Sunday Reading.

California.

It is a fact, long since established, that no nation can live and prosper without the Gospel. And to this general rule, California is by no means an exception. Without the noiseless, yet powerful influence of Christianity, the land of gold would be a terrestrial, hell. Society would be but a heterogeneous mass of selfishness, impurity, and violence. There could be no good government,—no progress in the arts and sciences,—no social or domestic happiness.

And of this, Christians of all denominations seem to be aware. Hence the vigorous and sustained effort to supply this land of adventure with the preaching of the word. All the leading Churches in the older States are represented in California. And we anticipate the day when the mixed multitudes who have so eagerly sought for the shining dust of this world shall come to possession of the true riches. Already numerous Churches have been built, and congregations are assembled at various points, from Sabbath to Sabbath, to hear of that treasure which is "incorruptible and undefiled, and that fadeth not away."

California is also the half-way house between the United States and China. It is vastly easier to cross the Pacific than it is to reach the Celestial Empire by the way of the Atlantic and Indian Oceans. It may be that this mid-land will ultimately prove to be a Seminary for the education, and a port for the departure, of Missionaries to China.

How is the latter country to be christianized? To send preachers from Christendom to evangelize more than 300 millions of Pagans would be a costly, expensive, and almost hopeless work. Let the NATIVES of those idolatrous countries be converted, and be sent our with the words of salvation on their lips, and then it will not be long until the home of Heathenism shall become the dwelling place of the Most High.

Let the 6,000 Chinese now in California become the sons of God, and Ministers of Christ. Let the Temple which they have rented on American soil be dedicated to Christian worship, and let these newly converted children of idolatry be sent back to Pekin and Canton, and Shanghai, and there enter their native country. And soon the fire of God's love kindled in a thousand cities, towns, and villages, will shed its invigorating radiance upon other Pagan lands. Who will refuse to pray, and give, and hope for California!

The Only Book.

The life of William Lee Richmond, son of Reverend Legh Richmond, author of the "Dairyman's Daughter" and "Young Cottager," furnishes us one of the most delightful examples of early piety on record; and these are his words:

"For the last three months, the Bible has been my sole instructor. It has gradually led me on to clear light and real experience, till every promise is my own. I have read the genuine part of it through several times, during my illness; and often on a Sunday, when I have spent the day alone, I have read the whole of the New Testament, unable to leave off till I had pursued all the road of the Spirit at once. Perhaps my father has thought I read too few religious books. He has looked at books of an original nature he put in my way. I might give myself on this respect as an example; but I have found it to be beneath from books, sermons, or conversations. The Bible—the Bible alone, has taught me everything. If I read books on religion, however excellent, the thought always haunts me, that book is human—it may be wrong. I could not rest till I went to the Bible. Here I felt at once a child and infinite; and I found such comfort in the simple truth of God's Word, that I set aside every other book from effect."

Again he said to his sister on a certain occasion—"You must pray over the Bible. Without the teaching of the Spirit, it will do you no good. You must apply it as you go on, to yourself, and feel it personally, or you will get no benefit, though you read the whole day over it. I have been in the habit of reading my Bible on my knees, and I recommend you to do the same. It encourages prayer. I have found it very useful to turn Scripture into prayer, using the very words. There is not a position I have not turned into prayer. I have felt safe in quoting prayers from the Bible, because then I knew I could not err. Let prayer always be preceded by self-examination. Lay your heart bare before God. Indulge not even a doubtful feeling—one secret sin will cloud all."

GIRARD COLLEGE.

It is well known, was founded on infidel principles; and with extreme precaution of the Council to keep Christianity out of it. The Christianity has got in, with the sanction of those authorities. The College has a Chapel which is filled at an early hour every day with 300 lads, and their teachers meet for prayer, and reading the Scriptures, and three times on Sunday for regular worship and instruction.

The University of Virginia has had a like experience. It was projected by Jefferson, on a plan exclusive of religion. But experience soon taught the absolute necessity of religion to its success. It now has chaplains and regular courses of lectures on the evidences of Christianity.

EPISCOPAL STATISTICS.

Swords's Church Almanac for 1852, gives the following:—The number of Dioceses in this country of the Protestant Episcopal church, is 29; Bishops, 33; Priests and Deacons, 1572; whole number of clergy, 1605. Deaths of clergy the past year, 19; ordinations—deacons, 49; priests, 66; candidates for orders in fifteen dioceses, 67.200; Sunday school scholars in twenty-two dioceses; 40.507; contributions to church objects in twenty five dioceses, $339.533.01.

IRELAND.

On Sunday the 4th February an edict was promulgated in the Dublin Roman Catholic chapels against mixed marriages. Any member of the Roman Church who marries a Protestant or other heretic, is to be cut off from the Church. Those who are at present married to Protestants are exhorted to bring their children up in the Catholic faith. At Mayo, on Sunday, the ceremony of burning the revised English translation of the Bible has been frequently performed.

DEFECTS IN THE MINISTRY.

Rev. Dr. Rice, in an article on reading sermons, says: "One of the greatest defects in the ministry of the Presbyterian Church, Old and New School, is their inability to bring their talents and their acquirements to bear upon the masses of the people so as to interest them." There is truth in the remark, and those who have the training of the ministry ought to have an especial reference to teaching them how to adapt their instructions to the masses of the untrained, uneducated minds upon whom they will have to operate in after years. Of the Great Teacher, who is the model, it was said, "the common people heard him gladly" The common people then were quite as ignorant and uncultivated as they are in any part of the country.

PRESBYTERIAN COLONY IN OREGON.

The Pittsburg Gazette says:—"A company of persons belonging to the Presbyterian Church is about to found a colony in Oregon, Rev. J. A. Hanna goes out as pastor, and among the members enrolled, who now number sixty persons, are physician, nine farmers, ten teachers, two mercantile clerks, a professional gardener, a wool manufacturer, a carpenter, a machinist, a saddler, &c. A good many of them have wives and children. The overland route is fixed on, and the party is to rendezvous at Cincinnati on the 15th of March, and at St. Joseph's on the 15th of April.

RESULTS OF MISSIONARY EFFORTS.

In a notice of John Foster on missions, in the National Intelligencer, it is stated that "the income of the past year of foreign missionary societies exceeds three millions of dollars, whose missionaries number nearly two thousand, occupying fourteen hundred stations, employing fifty printing establishments, and about five thousand native and other assistants; exhibiting about 200.000 converts in Christian communion, and a still greater number of children and adults in school." When we consider that these magnificent and promising results have arisen from causes just beginning to be feebly developed in 1818, when John Foster gave expression to his great thoughts in behalf of the missionary enterprise, what may we not anticipate from the mission spirit of the church during the next half century.

YOUTH'S DEPARTMENT.

The Happy Land.

There is a happy land,
Far, far away,
Where saints in glory stand,
Bright, bright as day:
O how they sweetly sing,
Worthy is our Saviour King,
Loud let his praises ring,
Praise, praise for aye!

Come to that happy land,
Come, come away!
Why will you doubting stand,
Why still delay?
O we shall happy be,
When from sin and sorrow free,
Look we shall live with thee,
Blest, blest for aye!

Bright is that happy land,
Beauteous ever, eye,
Kept by a Father's hand,
Love cannot die.
O, I am to glory run:
Be a crown and kingdom won,
And bright above the sun,
We'll go for aye!

Spare Moments.

The truth is boys, you have no spare moments, if by this expression you mean useless time. We really wish we could make all our young readers sensible of this. Instead of a sermon on this subject, at the present time, we will give them a little anecdote, told by Mrs. Knight:—

A lean, awkward boy came one morning to the door of the principal of a celebrated school, and asked to see him. The servant eyed his mean clothes, and thinking he looked more like a beggar than anything else, told him to go around to the kitchen. The boy did as he was bidden, and soon appeared at the back door.

"I should like to see Mr. ——," said he.

"You want a breakfast, more like," said the servant girl, "and I can give you that without troubling him."

"Thank you," said the boy, "I should have no objection to a bit of bread; but I should like to see Mr. ——, if he can see me."

"Some old clothes, may be you want," remarked the servant, again eyeing the boy's patched trousers. "I guess he has none to spare; he goes away a night;" and without minding the boy's request, she went away about her work.

"Can I see Mr. —— ?" again asked the boy, after finishing his bread and butter.

"Well, he's in the library; if he must be disturbed, he must; but he does like to be alone sometimes; and the girl, in a peevish tone. She seemed to think it very foolish to admit such an ill-looking fellow into her master's presence; however she wiped her hands and lade him follow. Opening the library door, she said:

"Here's somebody, sir, who is dreadful anxious to see you, and as I let him in."

I don't know how the boy introduced himself, or how he opened his business, but I know that after talking awhile, the principal put aside the volume which he was studying, and took up some Greek books and began to examine the new comer. The examination lasted some time. Every question which the principal asked, the boy answered as readily as could be.

"Upon my word," exclaimed the principal "you certainly do well!" looking at the lad from head to foot over his spectacles. "Why, my boy, where did you pick up so much?"

"IN MY SPARE MOMENTS," answered the boy.

Here he was, poor, hard working, with but few opportunities for schooling, yet almost fitted for college, by simply improving his SPARE MOMENTS. Truly, are not spare moments the "gold dust of time?" How precious they should be! What account can you give of your spare moments? What can you show for them? Look and see. This boy can tell you how very much can be laid up by improving them; and there are many, MANY other boys, I am afraid, in the jail, in the house of correction, in the forecastle of a whale ship, in the gambling-house, or in the tippling shop, who, if you should ask them when they began their sinful courses, might answer, "IN MY SPARE MOMENTS." "In my spare moments I gambled for marbles." "In my spare moments I began to smoke and drink." "It was in my spare moments that I began to steal chestnuts from the old woman's stand." "It was in my spare moments that I gathered with wicked associates."

"Oh, be very, very careful how you spend your spare moments!" Temptation always hunts you out in small seasons like these, when you are not busy, he gets into your hearts, if he possibly can, in just such gaps. There he hides himself, planning all sorts of mischief. Take care of your spare moments.

CHERRY PECTORAL

For the Cure of

COUGHS, COLDS, HOARSENESS, BRONCHITIS, WHOOPING-COUGH, CROUP, ASTHMA, AND CONSUMPTION.

Many years of trial, instead of impairing the public confidence in this medicine, has won for it an approbation and notoriety by far exceeding the most sanguine expectations of its friends. Nothing but its intrinsic virtues and the unmistakable benefit conferred on thousands of sufferers, could originate and maintain the reputation it enjoys. While many inferior remedies thrust upon the community, have failed and been discarded, this has gained friends by every trial, conferred benefits on the afflicted they can never forget, and produced cures too numerous and too remarkable to be forgotten.

While it is a fraud on the public to pretend that any one medicine will infallibly cure—still there is abundant proof that the CHERRY PECTORAL does not only as a general thing, but almost invariably, cure the maladies for which it is employed.

As time makes these facts wider and better known, this medicine has gradually become the best reliance of the afflicted, from the log cabin of the American peasant, to the palaces of European Kings. Throughout this entire country, in every State, city, and town, almost every hamlet it contains, CHERRY PECTORAL is known as the best remedy extant for diseases of the Throat and Lungs, and in many foreign countries, it is coming to be extensively used by their most intelligent Physicians. In Great Britain, France and Germany, where the medical sciences have reached their highest perfection, CHERRY PECTORAL is introduced, and in constant use in the Armies, Hospitals, Alms Houses, Public Institutions, and in domestic practice, as the surest remedy their attending Physicians can employ for the more dangerous affections of the lungs. Also in milder cases, and for children it is safe, pleasant, and effectual to cure. In fact, some of the most flattering testimonials we receive have been from parents who have found it efficacious in cases particularly incidental to childhood.

The CHERRY PECTORAL is manufactured by a practical Chemist, and every ounce of it under his own eye, with invariable accuracy and care. It is sealed and protected by law from counterfeits, consequently can be relied on as genuine without adulteration.

We have here endeavored to furnish the community with a medicine of such intrinsic superiority and worth as should commend itself to their confidence—a remedy at once safe, speedy and efficacious, which this has by repeated and countless trials proved itself to be; and truth by great care in preparing it with chemical accuracy, of uniform strength, is offered Physicians a new agent on which they can rely for the best results, and the afflicted with a remedy that will do for them all that medicine can do.

For the removal and permanent cure of all Diseases arising from an impure state of the Blood or habit of the System.

Among the many and important discoveries of this generation in our whole favor will be written, as with a sun beam, in the history of the past. Sands' Sarsaparilla stands forth alone, and by its own works proclaims its power—that more than human power unmistakably affecting in the speedy relief the suffering for relief, has been answered. Thousands of cases of disease have been cured by this invaluable medicine, such as are furnished in the records to show. These things are not done in secret places, or in some unknown town, but are performed in our principal cities and public places. They are brought before the world in substantiate, beyond doubt, the healing virtues of this preparation; and the facts unfolded, although gigantic, are as plain as the light of day.

The Sarsaparilla is combined with the most effectual and the most salutary productions, the most potent simples of the vegetable kingdom; and its unprecedented success in the restoration to health of those who had pined under the most shattering chronic maladies, has given it an exalted character—furnishing, as it does, evidence of its own intrinsic value, and recommending it to the efficacy in terms the afflicted only can know. It is a long been a most important deliberation in the practice of medicine, to obtain a remedy similar to this—one that would act on the liver, stomach and bowels with all the precision and potency of mineral preparations, yet without any of their deleterious effects upon the vital powers of the system. Although possessed of powerful healing properties, it is entirely harmless, and will not injure the most delicate constitution. When in perfect health, no effect is produced by its use, except an increase of appetite; but when disease is seated in the frame, and carrying fast its victims along the path of life, then its mysterious influence is felt and seen; it unlocks the iron lids and sigur, and brings health and strength to the suffering and diseased.

SCROFULOUS AFFECTION OF THE EYES.

WINCHESTER, KY. October 29, 1849

A. B. & D. SANDS—GENTLEMEN: I would not have presumed to write to you, if it was not my duty to let the public know the almost miraculous effect your Sarsaparilla has had upon me. My limbs were covered with ulcerous sores, so that I could not walk during the whole Spring and Summer. In this situation I commenced the use of your Sarsaparilla, and after taking two bottles was entirely cured. I must also tell you of another wonderful cure. My brother was afflicted with this scrofula in his head, so bad his physician told him the loss of his sight was inevitable, and permanent blindness seemed to be his fate. Three bottles entirely restored his sight, and we cannot but recommend all similarly afflicted to use Sands' Sarsaparilla. Yours, truly,

BENJAMIN F. BUCKNER.

ITS POPULARITY ABROAD.

From South America.

Maracaibo, Venezuela, April 12 h, 1849.

Messrs. Sands—Gentlemen: I consider it a duty due the public to make known the great benefit I have received by using your valuable Sarsaparilla. About three years since I was attacked with Rheumatism in my shoulders, and also in my legs, and so severe was the pain, that I was unable to sleep. I tried all of the best medicines I could hear of without receiving any benefit, until through the advice of a friend I procured some of your Sarsaparilla, and after using four bottles in the course of fifteen days, I found myself entirely well. I have no hesitation in saying your Sarsaparilla is the best medicine I ever took, and can confidently recommend it to my friends and the public.

Your obedient servant,
J. M. JESURUN.

Here is another, nearer home:

New York, Jan. 8, 1850.

Messrs. Sands—Gentlemen,—I have great pleasure in acknowledging to you the great benefit I have received by the use of your Sarsaparilla. A subject of pulmonary disease, I made a voyage to Europe, but while there continued to be afflicted. A few weeks after my return I was seized with a violent hemorrhage of the lungs, and from the debility and great prostration of strength that followed with the protracted difficulty of respiration, I am entirely relieved by the use of your Sarsaparilla, which I consider a most important and truly valuable discovery in the healing art. I feel that I have not for fourteen years enjoyed so good health as at present.

Very gratefully yours,
S. E. SEYMORE

When every other remedy has proved ineffectual.

Many persons have said, on reading my pamphlet, that it CURES TOO MANY COMPLAINTS; but I have replied, "Use it according to the directions, and if you do not get relieved, your money will be returned." More I cannot say; for if I cause no benefit I ask no remuneration. All that is asked is a fair trial; then I am assured there will be no dissatisfaction.

It is amazing wonders for Dyspeptics, curing cases of DEBILITY EMACIATION, NERVOUS DECLINE and DYSPEPTIC CONSUMPTION, supposed to be on the verge of the grave. The Scientific evidence upon which it is based, is in the highest degree CURIOUS and REMARKABLE.

SCIENTIFIC EVIDENCE!

BARON LIEBIG in his celebrated work on Animal Chemistry, says: "An Artificial Digestive Fluid, analogous to the Gastric Juice, may be readily prepared from the mucous membrane of the Stomach of the Calf, in which various articles of food, as meat and eggs, will be softened, changed and digested, part in the same manner as they would be in the human stomach."
