MOVIES AT THE UNION (all times p.m.)

Thursday, Nov. 10 — 7 and 9:30

Tempest This excellent, though loose, adaptation of Shakespeare's play stars John Cassavetes as an architect who gets fed up with things and heads off to Greece with his daughter (Molly Ringwald). Also starring Raul Julia, Susan Sarandon and Gena Rowlands, this genuinely funny comedy is co-written by UNC alumnus Leon Capetanos with director Paul Mazursky ("Down and Out in Beverly Hills").

Friday, Nov. 11 — 7 and 9:30

Wall Street Michael Douglas is so incredibly brilliant in this movie that it really doesn't matter that the ending to this superb story about the swindles of Wall Street life is weak. Written and directed by Oliver Stone ("Platoon"), whose new movie "Talk Radio" should be out by Christmas — in case you were wondering.

Friday, Nov. 11, and Saturday, Nov. 12 — Midnight

Rock 'n' Roll High School The Ramones play the tunes to this irresistably wild and silly movie about a rebellious teenager who riles her fellow students to protest the repression of the new principal. Enough said.

Saturday, Nov. 12 — 7 and 9:30

Last Tango in Paris This Bertolucci masterpiece caused so much controversy when it was released in 1973 that it wasn't shown in Italy until 1986. Marlon Brando and Maria Schnieder play a couple who meet in Paris and do more than tango to pass the time. Brando is quite superb in his last really great role (after "The Godfather") in this modern day classic from the director of "The Last Emperor."

Sunday, Nov. 13 — 7 & 9:30

The Fallen Idol This terrific adaptation of a Graham Greene story stars Ralph Richardson as a servant who is accused of murdering his wife, despite the protests of a young boy who idolizes him. Director Carol Reed shows the kind of skill at directing children that he used to such great effect in "Oliver!"

Compiled by Richard Smith and James Dean.
