

Purim Blast

The Lubavitch, N.C. under the direction of Rabbi Yossi Groner, sponsored a very successful "Purim Blast" at the Little Theatre on March 7. It was a filled-to-capacity crowd: in fact it was SRO. Children, parents and grandparents delighted to the antics of Megillah gorilla, the clowns, puppets and songs and games led by Rabbi Groner's assistants; New Yorkers, Label Baumgarten and Mendy Dubrawsky. The queen was Allison Gaynor and the king, Dennis Kingberg.

Balloons, prizes, candy and Shaloch Monos were given to the children. Lunch was provided and microwave ovens were busy warming up hot dogs, knishes and Hamantashen for the hungry crowd. Sunday school children were bussed from both Temple Israel and Temple Beth El after their regular school session.

Everyone was excited about this first "Purim Blast" and hopefully it will be repeated next year. One word of advice — a larger place will be needed after the word gets out about this one to all those who did not attend!
