Sarah Ann's Cooking Class

"I cant think of anything that would really taste good, anyway. I haven't time to plan a meal, so I"ll just let the cook get something together. If John is hungry he'll eat it."

How often have you listened to words like these. At dinner she wonders why John does't seem to have an appetite and why he eats the same thing at the neighbors and not his own home. Poor thing, she doesn't realize the difference of having food served or having it thrown at one. All of us can't have a gift making varied and attractive food combinations, but all housekeepers can take time to plan their meals. Learn some new and interesting foods.
