Pass Under the Rod.

BY MRS. DANA.

[illegible] bride in her beauty [illegible]
[illegible] snowy array;
[illegible] the bust of joy married
[illegible] future looked blooming and gay,
[illegible] woman's devotion she laid
[illegible] heart
[illegible] shrine of idolatrous love,
[illegible] anchor her hopes to this
[illegible] earth
[illegible] which her tenderness
[illegible]
[illegible] when these heart-strings
[illegible] bleeding and torn,
[illegible] had been severed in
[illegible]
[illegible] her white robes for
[illegible] of grief,
[illegible] the paleness of
[illegible] was there, pouring
[illegible] her heart,
[illegible] the tears from her eyes;
[illegible] the chain he had
[illegible] in twain,
[illegible] it him to the skies!
[illegible] whispered a voice—'twas the
[illegible] God—
[illegible] live here—pass under the
[illegible]
[illegible] mother in tenderness
[illegible] of her slumbering
[illegible] kissed the soft lips as they
[illegible] murmured her name,
[illegible] dreamer lay smiling in
[illegible] the rosebud enveiled with [illegible] fragrance is flung on the
[illegible] bright to that mother
[illegible] his innocence there,
[illegible] when she gazed on that
[illegible] lovely form,
[illegible] marble, and silent and cold;
[illegible] her beautiful boy,
[illegible] the tale of her sorrow was told;
[illegible] there was there, who had
[illegible] her heart
[illegible] her treasure away;
[illegible] to Heaven He has placed it
[illegible]
[illegible] mourner will sweetly obey,
[illegible] whispered a voice—'twas the
[illegible] of her God—
[illegible] love thee—pass under
[illegible]
[illegible] a father and mother who leaned
[illegible] arms of a dear gifted son,
[illegible] the future grew bright
[illegible] saw the prattling prince [illegible] had
[illegible] evening of life
[illegible]
[illegible] to
[illegible] pass under the rod."

[illegible] share—
[illegible] back on which burdens are
[illegible]
[illegible] is the heart that is strengthened
[illegible] by prayer
[illegible]
[illegible] how or other the pathway grows
brighter
[illegible] when we mourn there are none
[illegible] friend;
[illegible] the heart makes the burden
[illegible] lighter,
[illegible] how or other we get to the
[illegible]
[illegible] of benefits are so common

DR. C. McLANE'S

CELEBRATED

FOR THE CURE OF

Hepatitis, or Liver Complaint,

AND ALL DISEASES ARISING FROM A DISORDERED LIVER.

Symptoms of a Diseased Liver.

PAIN in the right side, under the edge of the ribs, increases on pressure; sometimes the pain is in the left side; the patient is rarely able to lie on the left side; sometimes the pain is felt under the shoulder blade, and frequently extends to the top of the shoulder, and is sometimes mistaken for rheumatism in the arm. The stomach is affected with loss of appetite and sickness; the bowels in general costive, sometimes alternative with loose; the head is troubled with pain, accompanied with a dull, heavy sensation in the back part. There is generally a considerable loss of memory, accompanied with a painful sensation of having left undone something which might to have been done. A slight dry cough is sometimes an attendant. The patient complains of weariness and debility; he is easily startled, his feet are cold or burning, and he complains of a prickly sensation of the skin; his spirits are low, and although he is satisfied that exercise would be beneficial to him, yet he can scarcely summon up fortitude enough to try it. In fact he distrusts every remedy. Several of the above symptoms attend the disease, but cases have occurred where few of them existed, yet examination of the body, after death, has shown the LIVER to have been extensively deranged.

AGUE AND FEVER

DR. C. McLANE'S LIVER PILLS, IN CASES OF AGUE AND FEVER, when taken with Quinine, are productive of the most happy results. No better cathartic can be used preparatory to, or after taking Quinine. We would advise all who are afflicted with this disease, to give them a FAIR TRIAL.

For all bilious derangements, and as a simple purgative, they are unequaled.
