LENTZ-MONTGOMERY MARRIAGE.

A Beautiful, Quiet, Home Wedding in the Parlor of the Bride's Home—The Members of the Family and a Few Invited Friends Present.

At 9:30 o'clock Wednesday morning in the parlor at the home of Judge Montgomery midst a group of very intimate friends and the members of the family, the marriage vows were given by Rev. E H Harding, of Virginia, uniting Mr. Jay D Lentz and Miss Mary Montgomery.

It was a beautiful home wedding. At the appointed hour, in came the groom on the arm of Mr. Clarence McNeely, and the bride on the arm of her sister, Miss Lucy Montgomery. The attendants were Mr. Rufus McPherson and Miss Janie Richmond, and Mr. Richmond Montgomery and Miss May Richmond. Little Misses Adelaide Barrow and Amy Allen Montgomery acted as the ribbon girls, and Master William Sherrill the ring bearer. Adding still more to the occasion was the beautiful music rendered by Mrs. W R Harris and Messrs. H M Barrow and Jordan Barrow, with piano, cornet and violin.

After the ceremony the bridal couple boarded No. 36, the north bound train for Richmond, Va. and elsewhere. They will be gone a week, after which the groom will resume his work as principal of the Concord High School.

Made it a Merry Christmas.

Miss Sallie Miller at Mr. W R Odell's conceived and executed a very happy little way of enjoying an ideal Christmas.

She made known her plans and was generously aided by a number of the like minded in securing $7.00 in cash and articles in the line of dry goods, notions and confectionaries which were collected and taken to the county home Sunday afternoon.

There was joy in that home as each received some useful and some pleasing article along with 25 cents to spend as each one chose. It was not only wishing but making a merry Christmas for donees and donors.

CHILD BADLY BURNED.

A Small Negro Girl Almost Burned to Death Below Town—Its Clothes Catch Fire From the Fireplace.

Shortly after 8 o'clock this (Wednesday) morning Georgia Roery, a negro girl who was living in a house near Mr. Jacob Dove's, below town, was almost burned to death. While standing before the fire her clothes caught fire.

She quickly ran out of the house towards her mother, who was staying at Mr. Dove's. Her mother met her and quickly stripped her of her clothes but almost too late to save her life.

The child is in a serious condition and there is not much hope of its recovery. The child is only about two years old.

Mrs. Millie Wagoner Dead.

Numbers of our older people will remember a man, Daniel Wagoner, who lived here a number of years ago and who was a well known blacksmith. He has been dead a long time, but on Monday his widow, Millie Wagoner, followed him to the grave. She was nearly 90 years of age and lived at H L Suther's, near Troutman's. The news of her death caused sadness to Mr. Daniel Heathcock, of this place, who looked upon this man and wife as his parents almost, as he was reared from childhood by them and continues to follow the trade taught him by Mr. Wagoner.

Cutting Affray in Long Creek.

There was a serious cutting affray in Long Creek Monday. Joe DeBerry, a half witted white man, and a man by the name of Cox became involved in a difficulty. DeBerry, it is said, pulled a pistol and when he did Cox drew his knife and cut a gash eight inches long in DeBerry's side. While the wound is not necessarily fatal, it is serious.

The case has been postponed for several days on account of DeBerry's condition.—Charlotte News.

A Dinner to the Brown Families.

GEN. LAWTON ON THE WAR.

Words as if Sounding Back From the Grave.

At a banquet of the New England society held in New York recently Mr. Barrett, responding to the toast "The New Pacific," began by saying:

"In my hand I hold," an unread warning and message to the American people—for I hope through the medium of the New England society that they may go to all his mourning countrymen—which came to me during the last month in the form of a letter from this hero, whom I not only admired and loved but had often seen on the firing line. Had he lived his official position would have prevented giving publicity to these sentiments. As he is gone, but his influence still lives, it is good that they should be heralded throughout the land.

He then read the following from a private letter from Gen. Lawton.

"I would to God that the whole truth of this whole Philippine situation could be known by every one in America as I know it. If the real history, inspiration and conditions of this insurrection, and the influences, local and external, that now encourage the enemy, as well as the actual possibilities of these islands and peoples and their relations to this great east, could be understood at home, we would hear no more talk of unjust 'shooting of government' into the Filipinos, or of hauling down our flag in the Philippines. If the so-called anti-imperialists would honestly ascertain the truth on the ground and not in distant America, they, whom I believe to be honest men misinformed, would be conviced of the error of their statements and conclusions, and of the unfortunate effect of their publications here. If I am shot by a Filipino bullet it might as well come from one of my own men, because I know from observations, confirmed by captured prisoners, that the continuance of fighting is chiefly due to reports that are sent out from America."

The speaker continuing said: "Who can question the honesty of opinion voiced by this fearless noble soldier whom all the nation mourns? Without political ambition, and with no object or purpose beyond that of faithfully serving his country, he speaks out the blunt, sincere feelings that welled up from his big heart and are confirmed by intimate acquaintance with the facts he unselfishly discusses.

"With the impending consideration by Congress of the Philippine question it is well that there should be a clearing of the atmosphere and unprejudiced effort to reach the truth and do what is right in our responsibilities.

"The apparent bitterness and intense prejudice that so often characterize the arguments of the 'anti-responsibility' party cannot help the cause. No matter how much we respect the personal character of Mr. Winslow, Mr. Atkinson, former Senator Edmunds, Senator Mason and Colonel Bryan, it cannot be expected in all frankness that the American people will follow the advice of these men who have never been in the Philippines, or even crossed the great Pacific, in preference to that of Admiral Dewey, President Schurman, Minister Denby, Professor Worcester and General Lawton, who have mastered the history and conditions of the problem by actual contact, participation or association."

"The Filipinos provoked the outbreak, and hence the Filipinos must suffer the inevitable consequences. They had deliberately fired upon our flag, and there could be no satisfaction except unconditional surrender."

WINE OF CARDUI

WOMEN WHO WORK.

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 12.
Though only 19 years old, I suffered from pains and female troubles two years. Last spring I got so bad I had to quit work. I had to support myself, and could not afford a high-priced doctor. I got one bottle of Wine of Cardui and that made me feel better. Have now used several bottles and am well. My mother used the Wine for Change of Life and was greatly relieved.
MISS MARGARET WALSH.

McELREE'S
Wine of Cardui

Many girls and women find it necessary to earn their own living in various kinds of employment. Their work is often so hard and confining that the health breaks down. Their delicate constitutions are unfitted for tiresome tasks. Weakness nearly always makes its appearance in the peculiarly delicate womanly organs. Constant standing on the feet, and coming and going at the beck of a superintendent or foreman, induces falling of the womb, leucorrhœa, headache and backache. The pay of women workers is often notoriously small that when sickness comes they have no money to engage skillful physicians. To them Wine of Cardui is truly a blessing. It cures them of their ills at a small cost, and they can act as their own physicians. No doctor can do as much for "female troubles" as Wine of Cardui.
