Creative Class At Shaw Showing Rapid Growth

BY CLAUDIA BROWN

[illegible] The Creative [illegible] was conducted by [illegible] [illegible] at Shaw University.

It was a very [illegible] afternoon and the [illegible] [illegible] and shining like a [illegible] [illegible] and bustling, cars were moving at a rapid speed, and everybody had [illegible]. The reason for such a commotion was a game, one in which the Shaw Bears were to be the host, and the [illegible] participants. The audience was the judge.

The time had come when everyone seemed to have lost all about the [illegible] [illegible] what the Bears are [illegible] going to do? Then came the [illegible] "I wonder what the [illegible] [illegible] the kickoff . . . The ball went high into the air, the players began running, running harder and harder, the fans [illegible] cheering, rooting, the schools [illegible] all competing against each other with their cheers and everyone was in a wonderful mood.

The referees began giving signals; players on both teams began running in and out; first for red, then for water, and back to the game but yet no score. Time began passing and each minute became seconds like hours and all in scores. The fans were still tensed and curious but nothing yet. Then half time and no score! Of all [illegible] [illegible] wonder what the [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]. We want a score! We want a score.

The two teams went off the field for a pep talk by their various coaches and then the game was in motion again. Time was still passing, and fans were still [illegible] and still no score. The time had just about come to an end when all of a sudden the [illegible] [illegible] and there was [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] The fans were [illegible] to [illegible] what was [illegible] with the Bears. They were [illegible] but not hard enough. Then the [illegible] began to die down, the students [illegible] [illegible] and the game was over.

Then [illegible] the [illegible] and [illegible] [illegible] the game ended but [illegible] [illegible] were determined, and still are. We've won before and [illegible] will win again.

Former Resident Buried

ROCKY MOUNT — Last rites were said here Thursday for Charlie Hines, 71-year-old Edgecombe native and former resident, who had lived in Washington, D. C. for the past 15 years, when he died October 2nd following a period of declining health.

A life-long member of the Primitive Baptist Church, the remains were taken to the Seven Springs Primitive Baptist Church on the eve of the funeral where "watch" services were conducted by elders of the church.

Burial was in the Mt. Olive Cemetery on Bossey road following the funeral services which were largely attended. The immediate survivors include five daughters and two sons. The sons are Charles and Joseph Hines of Dee Cee. Daughters are Misses Carrie E. Hines of Dee Cee and Geraldine Hines of Philadelphia; Mesdames Christobell H. Palmer, Madalene H. Kellman, Philadelphia; and Rebecca H. James of Dee Cee. The widow by a second marriage, Mrs. Delia Hines and a sister, Mrs. Alice Ruffin, also of Washington, survive. There are eight grandchildren.

The first week in October, including Sunday, October 4, 1953, is National Employ the Physically Handicapped Week which is set aside by Congress as an annual recognition of the placement of physically handicapped persons in gainful employment. In the Raleigh area there are less than 100 physically handicapped applicants registered for employment and it is hoped by the local office staff and the Employment Security Commission as a whole that employers will make it an objective to use as many of these physically able [illegible] [illegible] when they [illegible] handicapped workers as they are properly fitted into employment, they are not considered as handicapped workers.

Missing Con Found In Jail

Fingerprints positively identified a youth last week who changed his name but not his ways.

"Ronnie Adams," already serving a 2-3 year term for larceny and receiving, was obviously surprised when prison specialists identified him as Walter H. Belton, who escaped from a road gang last July 18.

Belton was first sentenced from Chatham County in July [illegible] 1952 for housebreaking, larceny and receiving. Under the name of Walter H. Belton, [illegible] was given a two-year sentence which he was serving when he escaped from the [illegible] camp last July.

As Ronnie Adams he was sentenced to 2-3 years for larceny and receiving by the Rowan Superior Court last September and was serving this sentence when authorities identified him as Belton.

He is now in Surry County Prison Camp where his records will be adjusted and his time fixed to [illegible] both old and new terms.
