Frankly Speaking

By Frank Roberts

First and foremost, congratulations to a bunch of terrific guys, the Edenton Aces. Once again they're champs. They've given Edentonians an exciting football season, with a storybook climax that we'll never forget. Individually and as a team they are the finest young men, and the very best of luck to 'em in the next few weeks. I know they'll continue to get the same wonderful support from the folks in Edenton as they've been getting all season long and we'll continue to bring the games to you over WCDJ. Once more, if I may, congrats to the Edenton Aces, a fabulous football team, and to their coach, who's a top coach and a great guy, Bill Billings.

As long as I'm sending out congratulations, must send some to ex-WCDJ staffer, Jimmy Baker. He was one of the six Coast Guardsmen throughout the country to be chosen as honor guard at the funeral of the late General George Marshall. He's been in Movietone News, some Philadelphia and Washington newspapers. All this, while still in boot camp. Home on leave now, Jimmy hopes to be stationed near Edenton. We hope so, too, Jimmy.

More quickie tee-vee reviews: "Shotgun Slade," starring Scott Brady is a western Peter Gunn. Couldn't be cornier. Standard plot and cliches. Originally. "Masquerade Party," was highly entertaining, now it's highly boring, except for the wonderful Sam Levenson.

Still more deaths concerning show-biz entertainers, the most shocking of which was the death of one of the screen's foremost character actors, Victor McLaglan. Well, they're almost done with tee-vee quiz shows. Now Congress is about to investigate disc jockeys. I wonder if I should: (a) confess everything; (2) stand on the fifth amendment; (c) plead innocent. Anyway, they're looking into such things as briberies, payolas skulduggery. (I was once given a dinner by a record promoter, but I don't think I can give it up at this point). They're also going to check into television and radio commercials. If they check some of the things I write, they'll lock me up and throw away the key, without bothering to ask questions.

The Albemarle Players of Elizabeth City, is the group I talked about on Nancy Carson's show last week. If you're interested in acting, backstage work or the like, let me know. This isn't a group of amteurs groping in the dark. These people are pros and semi-pros who work had at and do a good job of entertaining.

Reverend Hugh Michael Beahan, radio and television director of Grand Rapids Roman Catholic Diocese, recently declared that because drinking creates a problem for a relatively few people, "we should not consider depriving the vast majority of normal adults." No comment from this corner, except that there you have something to start a good lengthy round-table discussion.

Hey kids . . . Fabian's first full-length movie comes to the Taylor end of this month. Also this month, Danny Kaye as jazz man Red Nichols in the "Five Pennies." Supposed to be darned good. It'll be here on the 24th of November and that morning, we'll be playing music from the sound track. Speaking of soundtrack music, I understand that during the run of "For the First Time," starring Mario Lanza someone plugged in a tape recorder at the Taylor Theatre and recorded all of that beautiful music. Not a bad idea at all.

A free prize, if you know the author of this beautiful quotation: "Our prayers should be for blessings in general, for God knows best what is good for us."

GARDEN TIME

M. E. Gardner
N. C. State College

This is about the seasons. Of the four, spring and fall, probably have the greatest appeal to most people. In the spring we have fragrance of the apple blossom; and in the fall there's a bounteous harvest of luscious fruit (if you have controlled the pests).

As the fall of the year approaches, we should think about the many fairs to be held within easy driving distance of most of us, and prepare our entries. Don't put it off. Get a catalog and carefully follow instructions.

Quality and condition of fruits, vegetables and flowers are of paramount importance if you want to make your fair stand out and give the judges a hard time.

Condition of the products exhibited is usually given the greatest weight in the judging score card. It has reference to freedom from blemishes caused by insects and diseases, bruises or growth cracks on sweet potatoes, leaf spot and damaged petals on roses, etc.

Uniformity of the entry is also important regardless of whether the products are displayed in trays, baskets or plates. This is particularly true for apples, pears, Irish and sweet potatoes, tomatoes, peppers, onions, etc. Try to select so that all specimens will be as near the same size as possible.

Within a variety, select for medium size rather than extremely large or small—Irish potatoes about eight ounces, sweet potatoes about six or seven inches long and 2½ to three inches in diameter. This may give you the general idea.

Carefully select and condition your cut flower specimens. Avoid damage to petals of such flowers as roses, chrysanthemums and dahlias by careful handling and protection from wind and car draft. If you are entering potted plants, select your best ones. If arrangements, use suitable containers and watch your lines and color blending.
