JOSIAH TURNER, Jr., EDITOR.

DEMOCRATIC PLATFORMS, PRINCIPLES AND PURPOSES.

The Radical party of this country is the last organization upon earth which can reasonably lay claim to a consistency of action or profession. Nevertheless its newspaper mouthpieces, with the most unblushing effrontery, are constantly harping upon what they are pleased to denominate "Democratic inconsistencies," and just at the present time they are engaged in this manner to an unusual extent. They profess to have found cause for this extraordinary ado in what they see fit to term the contradictory platforms adopted, and the opposite course of action pursued by the Democracy, of late, in different sections of the country.

Now were we to adopt the Radical style of argument and reply, we might answer by referring to the past and present course of the Radical party. We might dilate upon their solemn pledges made but to be broken, their positions openly taken and receded from the moment their ulterior designs were accomplished; but we refrain for the present. Radical consistency may pass for what it is worth with the people.

But let us examine the grounds upon which these charges of Democratic inconsistency are based, and see whether they are well or ill founded. In the first place we are told that the platforms recently adopted by Democratic State Conventions in different sections of the country are clearly antagonistic in their character. In what does that antagonism consist? Let us see. Certain questions which are made prominent issues in one State are ignored or passed over as "dead issues" in others, while far different questions are put forward as the live and leading issues of the day.—For instance, while in Massachusetts and some other States, the Democracy have seen fit to practically ignore the question of enforced negro suffrage, in Ohio opposition thereto has been made one of the main planks in the Democratic platform. So too while in some States the financial policy of the party in power is held up as the main point of attack for the Democratic forces, in others it is passed by without notice. In Massachusetts the whole power of the Democracy is brought to bear against the Radical system of prohibitory legislation, while in the Southern States they are uniting with the conservative Republicans, and bending all their energies to the work of restoring the Union of the States and the political rights of the people, looking upon negro suffrage as a settled fact in their section for the time being at least.

And this is the "Democratic inconsistency" which the Radicals have seized upon so vigorously with a view of making it appear to the credulous that the Democratic party has no fixed principles of action, no well defined purposes to accomplish, and pursues only the shifting policy which mere expediency dictates. But here is no foundation for the charge. There is no inconsistency here—no show of antagonism in the positions taken, the courses of action pursued by the Democracy in the different States or sections.

The great principles and purposes of the Democratic party of this country have been openly and proudly proclaimed to the people ever since its existence as a political organization. The principles which underlie its action, which give it life and power, are those of devotion to constitutional liberty and republican government. Its great governing purpose has been, and still is, to defend, preserve and perpetuate our free American institutions, and secure to the nation, for the present and in all time to come, all the manifold advantages which are their legitimate result. In that purpose they have been opposed at all times by the most unscrupulous enemies, men who sought the overthrow of our institutions, the destruction of our popular rights and individual liberties, and the establishment in our midst of class distinctions, privileged aristocracy, and the worst forms of despotism.

These men are to-day arrayed under the black banner of Radicalism. They have drawn to their support, in one way and another, by false promises and shameless hypocrisy, by hollow professions of devotion to "liberty and equality," thousands and millions of our countrymen, who, if they had but comprehended their designs, would have scorned to espouse their cause, till they have well nigh accomplished their object. The spirit of our institutions is crushed, if not destroyed. Our Union of free and sovereign states, which our ancestors fought to establish and hundreds of thousands of their posterity died to preserve, is a thing of the past, sundered and jeered at by the Radical leaders, and the most sacred rights of those states are held at the mercy of Federal bayonets. Wealthy aristocrats are riding rough shod over the liberties of the masses who are fast becoming the slaves of exempted bondholders and protected monopolists.

Yet the Democracy do not despair.—They have not abandoned their principles, they will never yield their great purpose.—Their first object is to compass the defeat and secure the overthrow of the Radical power. To do this they must attack it in the most advantageous manner and at the most vulnerable points. In national elections, in state and local elections they must keep up the contest with vigor.—Keeping in view their cherished principles, adhering firmly to their one great purpose, it is for the Democracy of each state and section to form for themselves their plan of attack. This they have done and are doing, and if "the signs of the times" are not clouded with deception, success will yet crown their efforts.

Nor is there either inconsistency, nor antagonism in the various plans adopted. In the Democracy of Massachusetts choose to meet their opponents in their attack upon individual rights through prohibition and a corrupt constabulary, while their brethren in California oppose them in their efforts to complete the subversion of the guaranteed rights of states, if the Democracy of the great central states of the West attack them upon their unjust and iniquitous financial policy and their oppressive tariff system, while the Democracy of the South direct their blows against proscription and disfranchisement, who shall say that there is inconsistency in their several courses of action, since they are all laboring for the same end with the means and in the manner which they deem most powerful and advantageous.—Exchange.

DOTY'S WASHING MACHINE,

LATELY MUCH IMPROVED,

AND THE NEW

UNIVERSAL CLOTHES WRINGER.

Improved with Rowell's Patent Double Cog-wheels, and the Patent Stop, are now unquestionably far superior to any apparatus for washing clothes ever invented, and will save their cost twice a year, by saving labor and clothes.

Those who have used them give testimony as follows:

"We like our machine much; could not be persuaded to do without it, and with the aid of Doty, we feel that we are masters of the position."—Rev. L. Scott, Bishop M. E. Church

"It is worth one dollar a week in any family."—N. Y. Tribune.

"In the laundry of my house there is a perpetual thanksgiving on Mondays for the invention."—Rev. Theodore L. Cuyler.

"I heartily commend it to economists of time, money, and contentment."—Rev. Dr. Bellows.

"Every week has given it a stronger hold upon the affections of the inmates of the laundry."—N. Y. Observer.

"Friend Doty—Your last improvement of your Washing Machine is a complete success. I assure you 'our machine,' after a year's use, is thought more of to-day than ever, and would not be parted with under any circumstances."—Solon Robinson.

"Your Washing Machine has been in daily use in our laundry and the housekeeper expresses herself as highly pleased with it. It certainly accomplishes a greater amount of work, with less labor, and does not wear the clothes near so much as the old fashioned wash-board. By using it one laundress is dispensed with."—Wm. M. F. Round, Superintendent of Infirm Department of St. Catherine's Nursery, N. Y. City.

PRICES.—A Fair Offer.

Send the retail price Washer $14, Extra Wringer $9 and we will forward either or both machines, free of freight, to places where no one is selling; and so sure are we they will be liked, that we agree to refund the money if any one wishes to return the machines, free of freight, after a month's trial, according to directions.

No husband, father or brother should permit the drudgery of washing with the hands, fifty-two days in the year, when it can be done better, more expeditiously, with less labor, and no injury to the garments, by a Doty Clothes Washer, and a Universal Wringer.

Canvassers with exclusive right of sale make money fast selling them.

Sold by dealers generally, to whom liberal discounts are made.
