APPLETONS' AMERICAN CYCLOPÆDIA
New Revised Edition.

Entirely rewritten by the ablest writers on every subject. Printed from new type, and illustrated with some of Thousand engravings and Maps.

THE work originally published under the title of THE NEW AMERICAN CYCLOPÆDIA was completed in 1864; since which time the wide circulation which it has attained in all parts of the United States, and the signal developments which have taken place in every branch of science, literature and art, have indicated to the editors and publishers the propriety of submitting it to an exact and thorough revision, with a view to issue a new edition entitle THE AMERICAN CYCLOPÆDIA.

Within the last ten years the progress of discovery in every department of knowledge has made a new work of reference an imperative want.

The movement of political affairs has kept pace with discovery of science, and their fruitful application to the industrial and useful arts and the convenience and enjoyment of social life. Great events and consequent revolutions have occurred, involving national changes of peculiar moment. The civil war of our own country, which was at its height when the last volume of the old work appeared, has happily been ended, and a new course of commercial and industrial activity has been commenced.

Large accessions to our geographical knowledge have been made by the indefatigable explorers of Africa.

The great political revolutions of the last decade, with the natural result of the lapse of time, have brought into public view a multitude of new men, whose names are in every one's mouth, and of whose lives every one is curious to know the particulars; and battles have been fought and important sieges maintained, of which the details are as yet preserved only in the newspapers in the transient publications of the day, but which ought now to take their place in permanent and authentic history.

In preparing the present edition for the press, it has accordingly been the aim of the editors to bring down the information to the latest possible date, and to furnish an accurate account of the most recent discoveries in science, of every fresh production in literature, and of the newest inventions in the practical arts, as well as to give a succint and original record of the progress of political and historical events.

The work has been begun after long and careful preliminary labor, and with the most ample resources for carrying it on to a successful termination.

Some of the original stereotype plates have been used, but every page has been printed on new type, forming in fact a new Cyclopædia with the same plan and compass as its predecessor, but with a far greater popularity, expenditure, and with such improvements in composition as have been suggested by longer experience and enlarged knowledge.

The illustrations which are introduced for the first time in the present edition have been added not for the sake of pictorial effect, but to give greater lucidity and force to the explanations in the text. They embrace all branches of science and of natural history and depict the most famous and remarkable features of scenery, architecture, and art, as well as the various processes of mechanics and manufactures. Although intended for instruction rather than mere ornament, no pains have been spared to insure their artistic excellence; the cost of their execution is enormous, and it is believed will find a welcome reception as an adequate feature of the Cyclopædia, and worthy of its high character.

This work is sold to Subscribers only, payable on delivery of each volume. It will be completed in sixteen large octavo volumes, each containing about 750 pages fully illustrated with several thousand Wood Engravings, and with numerous colored Lithographic Maps.
