Mothers' Morning Out

The JCC will offer a Mother's Morning Out on Tuesdays and Thursdays for children ages 9 months - 2 years beginning in January. The purposes of the program will be to provide a child with a caring, secure, safe, stable, happy and inexpensive place to stay while providing his/her mother a morning to spend as she wishes.

Each group shall consist of no more than ten children. The groups will meet three hours (from 9 a.m. to 12 noon) one day a week. One staff person will be in charge of each group. She will know the routine, make decisions in case of emergency, be the familiar person to the children each week and know each child's needs and differences. The mothers will rotate as aides to give the mother a chance to observe her child and others of similar ages in a group situation and to furnish enough adult supervision while keeping down the cost of the program.

Registration begins immediately. The fee for the year will be $7.50 M/$11 NM per month plus a $10 M/$15 NM registration fee. For further information call the JCC (366-0357) or Vicki Hopkins (554-1324).

CHAI

Talking of "Mitzvahs" starting the New Year, how's this?

Mr. Fred Stern gave us tickets for six different Symphony Concerts to be performed at the Charles A. Dana Auditorium of the Queens College. Dr. Stetner who is President of the Charlotte Community Concerts and a chairman in the music department of Queens College, came to our meeting and gave an interesting talk about the selections to be played at the concerts. Twenty people attended the first performance and all had a wonderful time.

And now the second Mitzvah. Alan and Ruth Goldberg remembered the problems Mr. Goldberg's mother had in her last years with transportation, so they donated a fund to be used for transportation when the women are unable to secure rides, like to this concert. This was a beautiful thing to do!

We are very proud of our ART CLASS.... they sure have Class—they went as a group to the Exhibit at the CPCC, exhibited ten pictures and came back with FIVE BLUE RIBBONS and FIVE HONORARY MENTIONS.

Our very own artist Annie Goldberg paints cards and sells them. However, she gives ALL of the proceeds to CHAI.

On Monday, we met Ms. Endicott who does "barter" in coupons which she is working up to quite a business; anyone interested in this may contact Ms. Ilse Bergen for more information.

On December 10th in celebration of the festival of Chanukah we will have a luncheon at the JCC.

Political Issues Lecture Series

The Jewish Community Center is proud to present a 4-session lecture-discussion series entitled "Political Issues Today". This timely series will address the major issues faced in this election year and in the future. It is an opportunity to become informed, express opinions, and be a part of a dialogue with someone "in the know". The series will be moderated by Mr. Heinz Jaffe and has been coordinated through the efforts of Dr. Harold Josephson of UNCC. It will be held on Wednesday evenings at 8 p.m. at the JCC. (This will not conflict with Wednesday Symphony Series).

The following topics will be discussed:

November 14th - "U.S.-Russian Relations: Salt II and It's Future" - Harry Chernotsky, Asst. Professor of Political Science, UNCC

December 5th - "The Inflation, Economy and You" - Ronald Madsen, Asst. Professor of Economics, UNCC

December 12th - "Politics, Politicians & The 1980 Elections" - William McCoy, Associate Professor of Political Science, UNCC

TBA - "Energy and America's Future" - Carlos Bell, Celanese Professor of Civil Engineering, UNCC.

Register now by calling the JCC (366-0357). The fee is $8/members and $12/non-members.

Charlotte Federation Receives CJF Funds

The Charlotte Jewish Federation has received a 2nd check in the amount of $4000 from the Council of Jewish Federations, which represents a portion of the total 1979 Federal grant of $11,000 for the resettlement of Soviet Jewish refugees in 1978-79.

In 1979, CJF is administering a total of $25.2 million in Federal funds, going to local Federations on a 50-50 matching basis, for resettlement programs. One hundred twenty communities in the United States are participating in the CJF resettlement program.

The staff of the CJF Soviet-Jewish Resettlement Program works with local communities in applying for funds, and in planning and implementing cost-effective programs which maximize the impact of both Federal and community dollars.

Federal funds are used for English language training; vocational and technical instruction; job placement; maintenance and health care; and related acculturation services. Federations coordinate this community-wide resettlement program with assistance from CJF.

Twelve Russian Jews arrived in Charlotte from October 1, 1978 - September 30, 1979 to be resettled with the aid of Federal grant money provided by Council. Sally (Mrs. Robert) Schrader is chairman of the local resettlement committee.

Continuing its efforts to aid communities in lowering per capita resettlement costs, Council recently instituted a guidelines project under the supervision of a subcommittee chaired by Henry Goodman of Cleveland. Seven communities have been visited, and others contacted, to survey their resettlement programs and develop cost-cutting guidelines.

CJF has also awarded funds from a special Federal grant to develop demonstration resettlement programs that provide effective services at minimum cost. Fourteen proposals—from 11 local communities, two national agencies and one state group—have been approved.

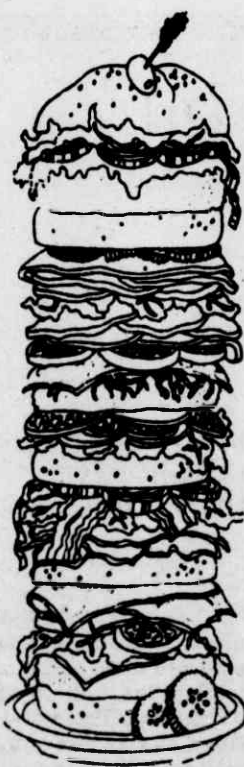

A special questionnaire on Jewish Identity has been developed and distributed by CJF to determine how Soviet Jews are being absorbed culturally and religiously in the American Jewish community.

The Council of Jewish Federations is the association of more than 190 Federations, Welfare Funds and Community Councils which serve nearly 800 communities and embrace over 95 per cent of the Jewish population of the United States and Canada.
