J. H. DANIEL } Editor,
J. P. PITTMAN } Business Manager.
DUNN, Harnett County, N. C.

DUNN, N. C., NOVEMBER 14, 1894.

WE wish to informe the patrons and friends of THE TIMES that we have formed a copartnership with Mr. J. P. Pittman, of Smithfield, for several years with The Herald, who becomes equally interested with us. Our object in doing so, is that owing to the liberal patronage of the people of Dunn and surrounding country which goes to show that they appreciate our efforts since we took charge of THE TIMES We now want to give them a better pape and also owing to the fact that we find it impossible to attend to our professional duties as we should, and to prevent the paper from being neglected.

We have also purchasen a first class job printing outfit, which will be run in connection with THE TIMES, so remember that when you wish anything in the job printing line, that THE TIMES office is the place to get first class work done. We will guarantee prices, and will compare work with any job office in North Carolina.

Mary Ann wants to go to Congress.

Our Washington letter is full of plain facts that cannot be disputed by any.

The "Burds" ripped and snorted over supposed "election frauds," but since the election we have not heard a word from them. We suppose that they have come to the conclusion that their charges was false.

A Republican came into our sanctum the other morning with a broad "grin on," and said: Did'nt we (meaning the the Rep.) fool the Third Ites up fine? We don't care for small county offices—all we wanted was to get controal of the government again. Don't you know if the Third Ites principles was carried out—don't you know our country would be in h—— in a year!" We imformed him that we thought that it would be there anyway.

Why be ye disconsolate, Sir Democrats? If the party who are now in power, had any honor, or the socalled party who helped to lead them to victory, had any principal, then we might feel somewhat bad over our defeat, but all know, scalawags and cutthroats can have their way a while, but cannot all the time.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

The Democrats ought to learn something of the Waterloo of last Tuesday. Six months before Cleveland was nominated there were factions in the party, the leaders of which were determine to thwart his policy in case he should be nominated in spite of them. He was nominated and elected. On March 5th these Democrats commenced operations. Their game culminated in the desperate fight waged here for months between a Democratic House and a Democratic President on one side with a few bullsheaded Senators actuated solely by motives of self-interest, on the other side. There has existed in the U. S. Senate a conspiracy, or what amounts to a conspiracy, against the President and his policy ever since Cleveland was nominated. The reckless extravagance of the Senate is another cause of the Waterloo. The exclusive airs of some of the swell heads who got into the Senate by unscrupulous methods, men who never sew $5,000 before in their lives, men to whom state craft and lofty patriotism are and must ever remain, Elusonian mysteries, added to the disgust of the people. The Republicans are more guilty than the Democrats in this respect, and if the people should get ints power I believe they would be worse still. The remedy is with the people. Hon. Henry St. George Tucker of Va., introduced a resolution to amend the Constitution and elect Senators by popular vote, which passed the House and has been approved by the Legislatures of a number of States. Let the people demand that this proposed amendment to the Constitution by adopted, and the Senators will no longer dare to spend hundreds of thousands of dollars in toilest luxuries and medicine chests for themselves and their mistresses! No more sons of Senators will keep two houses here at the Government expense. No more kin of Senators will be pensioned on the Government, some of whom belong to the opposite party and owe their preferment solely to the fact that they are related to Senator So and So. No more big elevators will run at the U. S. Capitol for the "exclusive use of Senators and their families" while the people who put them there, are forced to crowd into a smaller one. I have seen all this in the fair white marble building that the people built on Capitol Hill.

The Senate caused the delay in passing the Tariff Bill. The voice of fearless Zebulon Bayard Vance was raised in protest, until it was silenced in death against the conspiracy which sought to thwart the will of the people as spoken by the Democratic House of Representatives, and Grover Cleveland The Congressional Records contain proofs of this assertion. Vance never pretended any affection for Cleveland, He sincerely and courageously fought him from first to last. When I saw Grover Cleveland sitting at the head of Vance's coffin in the Senate Chamber a North Carolina Congressman beside me said "Cleveland is nearer to Vance than he has been since March 4th. I replied, "It would have been better for both and our state if they had known each other more intimately." But Vance knew the meaning of the tidal wave which elected a democratic House, Senate and President and if a handful of tricksters in the Senate had not deliberately tried to stem that current, the result of the election November 6, 1894, would have been different. Now let us take our defeat like men. In two years there will be another election. In the interium there is much work to be done south of Mason and Dixon's line, which has nothing to do with politics From the mountains to the sea shore our sections, team with marvelous resources, Mines of gold, mountains of Mica, quarries of marble, and brownstone, acres of primeval forrest, vast areas of land so fertile that every cereal can be produced on it, await the judicious management and cultivation of yeomen of the South. Let this experience teach the people a lesson and it will not be in vain that for the next two years Grover Cleveland, a Democratic President has to content with a Republican House of 255 members and a Republican Senate with a safe majority presided over by Vice-President Adlai E. Stevenson. The picture is not a pleasing one but its existence is primarily due to the duplicity the arrogance the extravagance of a handful of Senators whose individual selfishness and duplicity are to their patroitism and honesty as zero is to infinity. Mr. Bayard who is here says he is not surprised at the result. He attributes it to the delay in passing the Tariff Bill which delay was due to the Senatorial tomfoolery above referred to in this column. Vice-President Adlaia E. Stevenson gives the same reason for it. So does W. M. C. Whitney, but this oble New Yorker says the party can profit by this experience and win in 1896. I believe this is true, but our people must profit by the lesson and refuse to go back into the old order of things. At this date I can scarcely realize the fact that North Carolina has broken the back bone of the solid south. North Carolina's financial credit was above par in New York and other great Commercial centers. The new census shows her boundless resources. To this she owes her good reputation. A typical politican never yet helped her. The work of her ye rmany added to her great natural wealth are the secrets of her past present future well being. A Fusionist Legislature won st p the swindles of such men as the Holts and Frieses; nor silence the manufacturiers of Charlotte, the Queen City of the Piedmont section—no shut up the tobacco factories of the Dukes, the Carrass or the Hane's nor diminist the commerce of the sea coast cities. Defeat is bad enough, but brave men will make the best of it, and learn from it how to win in 1896. With Tom Reed as Speaker of the Next House and a motley crew in the Republican—Fusionist Senate, there will be some tough times ahead for the G. O. P. The defeat of Hon. John S. Henderson is in my honest opinion, the worst thing that has happened to the State of North Carolina He is honest, able, industrious, loyal, and one of the best lawyers on either side of the Rotonda
