THE OXYGENATED BITTERS.

The qualities of this medicine have placed it upon an imperishable foundation. In destroying disease, and inducing health, it has no parallel.

For the following Complaints these Bitters are a specific viz:—Dyspepsia, or Indigestion, Heart-Burn, Acidity, Costiveness, Loss of Appetite, Headache, and General Debility.

In many sections of our country this preparation is extensively used by physicians in their practice, and it seems to have restored many to health who were apparently beyond the reach of the healing art.

YORK, Livingston Co., N. Y., Oct. 1, 1859.

Messrs S. W. Fowle & Co.,—

Sirs:—Dyspepsia, with its numberless associates, took up its abode with me, in opposition to the skill of many of the most celebrated physicians, until the spirit was willing (if no relief could be found) to surrender and bid adieu to its earthly tabernacle, when I was induced, by the urgency of a friend, to try THE OXYGENATED BITTERS, little dreaming that the Gilead was in the boundless sea of patent nostrums, as it was the first draught I was ever induced to quaff.—But thanks be to God, it was a balm, and a most efficient and grateful one, too. The most aggravating symptoms in my case were immoderate and irregular beating of the heart immediately after taking food, attended with great prostration, and very frequently violent attacks of palpitation, lasting from twelve to twenty-four hours, leaving the stomach so perfectly powerless that even a spoonful of milk or rice water would seem burdensome. I commenced by taking half a teaspoonful—the extent was a full one. I was very persevering until I had taken three bottles; since then, at intervals, I have taken two more.

I began to realize its genial effects immediately; besides, it is extremely grateful and refreshing as a beverage, which is a charm that but few medicines can boast of. I would, sirs, most heartily and earnestly beg all who are afflicted with Dyspepsia in any form to test your Oxygenated Bitters, as I do esteem them invaluable.

Very respectfully. MISS M. STOCKING.

Prepared by SETH W. FOWLE & CO., Boston, and for sale by E. Nye Hutchison & Co., Charlotte, and by all druggists. Addie & Gray, Richmond, M. A. & C. A. Santos, Norfolk Wholesale Dealers. 13:
