WILD OATS.

The following charming piece of word music from McMillan's Magazine, is attributed to Miss Muloch:

When all the world is young, lad,
And all the trees are green,
And every goose a swan, lad,
And every lass a queen,
Then fly for boot and horse, lad,
And round the world away;
Young love must have its course, lad,
And every dog his day.

When all the world is old, lad,
And all the trees are brown,
And all the sport is stale, lad,
And all the wheels run down,
Creep home and take your place there,
The spent and maimed among—
God grant you find a face there,
You loved when you were young.

BOILED DOWN.

M. Monier Williams, Sanscrit professor at Oxford, considers that civilization has existed in India for 3,000 years.

"Well, boys, here's for perdition!" said Abram Leister and he coolly lay down on a barroom floor in Yolo, Nevada, and shot himself through the head.

The wedding clothes of a young woman in Troy, O., were stolen by a spiteful friend, and the ceremony had to be postponed until more could be made.

Mrs. Baker has hurried off with a skilled nurse to the East to nurse her Valentine. "If he had a passing fancy for that girl, what then?" thinks this amiable lady.

Victor Hugo is at work upon a history of the Coup d'Etat, which will appear next October, and will be published simultaneously in French, English, Italian, and German.

Bob McCullough stole money from his father, in Louisville, and gambled it away; and, when reproved for it, he took a club and broke $6,000 worth of mirrors in the father's furniture store.

The Emperor William visited the battlefields around Metz, and at Gravelotte went into the cottage he occupied Aug 18, 1870, and spent some time in the room where he penned his despatch of victory.

A boy five years of age having stolen a can of milk, his mother took him to task with moral suasion, and wound up her discourse by exclaiming, "What in the world were you going to do with the milk?" "I was going to steal a dog to drink it."

The African exploration scheme initiated by the King of the Belgians has been warmly taken up in nearly every country, and committees in aid of it have been formed, which are presided over in almost every case by a member of the royal family.

Mrs. Dean's four babies at a birth, in St. Louis, were noticed a few days ago. The father was very proud and drunk when he was met by a newspaper reporter, and said; "I'm drunk (hic), and, begorah, you can print that, too, for a man who wouldn't celebrate four babies at once is a baste and infidel."

The Adriatico describes a beautiful statue which is to be raised to Titian this year, the 400th anniversary of his birth, in the little town of Pieve di Cadore, his birthplace. The head looks toward the house where he was born, on the walls of which, tradition says that his earliest works appeared.

French trade has benefited from the Anglo-French Treaty of 1860 far more than England has. In fifteen years the annual imports into France from Great Britain have only risen from £21,000,000 to £24,000,000, while those from France to Great Britain have risen from £25,000,000 to £40,000,000.

A committee of the scientific societies of France has decided that, in future, information shall be sent to the various coal districts of that country of any sudden or great fall of the atmospheric pressure, as recorded in the different meteorological observations. It is thought that such depressions have great influence on gases in mines.

MOONSHINE.

Many a man worth a million is utterly poor.

A man's temper is most valuable to himself, and he should keep it.

Many a man has ruined his eyesight by sitting in a bar-room looking for work.

He has had his hair shingled, and now Mrs. Partington calls him her "docked son."

Two things a man should never get mad at—what he can, and what he can't help.

"What is a bat?" asks a contemporary. So far as our education extends, a bat is a thing to encourage a cat to get off a back fence, and is composed of half a brick.

A down-town man who went to church in Quincy, remarked afterwards that he preferred the organ to the preacher. He thought there seemed to be a stop to the former.

A Georgia negro twisted a mule's tail around a fence. The small attendance at the funeral next day showed that the people didn't care if he did twist the mule's tail.

An Illinois youth invested $1.50 in a New York firm to discover "How to appear well in society." The recipe which he received by return mail, was short, pithy, and easily understood: "Always wipe your nose clean, and don't suck more than one finger at a time."

A Western would-be philosopher has discovered where the army of tramps which perambulate the country were manufactured, and he says they are out of the workshops of soulless monopolies. The poor fellow ought to be caged before making another such startling discovery.

An old fashioned clergyman named Moore was riding on horseback one stormy day, enveloped in a loose cloak of large proportions and having a broad scarlet collar. By the action of the wind the cloak was tossing about in all directions, when a gentleman rode up on a spirited horse, which shied and almost threw the rider. "That cloak of yours would frighten the devil," said the gentleman. "You don't say so!" replied Mr. Moore; "why, that's just my trade."

A NEW FEATURE.

To the 3,000 Illustrations heretofore in Webster's Unabridged, we have added four pages of

Colored Illustrations, engraved expressly for the work at large expense.

Nearly every State Superintendent of Public Instruction in the Union, or corresponding officer, where such an one exists, has recommended Webster's Dictionary in the strongest terms. Among them are those of Eastern, Northern, Middle, Southern, and Western States—TWENTY-EIGHT in all.

The State of NEW YORK has placed 10,000 copies of Webster's Unabridged in as many of her Public Schools.

The State of WISCONSIN about 5,000—nearly every school.

The State of NEW JERSEY 1,500—nearly every school.

The State of MICHIGAN made provision for all her schools.

The State of MASSACHUTETTS has supplied her schools—nearly all.

The State of IOWA has supplied her schools.

The State of CONNECTICUT has made provision for her schools.

☞ Over 3,000 schools in INDIANA were supplied during the year 1872, and many more in 1873 and 1874.

In other States many copies have been purchased for supplying schools of cities, counties and towns.

What better investment can be made for schools?

More than TEN times as many are sold of Webster's Dictionaries as of any other series in this country.

At least FOUR-FIFTHS of all the school-books published in this country own Webster as their standard, and of the remainder few acknowledge ANY standard.
