ELOQUENT SPEECH FROM WADE HAMPTON.

The ceremonies of unveiling the statue recently erected by the surviving members of the Washington Light Infantry, of Charleston, to their dead comrades who fell in the late civil war, took place Thursday, in the presence of an immense crowd. Gen. Hampton was the orator of the occasion, and made a grand speech. How he answers the miserable creatures who in these latter days are whining that the sword can settle principles, and that A's or B's cause of the Confederacy was a wicked cause, and those who fought for it traitors, is set forth in the appended burning words:

"Let us, then, my friends and comrades, cling with unrelaxing grasp and unshaken confidence to the faith that is in us. Let not the angry threats of oppression or the syren voice of temptation drive or allure us to forsake it. Above all, be not misled by that nonsensing jargon which tells you that your cause was submitted to the arbitrament of arms, and that the sword has decided that cause against you. The sword has never, nor will it ever, decide a principle or establish a truth. It can, as it has often done, overthrow a just cause, and make might take the place of right; but it can never revise the immutable laws of God make what is evil appear right in His sight. A noble cause, upheld heroically by honor, courage and patriotism, may die along with its supporters. A great truth never dies; but, eternal as the God-head from which it sprangs, it lives forever, amid all the changes of dynasties, the wreck of empires, and the death of nations. It is, too, as false in fact as in logic to assert that the sword can or does decide justly between right and wrong. With the sword the Goths and Vandals drenched the fair fields of Italy with the best blood of her sons; it gave nearly half the world to Mahomet; it allowed the Turks to trample out the civilization of Greece. Its keen edge has dismembered Poland. It has left Hungary bleeding at the feet of the oppressor. It has turned over Spain and Portugal to the tender mercies of the Saracen, and on this continent and in our day, directed by unscrupulous power against the throats of prostrate States, reeking with parricidal blood, it enforces the laws which it alone has made. Tell me not, then, that the sword can rightfully turn the scales of justice. It is the exponent of tyranny, not the arbitrator of truth—the badge of the tyrant and the executioner, not the symbol of justice. It is not at all inconsistent with these views that we, as a conquered people, should observe scrupulously the terms dictated by the sword and accepted by us. We can do this and should do it, in perfect good faith; but we should claim and exercise the God-given right of free dom of opinion. We acknowledge that the cause for which these men died is lost, but we should be false to that cause were we to admit that they were, because of failure, necessarily wrong. We believe that they were right, and we therefore honor and respect their memory. If they were right, time will vindicate the action and record their fame. If wrong,

"It was a grievous fault,
And grievously have they answered it."

A YOUNG MAN SHARES HIS FORTUNE WITH A DISINHERITED BROTHER.

Ten—yes, fifteen—years ago, says the Kansas City Times, there lived in St. Joseph a family by the name of Adams, the head of which was a stern though kind old gentleman, whom fifty winters had touched lightly. He was wealthy, but what he prized far above all was the pride of his old age—two noble boys, George and Frank, aged respectively eighteen and twenty. The war came on—the terrible strife in which brother was arrayed against brother and father against son. Mr. Adams was an uncompromising Union man, and his eldest son, George, espoused his father's cause. Frank joined the forces in defense of the Sunny South under William Y. Black. When his father learned of the course taken by the younger his rage knew no bounds. He sent him word to return, or he was no longer heir to his broad acres or a recipient of his love. His son replied that no inducement would cause him to surrender his principles. The old gentleman drew up his will, leaving his youngest son penniless. The war continued, each of the brothers fighting valiantly in defense of their different banners. Peace once more blessed the land, and the eldest son returned home, while the younger loitered in this city, and by his courteous bearing and close attention to business gained hosts of friends. His whereabouts was unknown to either father or brother, and though he loved them both his pride would not permit him to return to a home from which he had been cut off in a moment of passion. The old gentleman was gathered to his fathers, and his eldest son became sole heir to his wealth. George was no sooner in possession of his property than he made diligent search for his brother, and after a time traced him to this city. The meeting between the brothers occurred only last week, and was both cordial and affecting. The eldest caused a deed of half his estate to be made out in favor of his younger brother, and forced the acceptance upon him. Such a deed is noble, grand and magnanimous, therefore we give St. Joe the credit as stated above. The incident is true, as persons in both cities can testify.

Ohio comes up and puts in its claim for the champion of remarkable memory. It claims that a man in Salem, in that State, can tell from memory the weather of any and every day since 1827 that he distinctly remembers whether any day was clear or cloudy, warm or cold, rainy or snowy.

An ingenious citizen of Connecticut has invented a machine for indicating the condition of an egg. By an ingenious but simple contrivance it can be made to tell an egg soft or hard, rings a bell when they are done takes them from the water and is only second to a cuckoo clock.

There are thirty-two dailies in New York City—six in German, two in French, one in Scandinavian, and the rest in English. These dailies print 820,000,000 sheets annually, and their receipts are about $8,700,000.

Discoveries of bones at Sioux city, Iowa, indicate that the aboriginal residents in that locality were all eight feet high.

SWEET QUININE. As a Recent Improvement. Replaces the use of the BITTER SULPHATE QUININE, with which all are familiar. Dose for dose, it is WARRANTED Fully equal in every way to Sulphate of Quinine, AND, LIKE IT, IS THE ONE Great, Positive, and Unfailing CURE For all Diseases of Malarious Origin, Fever and Ague, Intermittent Fever, Chill Fever, Remittent Fever, Bilious Fever, Dumb Ague, and the long train of disorders following these when neglected.

SWEET QUININE is made entirely from Peruvian Bark (as is Bitter Quinine), therefore is of Vegetable origin, and not a Mineral poison, hence the contrary is proved to be one of the elements found in the blood of all healthy persons.

SWEET QUININE Cuts in all instances is, as well as a sure, substantial or alterative tonic, the absorption of which by the lungs causes Intoxication, Headache, Deafness, Costiveness, Nervous Prostration, etc. The most advantageous claimed for SWEET QUININE over the use of old Bitter Quinine is the entire absence of that intensely persistent bitterness which is the bane to an insurmountable obstacle to its use with most persons, and always with children.

SWEET QUININE is in two forms—in POWDER, for the use of Physicians and Druggists, and FLUID, for use in the family and for the general public.
