W. B. McKinley, Manager of the Taft Campaign.

Representative William Brown McKinley of Illinois, manager of President Taft's campaign for renomination, is also chairman of the Republican congressional committee in charge of the general fight for the election of Republicans to both houses. From his headquarters at Washington Mr. McKinley will direct the preconvention contest. After the convention he will probably relinquish his temporary duties and again take up the work of the congressional committee, although there is a possibility that he may become national chairman to handle the fight against the Democratic nominee.

Four years ago Mr. McKinley was considered for the position of national chairman to conduct Mr. Taft's campaign for the presidency, but Mr. Hitchcock was finally agreed upon.

The new Taft manager is a politician of wide experience. Already he has handled two congressional campaigns, in one of which, four years ago, he was successful and in the other, two years ago, he was swamped, losing the house to the Democrats. Mr. McKinley besides being an aggressive politician is a business man of uncommon ability. He is a native of Illinois, fifty-six years old, and by occupation is a farmer and banker. In business he has been very successful and owns a network of trolley lines that gridiron the middle section of Illinois. He is serving his fourth term as a congressman.

New York's Health Officer.

Dr. Joseph J. O'Connell, the new health officer of the port of New York, is a personal friend of Mayor Gaynor and was recommended by the latter for the post. The port of New York is that of the city of New York, and the health officer is an ex officio member of several city boards.

mental and nervous diseases. He is a native of Brooklyn, forty-five years of age, and is a graduate of St. Xavier's college, New York city. He has been connected with the health service of the city for fifteen years.

He was formerly inspector for the board of health of the old city of Brooklyn at the time when the city was threatened with an epidemic of cholera and yellow fever. He was also associated with other branches of the city government and has had twenty years' experience in this line of activities.

Mr. Wickersham's Wit.

Attorney General Wickersham is not an easy man to make answer a question that he does not wish to answer. Not long ago one of the newspaper correspondents said to him:

"Since you dissolved the oil trust the price of kerosene has advanced 4 cents a gallon. What have you got to say about that?"

"It may be true," remarked Wickersham. "But I haven't bought any kerosene for a week."—New York Press.

O YOU ALFALFA!

What makes the farmer's team so slick
And helps them plow ground double quick
And gives the trotter such a pace
That she quick wins in every race?
Alfalfa.

What makes the cow give double milk,
Sweet golden butter fine as silk,
And her twin calves grow double size
And at the fair win every prize?
Alfalfa.

What makes the roosters crow so loud,
The gobblers strut around so proud?
What makes the hens lay twice a day
And all the poultry pay, pay, pay?
Alfalfa.

What makes the hogs grow extra hams,
The fleecy ewes bear triplet lambs,
The steers quick put on double weight
And the big bull jump o'er the gate?
Alfalfa.

What is it grows so many crops,
Just keeps on growing, never stops;
Makes a new soil of one that's dead
And beats the crimson clover head?
Alfalfa.

What makes the honest farmer smile
From ear to ear, about a mile,
And makes his pocketbook so fat
And pays for wife's fine Easter hat?
Alfalfa.

POINTERS FROM THE TURKEY DOCTOR.

Large gobblers do not insure large stock, for size comes from big hens, but mating very heavy males often results in injured hens. When hens are ripped down the side pluck feathers around wound, bathe with hydrogen peroxide, sew up with white silk, tying each stitch separately, and pen patient alone.

Such injury nearly always results in soft shelled eggs, and the victim is on the shelf for the season.

When turkeys get that sleepy disease that is attended with great thirst, fever and yellow diarrhea and often with distended, sour crop it is nearly always a case of overfeeding or feeding indigestibles. Feeding on filthy ground, green corn, excess cabbage, frozen vegetables or frozen or sour mash frequently thus results.

Ten drops of turpentine in two ounces of milk three nights in succession is a good remedy for adult turkeys.

When turkeys refuse to eat it is not always a case of indigestion. The bird's mouth and throat may be covered with canker patches, the yellow topped sores causing pain and interfering with feeding and even with breathing. Place the patient in comfortable quarters, gently remove canker, apply hydrogen peroxide to raw surfaces and serve a moist milk mash.

When lousy, turkeys often exhibit symptoms of various diseases at the same time, and a wrong diagnosis may be made. It is wise, therefore, to look for lice when turkeys appear sick. Turkey lice especially infest the head, neck, throat, wing quills, thighs and fluff, and pure Persian insect powder dusted into feathers to skin is their finish.

Do you know that of all the minor ailments colds are by far the most dangerous? It is not the cold itself that you need to fear, but the serious diseases that it often leads to. Most of these are known as germ diseases. Pneumonia and consumption are among them. Why not take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and cure your cold while you can? For sale by all dealers.
