGE TO THE GOVERNMENT—Swayze Demands a Hearing—Innocence Must be Vindicated.—The recent Turner investigation established, beyond all controversy, one of two propositions: That Turner is a counterfeiter of currency of the United States, a crime punishable with the severest penalties, or Swayze, the principal witness against him, is guilty of the basest and most wicked perjury, alike punishable by severe penalties. This fact it is impossible for the civil authorities to ignore. We have already charged that certain officials under the Government interested themselves to shield Turner from a just retribution for his crimes. If the Government would refute this charge, it becomes necessary that it should come forward and thoroughly fathom the pretended mysteries connected with this case. J. Clarke Swayze has been impeached, and the release of the prisoner throws the onus of suspicion upon him. If he is guilty, he has a right to be so declared by competent authority. If Turner is guilty, it is as clearly the duty of the Government to protect itself against such innovations upon its most sacred interests—its Treasury.

This is not the only consideration; this question of guilt or innocence of the different parties is made to have political bearing, and will be used by the Democracy against the Republican party until the truth is brought to light and the guilty punished. Truth cannot be successfully assailed. When the guilty party meets his fate, the moral of the lesson will be felt and profited by. We, therefore, most earnestly demand that the Government press this matter to the bottom—bring forth the various threads of testimony already exposed, and hunt down every agent and accomplice in this pretended great mystery. It becomes imperatively upon the Government to do this, inasmuch as the fact exists that a certain number of bank bills were stolen from the Treasury, and that these bills have been signed and circulated. This, in addition to the fact that conspiracy, though to counterfeit, does exist, seems to us, should be a sufficient motive for the Government. Aside from this, it is its duty to show that the witnesses so far in the case, are perjurers and liable to all the penalties, or it is its duty to protect those who are now under the charge that are now heaped upon them. On the other hand, if Turner is innocent, he being an officer of the Government, it is its duty to come to his relief, and by proper and thorough action remove the suspicions that now attach to him. Again we say, and that too, in behalf of J. Clarke Swayze, the principal witness, that we not only ask, but we, as the name of all honest and fair-minded citizens, demand that the Government give its attention to this matter at once, and in such a determined way as to bring to punishment, either the accused or the witness.—Swayze's American Union.

The people of Venice once hissed an eclipse which did not quite come up to their expectations.

NOTES OF SOUTHERN TRAVELS.

An English gentleman, Mr. Henry Wood, of Long Island City, has just returned from a journey to the South, and reports as follows: We found throughout North Carolina and Virginia every disposition to welcome immigration, to put aside politics, and go earnest with to embrace every Northern suggestion and improvement. The negroes are disappointed because they do not each get a forty acre farm and a mule, but as a rule they are never troublesome or dangerous. In truth they require the incentive of the master's eye, or else a faithfully-fulfilled contract, by the piece or acre, just as white laborers do. Their wages vary from $7 to $10 per month, and rations, which do not cost altogether more than $10 per month more. The females make excellent in door servants, and can be hired at nearly half the above. We found all portions of the States above named healthy, and with the advantage over the Western section of nearness to market, plenty of splendid timber, and good water. We felt the heat no more than in New York, and farmers assured us that they could do that hardest of all work—the hoeing of cotton—all day in the hottest sun. The quality of the land is various, but equal to any section North, that we know of, and wherever proper cultivation, rotation of crops, and manures are applied, the results are an excess of Northern products on the same area. Japan clover, white and red clover, and the grasses can generally be grown, white cotton at the present price, and the vineyard, which is being rapidly inaugurated, render a farmers success speedy and certain. The prices of lands vary from $3 to $30 per acre. In the cities and towns large-sized lots can be got from $50 to $500 (!) Houses and grounds which cost five times their present price, can be readily obtained. Even in the mineral regions land is still very cheap. We saw a large fruit farm, only four miles from Raleigh, rich in gold and plumbago, with good house and 180 acres, that could now be bought for $1,500. The owner was the former postmaster, and a much respected man. One fourth cash, and three to five years' credit, are the general terms; while many properties can be hired, with an option of purchase, at a stated price agreed upon beforehand. Even mere laborers are readily welcomed, for their energy is much needed, and they form a check upon the negro, who, as the Rev. J. B. Smith, of Raleigh, remarked to us, has at present no proper standard by which to measure a day's work. Mechanics and artizans would find nice openings and be free from much of that wear and tear which characterizes the struggle for life in more inclement latitudes.

By taking a trip to Norfolk, Portsmouth, Richmond, Lynchburg, Weldon, Raleigh and Asheville, the intending emigrant may readily satisfy himself as to which is the best spot on which to settle according to his capacity and capital. Cheap return tickets are issued by the Virginia State Land Company, whilst the Board of Directors, composed of the Hon. R. W. Best, late Secretary of State, is Past Grand Master of the Masonic Lodge in North Carolina, and by his urbanity and fairness will be found equally deserving of confidence. We heartily wish all such societies full success. We are assured that the present farms are too large for the means of present holders. They will cheerfully part with a portion to enhance the value of the remainder and to secure a good neighborhood. That this season will be a happy one for the South we do fully believe.—Some immigration and capital have already taken place; the full stream will soon follow. The present wheat crop is all safe, and the best known for many years. Oats and vegetables are more than an average crop, tobacco is fair, and though the season is backward, cotton is generally in blossom and the yield at the present prices promises to be the most enriching of any that has occurred of late years. The South will soon be fully recuperated. Norfolk will soon be a busy entrepot worthy of its magnificent harbor, and Wilmington must have her share of direct intercourse. It ought to be the earnest and daily prayer and work of all good Americans to do all that in them lies to help forward this intermixing and prosperous knitting together of all parts of our country.—N. Y. Tribune.

ANDREW JOHNSON AND THE U. S. SENATE.—We could not, before the late election in Tennessee, give credit to the reports that it was likely to result in sending Ex President Johnson back to the United States Senate. But it really seems that the prediction, which looked so extravagant a few weeks ago, is about to be fulfilled. The returns show the election to the Legislature of but few politicians known as Senter Republicans. A majority of the members of both branches are said to be Democrats or Conservatives. The Stokes men are few, and the Senter Republicans still fewer—the Democrats having a majority over both.—In a number of counties, particularly in East Tennessee, Democratic candidates were elected as avowed Johnson men.

It does not, therefore, now seem at all impossible that Andrew Johnson will, in 1871, succeed Fowler as Senator from Tennessee, or, in the not improbable event of a vacancy occurring before that time, that he will sooner go back to Washington to wage battle for the constitution with his adversaries of the last two years, but on a different arena. That he will be "a thorn in their sides" cannot be doubted. There is no man in the Union whom the Radical leaders would not rather have in the Senate than Andrew Johnson, and we would rather have him there than any other man in the Union. As Colfax said of Stanton's restoration to the War Department, we may say of President Johnson's return to the United States Senate—

"Roll swift around, ye wheels of time,
And bring the joyful day."

—Columbus (Ga.) Enquirer.

The Radical negro majority of Antioch Colored Church, Culpeper county, Va., expelled every member of the church who voted the Walker ticket in the late election. There have been many assaults by Radical negroes upon the Conservatives of their color, in various parts of the South, on account of their votes. But this instance of church proscription is more significant than any other demonstration in showing that the party has been committed to a state utterly unfit to exercise it.

THE Ætna is the LEADING LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY in North Carolina.

Largest amount of Losses to Widows and Orphans!

The Largest Revenue to the States. And has by far the largest number when compared with 58 Companies reported officially by the Commissioners of New York and Massachusetts it will be seen that the Ætna ranks as one of the first Companies of the Continent. But two of the fifty-eight Companies permitted to do business in New York and Massachusetts had so large an income for the year 1868; but two had so large a number of Policies in force, but one among all those incorporated under the laws of the State of New York had so small a per centage of Expense to Income during the year 1868.

Its expenses are lower than most Companies', and consequently its ability to make and pay liberal dividends to the insured is greater than that of most other Companies. It is one of the great Companies of the land in Income, in Assets, in Number of Policies, in Amount Insured, in Solidity and Strength, in Soundness, Cheapness, Promptness, and Success. Persons contemplating this mode of investment in the future as in the past would do well to examine the claims of all and take a policy accordingly.

WHOLESALE BUSINESS,

we shall be prepared to offer them, this season, a stock of

Foreign and Domestic Dry Goods

AND

not equaled in the State of Virginia, embracing every article needed by Virginia and North Carolina Merchants, all of which we intend to sell at

GUARANTEED BALTIMORE PRICES.

We ask of our friends, and the WHOLESALE TRADE, generally, an examination of our stock and prices. We are confident we can save time and expense to merchants by buying of us this season.

One of our firm will remain in New York during the entire season, and we will therefore be in constant receipt of new goods bought at auction, of Manufacturers and importers.
