GRANT AND COLFAX. WAR AND REVOLUTION—SEYMOUR AND BLAIR. LAW, CIVIL LIBERTY AND PEACE.

One of the most amusing speculations connected with the present canvass, is the earnestness with which Chief Justice Pearson and others, who, months ago, co-operated with the Conservatives of this State, have joined in the rebel Radical clamor that the success of the Democratic Conservative ticket means war. The letter of Gen. Blair, prior to the meeting of the National Democratic Convention, is the catch-title reason for this groundless clamor. Written more with the view of directing and arresting public attention to the actual condition of affairs in the South, than to assert or lay down any party principle or programme, it has spread dismay and alarm among the rebel-Radicals and dumb-founded the timid and the weak kneed, who much prefer to be down under the powder-magazine of the revolutionary car of Juggernaut, than to stand up manfully for the restoration of the Constitution and the Union and the maintenance of civil liberty.

The Democrats and Conservatives of North Carolina are bound by no platform, or principles, or programmes of individuals, but by the platform of principles set forth in the official declarations of the National Democratic Convention. Is there any fear in that platform? Is it not plain, if war follows, which we by no means anticipate, (for the whole country has had enough of it,) it must be forced upon the Democrats and Conservatives by the Radical party? That is strictly the only war party in the country. It has steadily pursued its revolutionary anti-constitutional policy for three years, and made war upon the Constitution, the Union and the liberties of the people ever since the war closed. The Democrats and Conservatives have constantly declared the war at an end, and they have insisted upon a peace policy on the part of the government, but the Radicals have, all the time, been for war. The Reconstruction Acts have been purely a war policy, antagonistic to the Constitution and violative of all its principles. The chief leader of the Radical party, Thaddeus Stevens, boldly declared that the Reconstruction policy of Congress was "outside of the Constitution"—that it could not be defended under the Constitution. According to Chief Justice Pearson, it can not be justified as in accordance with the Constitution,—is "extra-constitutional," but not "unconstitutional"!!! Can logic reconcile the manifest discrepancy? If "extra-constitutional," did Congress have the right to pass them? Are not those acts revolutionary, and the body which passed them a revolutionary body, and hence its acts unconstitutional?

HON. NAT. BOYDEN.

Every Conservative and Democrat in North Carolina is proud of the course of Hon. Nathaniel Boyden in the House of Representatives at Washington, during the short time he was there. He was elected as a sound, reliable Conservative, a friend and supporter of the Constitution and the Union, and of law, order and of liberty. His whole course in Congress indicates, that he understood, appreciated and endorsed the views of the Conservatives and Democrats, by whom he was elected.

Since his return home, we have heard nothing from him as to his position. The Radicals are busily circulating the rumor that Mr. Boyden is out for Grant and Colfax. We believe they misrepresent Mr. Boyden. He is too frank a man to conceal his views from his constituents, if they have undergone a change.

One thing is certain, that neither Mr. Boyden, nor any other man, can receive the support of the Conservatives and Democrats of his District, without a frank endorsement and support of the New York National Democratic Convention and its platform. He must go heart and soul for Seymour and Blair, or he cannot get the confidence for Congress, if the contest. In view of the misrepresentations in this matter, brought about by the movements of Radicals, it is time he had publicly stated his position.

THE NEGROES AND THE CARPET-BAGGERS.

It cannot have escaped notice that the riotous demonstrations, made during our late Convention, were almost exclusively confined to the youngsters of the African race, who are not yet out of their teens—Their fathers have learned manners in a better school, and, to their great credit, on this occasion, as on most others, have not forgotten their early teachings. Great pity it is, that the Bureau teachers could not share in the kind feelings which once existed between the different colors throughout the land, and instruct their pupils in manners, as well as in reading and writing. With the older people of color, there will be little difficulty or danger. We know them and they know us. They understand our character, and know what is due to their own. They are almost uniformly polite; and though most of them have been deluded into associations calculated to estrange and embitter their feelings towards those of our race, with whom kind relations would otherwise have existed, quite as much to their advantage as ours, still, in the exercise of their new born freedom, we have been disposed to indulge them in some extravagances of sentiment and action,—being fully conscious that we, in their place, would hardly have done better. They have sense enough to know, that we are their real friends; and we know that the best of them will come back at last, and that the old feelings of confidence will be again restored. It is in their nature and in the nature of things.

But what will become of this young army of youngsters, who are taught to believe that impudence and ill-manners to others constitute freedom, is a problem yet to be solved. They, as a class, have abjured all labor, as well as those of the other race of their age. The boys go to school, and, with proper instruction, might become useful hereafter; the girls, as a class, from 15 to 20, scorn all labor; and their hourly displays on our streets, by day and by night, tell a sad tale of depravity and abandonment, to which, in other days, though bad enough, then, they were comparative strangers. When the present generation passes away, and these idle, boisterous and dissolute youngsters fill their vacant places, there will come horrors, of which those, who now encourage their misbehavior, little dream. If the vengeance could fall on the really guilty heads, there would be some little comfort in that. But these worthies, each with his carpet-bag laden with spoils, will have passed away, too,—gone back to his original home, and the sons of the soil will be left to work out the problem as best they may.

These strangers have no sympathy with the native whites. They have no love for the blacks, except so far as they can use them. Even this love will not last always. Our colored people know them to be intensely self ish. They well enough understand the difference between them and well bred gentlemen. They are now bound together in leagues, and by very improper oaths; but we know that it is for the purpose, as they understand it, of making sure and perpetuating their own rights. It is not for the purpose of humiliating gentlemen, whom, in their hearts, they respect and honor. They do not ask that their old friends—(and they were their true friends, and so continue in spite of great provocations)—should be choked to death by interlopers from the North, or from any where else. They do not ask that gentlemen should fall on their knees before strangers—not before any one else but the Great God. They would not listen with patience to the following infamously unchristian and vile language, twanged through the long sharp noses of pilgrim wanderers, who come here to rule us, by using them. And yet the following words were published in the Standard of last Saturday, and were written down by a carpet-bagger, who admits that his residence in North Carolina has been for only six weeks! Hear him:

"We tell you, decrepid, back broken old rebels! that your days are numbered. We are willing that you should grasp a little, and, therefore, look on your feeble efforts to rise from your backs with pity and compassion. But attempt to rise higher than your knees, or to assume any other attitude than that of prayer, and you will be thrust back to the earth, never to rise again."

PRESIDENT JOHNSON.—The Radicals are claiming that President Johnson is in favor of the Grant and Colfax ticket. This is positively denied by the well informed and reliable correspondents of the Baltimore Sun and New York World. No one expects the President to take a very active part in the election, but his sympathies are entirely with Seymour and Blair, and the Democratic and Conservative platform. Most of the Cabinet are said, by the same authority, to be decided for Seymour and Blair.

THE CHARLESTON News informs us that for three months past, bodies of armed negroes have been drilling at four different places in Charleston, and as these gatherings are in obscure quarters of the town, and under the cover of night, there is but one rational conclusion to be drawn from the fact.

THE Southern Opinion truly says that the blacks have been industriously taught the religion of hate of the white man by the vilest reptiles ever brought to the surface by the throes of civil war.

Montana, following in the wake of Oregon and Kentucky, has given a largely increased Democratic majority. Everywhere—in every direction whence comes the news of an election, important or unimportant—the channels of public information are laden with the reports of Democratic victories and gains. Over fifteen hundred gain in Oregon, in one year, in a voting population of only twenty thousand! Over forty thousand Democratic gain in the single State of Kentucky!

George E. Spencer, the carpet-bag U. S. Senator from Alabama, was refer to the 1st Nebraska regiment.

GRANT says "Let us have peace." What does he mean but that the "Empire is peace?"

GENERAL ASSEMBLY OF NORTH CAROLINA.

BY AUTHORITY OF CONGRESS.

FIRST SESSION.

SENATE.

MONDAY, Aug. 17, 1868.

Senate was called to order at 9½ o'clock.

Prayer by the Rev. Mr. Hudson, of the M. E. Church.

Mr. Love arose to a question of privilege, and said:

I regret, Mr. Speaker, to trouble the Senate with any matter of a personal character. But there is a "bummer" in Western North Carolina, weekly shooting small shot at me, from his skulking place in the bushes, through the "Pioneer," a paper published at Asheville, in this State. This is not his first, and I should not notice it now, his efforts are so contemptible, but for the fact, that I find an extract from one of his communications, this morning, in the Standard—the recognized organ of the Republican party in this City—touching my legal qualifications for a seat on this floor. I doubt not the extract is fairly made.

When I came here, I did not know whether I was banned or not,—did not know what the ruling would be. I made a statement here, on the floor of the Senate, and again before the Committee on Credentials, of my case. That statement was true in substance and in detail. A Republican member of Congress espoused my cause, as stated, as did the Senator from Johnston, who moved that my credentials be taken from the table, that I might qualify. This was decided out of order. A few days later, however, the Committee decided unanimously, and so once, that I was entitled to my seat.

Now, sir, I shall dispose of this matter in a brief way. The author of this article, who skulks in the dark behind a fictitious name, is a poltroon, a scoundrel and a liar.

"Mr. Speaker, I am alarmed at the condition of the country. It is proposed to send arms to North Carolina, where the people say we are then against each other. Great God! we cannot afford to repeat here Sumter. KEEP AWAY YOUR ARMS! DO NOTHING TO IRRITATE OUR PEOPLE, BUT DO EVERYTHING IN YOUR POWER TO ASSUAGE AND HEAL THE EXCITEMENT THERE. WE want no arms. I WARN THE HOUSE THAT IF ARMS ARE SENT THERE WE WILL BE RUINED; we cannot live there. If we need anything in the way of arms, in God's name send an army of the United States there, but do not arm rebels against rebels. There never was a more ridiculous chimera than this proposition to arm one class of our people against another."—Mr. Boyden's speech in the House of Representatives.

Gen. J. K. Barnes, at 9 o'clock in the morning, was awakened from sleep by the announcement that Stanton was dead, and his last words were: "Send to the Surgeon-General and have me picketed and shot in one." So Gen. Barnes embalmed him, and determined to vote the Seymour and Blair ticket.

The carpet-baggers are indignant at Job, when speaking of a certain class of warhorses. "They smelled the battle afar off."

DIED:

At his residence near Pittsboro', on Thursday, July 30th, Rev. Bazzle Long, consort of Isaac Long, in the 60th year. The deceased died of Typhoid Fever, after an illness of fourteen days, during which time she endured her affliction with true Christian fortitude and resignation. Some twenty years since she professed the religion of Christ, and, joining the Methodist Episcopal Church, remained a consistent member of the same until the Lord called her from the Church militant on earth to the Church triumphant above.

The writer of this humble tribute to her virtues was intimately acquainted with her for a period of twenty-five years, and can well bear testimony to her humanity, politeness, kindness, liberal and Christian deportment, having so repeatedly witnessed exhibitions of kindness manifested to those with whom she was associated. The death of a good citizen is at all times a severe loss to the community in which he or she may reside, but the removal of such an one as she, so kind, so gentle and so charitable, creates a void that cannot soon be filled.

To her bereaved husband and children her loss is irreparable; but they sorrow not as those without hope, knowing that their loss is her eternal gain.

"Hope, with uplifted foot set free from earth,
Paints for the place of her ethereal birth;
On steady wings sails through the immense abyss,
Plucks amaranthine flowers from bowers of bliss,
And crowns the soul, while yet a mourner here
With wreaths like those triumphant spirits wear."
