DOUBLE M'S: Haven't you ever heard of the M&M's with the Yankee's? Ninety three yards. Now that's what I call bringin' it (knew you could do it). I'm glad you all kept your composure in the second half, because I sure didn't. I just about tore my couch all to pieces. Now we're gettin' somewhere! Hey, I wasn't stonewalling last fall. I was so totally humiliated, I literally couldn't say anything. When people — from the least, to the most important among us — have an extra hurdle or two to go over, they need a little tolerance and understanding, not a slap in the face (pay backs are bush league, aren't they?). Well, don't be sensitive. There's not much room for that around here: Pee Wee (P.S. If I were talented enough to get a scholarship, you'd better believe I'd be in the weight room as much as I needed to be — even if some of these women around here did turn up their noses — which they often do to me anyway. This whole thing couldn't have been a few catty sorority girls trying to stir up trouble, could it? Hmmmm.) To the girls on Rosemary St.: You can turn your alarm down. I wouldn't hurt you for all the barn yogurt in Oklahoma.: Pee Wee.

ALEX — Suprised again? As usual, I've really missed you. I'm so glad you're here. Weekends are too short — i love you — Love, Cindy.
