SENATOR BROWN'S LETTER.
The Dent imbroglio grows in interest. Its latest development is a very remarkable letter, addressed to Judge Dent by A. G. Brown, formerly United States Senator from Mississippi, and colleague in 1861 with Mr. Davis, and afterwards a Senator from his State in the Confederacy. Next to certain developments as to the operation of the Radical programme in Mississippi, the most remarkable thing in this letter is the exactness with which it supplements and corroborates that view of the Southern situation taken some month since in THE WORLD'S special correspondence from that country. According to Mr. Brown, nineteen-twentieths of the white population of Mississippi, which may be taken to comprise all the genuine citizens of the State, are of one way of thinking, and "the negroes will take sides as they are led either way," with the chance in favor of the citizens of Mississippi that "brains and education will tell after awhile on the most stolid of minds, even on the obtuse intellect of the negro." With nineteen-twentieths of the white people a solid unit, and with a powerful leading influence carried by them over the blacks, Mr. B. declares that, while the lateness of the day ordered by Mr. Grant for the election—20th November—is a source of regret in Mississippi, it is not regretted upon political grounds; that the citizens will carry the day, "no odds when the election is held." The lateness of the date is regretted because, as the cotton picking begins about the first of September and ends about the last of November, just that very period when the labor is most sharply in demand, will be the period of a high political excitement that, with the negro's known impressibility, will greatly lessen the value of his services in the field. The reason of selecting these two months of September and October for the canvass, in such flagrant disregard of the economic wants of Mississippi, is stated to be that Grant feared the election, if ordered before October, would, in case of its going adversely to the Radical ticket, have a bad effect on the party in the October elections of Pennsylvania and Ohio.

With this expose, first, of the strength and unity of the citizens of Mississippi, and second, of the shameful manner in which the two most important industrial months of the year are, for the benefit of Radicalism, assigned over to all the distracting hurly-burly of a heated canvass, Mr. Brown proceeds to touch upon a third matter, which, as it rises in importance above any mere issue of this pending election, is worthy of special note. He says: "To me and many old men like myself it makes very little difference, politically or personally, what course things may take. There is hardly anything in the chapter of accidents that can give us again any active participation in the affairs of government; but we want peace—permanent, lasting peace. We would not, therefore, leave to our sons the inheritance of avenging any wrongs that may be inflicted on us. The old must soon die off and the young ones take their places. I want to leave my son, and so does every other right-thinking man, no wrongs of mine to be set right after I am gone. At most, it cannot be long before these boys now growing up will get possession of the State Government. It belongs to the men of this generation to decide how they shall manage it. That they may avenge gratuitous insults heaped on their fathers is not without the range of human probabilities. Such things have happened."

There is something in this that ought not to be passed by as the mere raving of an embittered and broken down old man. It is too consonant to the known course of human nature, and too amply verified in that correspondence, generally of such approved accuracy, that THE WORLD has at each phase of the Southern question presented its readers. Coupling this intonation of a deep seated sentiment of injury with the prior declaration in this letter of an extreme degree of unity, and strength among the citizens of Mississippi, it is easy to see how true it is that some day ere long the State must come into the hands of its young men, and easy, too, to perceive that, if those young men participate in the sentiment of their fathers, there is trouble ahead. This general reflection is one that again and again the THE WORLD has sought to impress upon the country—that the evil of Congressional reconstruction was less in its present tangible results than in that obdurate and implacable animosity which it was bringing into life. If negroes as Lieutenant-Governors, and Secretaries of State, and legislators and Sheriffs, and State functionaries generally; if high taxes and carpet-bag domination, and harsh laws, and black militias, were alone the results, those, in an election or two, would disappear before the superiority of the white race; but, when it comes to the training up of a whole generation much more numerous than the generation of Manassas and Gettysburg in the fixed belief of revenge being a sacred filial duty, there is something terrible in this far-reaching result of a rascality that, bad as it is, was only meant to subserve certain party ends by sharpened cruel means.

Senator Brown gives some glimpse into this possibility; and, to those who are anxiously peering out into the general future, this will, no doubt, be the most interesting portion of his letter. As to immediate political matters, we may congratulate by saying, first, that, as it appears from this letter, the partisan timing of the Mississippi election by Grant must cost the State very heavily in the article of unpicked cotton—unpicked, because too negro will be torn almost bodily asunder in the fierce canvass, throughout the picking season, for his casting vote; second, that the citizens of Mississippi are united and determined, and mean to carry the election, unless the acts of Congress, backed by the power of the military commanders, to the contrary, intriguing for one of the United States Senatorships; and, fourth, that the Radical party in Mississippi is contemptible and in South Brown.

A MEAT SHOWER.—All our Eastern and Southeastern cities about the serpents, big land snakes, discoveries of buried treasure, and the like, have been surpassed at Los Angelos, in southern California. At the place, according to report, on the last Sunday in July, there was a shower of blood, meat and hair, the fragments of flesh coming down in strips six or eight inches long, and presenting the appearance of having been freshly torn from living animals. Several people in that region believe the story, though some consider it a Californian method of conveying the not at all extraordinary information that there has been a sudden fall in meat.

DOTY'S WASHING MACHINE,
LATELY MUCH IMPROVED,
AND THE NEW
UNIVERSAL CLOTHES WRINGER.
Improved with Rowell's Patent Double Cogwheels, and the Patent Stop, are now unquestionably far superior to any apparatus for washing clothes ever invented and will save their cost twice a year, by saving labor and clothes.
Those who have used them give testimony as follows:
"We like our machine much; could not be persuaded to do without it, and with the aid of Doty, we feel that we are masters of the position."—Rev. L. Scott, Bishop M. E. Church.
"It is worth one dollar a week in any family."—N. Y. Tribune.
"In the laundry of my house there is a perpetual thanksgiving on Mondays for the invention."—Rev. Theodore L. Cuyler.
"I heartily commend it to economists of time, money, and contentment."—Rev. Dr. Bellows.
"Every week has given it a stronger hold upon the affections of the inmates of the laundry."—N. Y. Observer.
"Friend Doty—Your last improvement of your Washing Machine is a complete success. I assure you 'our machine,' after a year's use, is thought more of to-day than ever, and would not be parted with under any circumstances."—Solon Robinson.
"Your Washing Machine has been in daily use in our laundry, and the housekeeper expresses herself as highly pleased with it. It certainly accomplishes a greater amount of work, with less labor, and does not wear the clothes near as much as the old fashioned wash-board. By using it one laundress is dispensed with."—Wm. M. F. Round, Superintendent of Infirm Department of St. Catherine's Nursery, N. Y. City.

PRICES.—A Fair Offer.
Send the retail price Washer $14, Extra Wringer $3 and we will forward either or both machines, free of freight, to places where no one is selling; and so sure are we they will be liked, that we agree to refund the money if any one wishes to return the machines, free of freight, after a month's trial, according to directions.
No husband, father or brother should permit the drudgery of washing with the hands, forty-two days in the year, when it can be done better, more expeditiously, with less labor, and no injury to the garments, by a Doty Clothes Washer, and a Universal Wringer.
Canvassers with exclusive right of sale make money fast selling them.
Sold by dealers generally, to whom liberal discounts are made.
