THE DEMOCRATIC NOMINATIONS.

Letter of Senator Doolittle, of Wisconsin.

WASHINGTON, July 13, 1868.

O. H. Ostrander, Esq., Danville, Penn.:

DEAR SIR:—I am in receipt of your letter of the 10th instant, in which, speaking for yourself and forty-eight other Conservative Republicans of your town, you express a "sense of disappointment and regret that no better names had been offered by the Democratic party to lead the Conservative and patriotic masses of the people to victory, and the Radical Republican party to deserving and merited defeat. As a gentleman and a statesman Mr. Seymour holds our respect, but as a Peace Democrat we are indisposed to vote for him;" and you are pleased to say, that if my name, among others, had been placed at the head of the ticket, "all would have gone well, and victory would have been certain." You desire my opinion upon the situation and "the prospects of a third party."

I thank you for the confidence thus reposed in me, and shall not shrink from the responsibility of stating frankly my opinion.

I do not think the organization of any third party is wise, or can work any practical good to the great cause in which we are engaged. In the very nature of things, when great principles are at stake, there are, and there can be, but two effective political parties. "He that is not for me is against me," in politics as well as in religion, is a truth upon which every wise man is compelled to act.

What, then, is the great and paramount issue? What is that great and unpardonable wrong for which the Radical party is now arraigned and should be overthrown?

It is substantially this:

In violation of the Constitution—in violation of pledges made and often repeated, from the first battle of Bull Run to the end of the war; pledges to the North to get men and money; pledges especially made to the Democracy to get their support in the field and in the elections; pledges made to the South to induce them to lay down their arms and to renew their allegiance; and pledges to foreign powers to prevent intervention—in violation of all these solemn pledges, upon which we invoked the blessings of Almighty God upon our cause, and by which alone we gained strength to master the rebellion—in violation of the natural and inalienable right of the civilized men of every State to govern themselves, and in violation of the clear provisions of the Constitution, which leaves to each State for itself the right to regulate suffrage, this party has, without trial, by ex post facto laws, disfranchised hundreds of thousands of the most intelligent of their citizens, and has forced upon ten States and six millions of our own Anglo Saxon race the universal and unqualified suffrage of seven hundred thousand ignorant, and, in the main, half-civilized negroes.

This is the great wrong for which that party is arraigned at the bar of public judgment, and for which it should be overthrown.

To consummate that great wrong, they have abolished all civil government, and civil liberty even, in these ten States.

They have established five absolute military despotisms, wherein all rights to life, liberty, and property are subject to the will of one man.

They have kept the Union divided.

They have prevented the restoration of industry;

They have kept down the credit of the Government, during three years of peace, to a point so low that, to the shame of every American, the six per cent. bonds of the United States sell for only 72 in gold, while the bonds of Brazil, bearing only four per cent. interest, bring over 90 in gold;

They have encroached upon the just rights of the Executive.

They have threatened the independence of the Supreme Court;

They have unjustly, and without cause, impeached and put upon trial the President himself, and by every species of denunciation, and even by threats of assassination, have endeavored to force the Senate to convict him, in order to place in the Executive chair one who will use all its power to consummate that gigantic wrong against the Constitution, against our plighted faith, against civilization, and against our own race and kindred.

The Convention in New York can do the purpose of organizing to overthrow the party in power for this great wrong, and to restore the Union and the Constitution, and the rights of the States, and of all the States under it. Now, I do not say the nominations made at New York are the very best that could have been made for that purpose.

The elements to be organized into a victorious army were four fold. To use a military figure, there were four army corps to be organized into one grand army:

First. The great Democratic corps.

Second. The War Democratic corps.

Third. The Conservative Republican corps.

Fourth. The Civilized Southern corps.

The first, or Democratic corps, was fully organized, with ranks well filled, but not in sufficient numbers to secure the victory.

There was the War Democratic corps, which supported Lincoln in 1864; but which, in consequence of the great wrong above mentioned, was ready to sever itself from the Radical army under General Grant; and there was the Conservative Republican corps, of which you are pleased to speak of me as a leader, who, for the same reason, were ready to join the grand army, and do all in their power to bring success to our cause.

The two last are the recruiting corps.—They hold the balance of power. As a matter of policy, had the first office been given to a chief of the other, it would have made our victory more easy, if not more certain.

Everybody knows that the result of this contest is to depend upon the important question, whether we shall be able to recruit those two corps in sufficient numbers, and carry them to the hearty support of Mr. Seymour. If we can, victory is with us.—If we cannot, victory is against us.

In my judgment, it is our duty to do so. The very life of the Constitution is involved, and, with it, the rights of the States and the liberties of the people.

I cannot hesitate for one moment. My judgment is for it; my whole heart is in it. So far from relaxing, we should redouble our efforts. Bear in mind that the war was ended three years ago, when a new era was opened in political affairs, that Mr. Seymour is a man of high character, of unquestioned patriotism, of great ability and experience, wholly with us upon the living and paramount issue; and, that if elected, he will make a wise and dignified President; and certainly no Pennsylvanian will forget that, but for his promptness and energy in forwarding the force of New York to Gettysburg, that great battle might have been lost and Pennsylvania overrun. While, in Gen. Blair, we have a true and able soldier whose prompt and indomitable resolution seized Camp Jackson, and saved Missouri from secession, who always stood among the foremost of the war Republicans, in council and in the field, while the war lasted; and, when it was over, was among the first to declare that for which the war was prosecuted—the union of the States under the Constitution, with their rights, equality, and dignity unimpaired.

Let us unite for a victory. Let us have peace—a peace which comes not from a violated Constitution and the despotism of the sword, but a peace which comes from a restored Union and the supremacy of constitutional law, by which alone liberty is secured.

Respectfully yours, J. R. DOOLITTLE.

CHOLERA INFANTUM.—This disease is very prevalent among infants this summer. Cholera infantum is not an epidemic. The latest investigations of scientific physiologists tend to show that children morbus is to cholera as an epidemic is carried forward in cycles, similar to air nature's movements—it is said to be a child of atmospheric derangement certain colors and hovering periodically over such places as attract it by preternatural causes. This hypothesis does not apply to cholera infantum, which, pathologically considered, differs entirely from the other, and it is suggested, may, by care and vigilance in the treatment of children, be prevented. The first and chief means of prevention consists in the selection of the food given to children. This is at all times an important consideration, but especially so in summer, during the prevalence of hot weather, when the system is more enervated and predisposed.

Animal food, quantities of fruits, raw vegetables, and above all cold water or other chilling beverages, must be avoided. Farinaceous foods, which can be varied in sort and manner of preparation to the inclination of the child, and warm drinks, are the proper aliments, and if absolutely necessary, at intervals, a small dose of "syrup of Rhubarb" as a tonic. Avoiding too much covering by day and night, as also excessive exercise; bathing daily in tepid water.—These, and the usual care dictated by common sense, are the certain means of keeping a young child in a healthy state and precluding predisposition to most of the "diseases of childhood."
