NAACP CONVENTION ASKS RULES CHANGE FOR 81ST CONGRESS

NEW YORK — Members of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, convening here this week for the forty-ninth annual meeting of the Association, adopted a resolution calling upon the 81st Congress to abolish archaic procedural rules in order to prepare the way for the enactment of civil rights measures and other social welfare legislation.

The resolution pointed out that such legislation has been "thwarted by anti-democratic filibusters" in the Senate, "throttled by the House Rules Committee which has arrogated unto itself the function of determining what bills may or may not be voted upon by members of the House of Representatives," and further hampered by seniority rules which assign committee chairmanships solely on the basis of seniority and "without any regard to the qualifications and fitness of the members."

Other action taken by the convention included the naming of five new members to the organization's national board of directors, the promotion of the program for Lynching and the outlining of plans for the group's 1949 membership campaign.

The new members of the board are Walter Reuther, international president of the CIO United Automobile Workers; Mrs. Daisy E. Lampkin, vice-president of the Pittsburgh Courier; A. Maceo Smith, race relations advisor for the Federal Housing Administration; Dr. Joseph A. Berry, staff member of the Tuskegee Veterans Hospital and Dr. Ulysses S. Wiggins, vice president of the New Jersey State Conference of NAACP branches.

The treasurer's report indicated a total income for the year of 1948 of $314,982. Memberships, contributions and subscriptions to the

GREENVILLE — Lloyd Bryant, 32-year-old tenant farmer of near Black Jack got his wish late last week and actually "worked himself to death."

Lincoln Journalism School Gets More Books, New Equipment

Jefferson City, Mo. — Library additions and equipment for journalism have recently been acquired by the School of Journalism at Lincoln University (Mo.).

Seventeen miscellaneous volumes, several pamphlets and copies of two newspapers of the past century — The Boston Daily Times for March 30, 1841 and the Evening Bulletin, Providence, R. I., for December 27, 1864 — were added to the Martin Buchanan Clyde Memorial Collection in the Journalism library by Chester A. Smith Doctor, founder of the memorial. A new donor, Carl B. Murphy, president of the Afro-American Newspapers, has sent the School of Journalism a typescript of the minutes of the 1886 convention of the American Press Association and two rare books on the Negro field published in the early thirties by the W. B. Ziff Company, formerly the exclusive advertising representatives for Negro newspapers. Four speed graphic cameras have come for use in connection with instruction in Press photography, the laboratory for which is being fitted out this year. The Journalism unit also has acquired a 16mm sound color film projector to be used in the courses in Newspaper Advertising and Newspaper Management, and in presenting special showings of films devoted to various phases of the field of communications.

Provisions for handling larger classes in Reporting have been made by the recent addition of six typewriters. Tables for the new machines were added at the same time. With the arrival of a manually-operated mimeograph machine, the School of Journalism is now able to reproduce its own typewritten materials.
