EVENTS OF THE WEEK IN WADESBORO SOCIETY

(Special to Daily News.)

Wadesboro, June 4.—The coming week will be a busy one in the social circles of Wadesboro. Two weddings are announced and other social functions will add to the interest of the week.

Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock the spacious home of Dr. and Mrs. Walter Jones McLendon will be the scene of a happy home wedding. The daughter of Dr. and Mrs. McLendon, Miss Helen May, will be married to DeWitt H. Morton, of Thomasville. Miss McLendon is a very attractive young woman, cultured and talented, beloved in the social and church circles. For several years Miss McLendon has been an active worker in all departments of the First Baptist church, and is the president of the Philathea. The bridegroom, Mr. Morton, is a brother of Dr. W. M. Morton, cashier of the Southern Savings bank, of Wadesboro, and is a successful and promising young business man of Thomasville. A large number of friends have been invited to the wedding and the reception which follows the ceremony. The pastor of the First Baptist church, Rev. T. W. Chambliss, will pronounce the vows. After the ceremony the bride and bridegroom will leave on a bridal trip and will be at home later at Thomasville.

Thursday evening at 8.30 o'clock the Wadesboro Methodist church will be the scene of a beautiful wedding. Miss Charlie Belle Craig, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Griggs, of Ansonville, will be married to Reid Tull. The ceremony will be performed by the pastor, Rev. J. H. West. The bride, Miss Craig, is a very popular young woman, attractive and with a large circle of friends. Wadesboro has been her home until recently, when Mr. and Mrs. Griggs moved to Ansonville. Miss Craig is active in social and religious circles and is a member of Wadesboro Methodist church. The groom, Mr. Tull, is a civil engineer in charge of a division of the Winston-Salem Southbound railway and a promising young man. Immediately after the ceremony the bride and bridegroom will leave for a wedding trip and will be at home later at Ansonville.

Tuesday afternoon one of the loveliest little parties was that of Miss Annie Leak Dibble, at the residence of her grandfather, T. B. Wyatt. The rain prevented merry games in the grounds, but the house resounded with merry shouts of laughter and the fun was "fast and furious" caused by such indoor sports as the infantile mind can enjoy.

Then to the "banquet hall," where snow-white birthday cake, surmounted by six pink candles, was the "piece de resistance." In the center of the table a circle of red paper caps was arranged. To each cap was attached a red ribbon, which not only designated the place, but went off with a loud bang on being pulled and disclosed a little present.

Those invited were: Misses Harriet Hardison, Bertha McCue, Sarah Parsons, Alice Leak, Mary Little, Helen Ashe, Flora Ashe, Effie Wall Coxe, Charlotte Lockhart, Augusta Webb, Sarah Horne, Rosa Moss, Lilly Martin; Masters Jack Bennett, Leslie Huntley, Allen Little, Clarence Pemberton, William Marshall, Fred Jackson Coxe.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom G. Wall of Lilesville, entertained at their home, The Homestead, Tuesday evening, May 22, in honor of the bride and bridegroom, Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Wall, the already pretty home being made especially so by beautiful cut flowers and a host of handsomely attired friends. Mrs. Wall, the charming hostess, wore a white suit worked in daisies. The evening sped away all too soon with music and gay conversation. Dainty ices and cake were served.

Mrs. W. P. Parsons was the charming hostess of the Wadesboro Book club Thursday afternoon. The weather was ideal and a large number of club members and visitors were present. Mrs. R. E. Little read a sketch of Sir Walter Scott, and a number of pretty Scotch ballads were sung.

The dining room, redolent with pink roses, concluded the program, with familiar quotations from Scott written on the place cards designed in pink roses and tied with pink ribbon. Mrs. Mann, after cutting for the prize, two candlesticks, presented one each to Miss Keen, from Louisa, Va., and Miss Lowry, from Denver, Col.

A delicious salad course was served, concluded with sherbet and cake. Those present were: Mesdames E. A. Covington, John T. Bennett, R. G. Dunn, James Powers, Misses Fannie Bennett, Lucy Hawkins, Rosa Moore, Shepherd Leak, Lowry and Keen.

Mrs. R. E. Little, the honored president of the W. D. C. entertained the Anson chapter Friday afternoon in a very informal and delightful manner. On the vine covered veranda were Confederate flags waving a cordial welcome and awakening thoughts of Anson's honored sons who proudly followed this banner on many a bloody battlefield.

The hostess wore a becoming suit of white, adorned with a Confederate pin and medal, the latter being a gift from the Anson chapter to their beloved president.

Mrs. John T. Bennett reviewed the work of the Anson chapter, the most noted being the building of the beautiful monument on the square near the courthouse. The president talked of the present needs and urged the chapter to greater activity. A number of ladies were enlisted for membership. The chapter now numbers 71.

Mrs. Daisy Parsons rendered a number of instrumental solos during the evening. Misses Elizabeth Horne and Shepherd Leak assisted the hostess in serving a delightful two-course luncheon.

The program of the evening closed with Dixie all joining in the chorus. It was suggested that "Auld Lang Syne" be sung in honor of Mrs. L. J. Ingram, who will leave for Europe in a few days, as a unanimous "cup o' kindness" was taken in memory of the honored. Beautiful certificates of membership in Confederate colors were presented to each guest present, who were:

Mesdames John T. Bennett, A. H. Leak, T. B. Henry, J. Covington, F. W. Chandlee, E. A. Covington, W. N. Jones, J. L. Matheson, G. T. Ingram, W. C. Vin, Joseph Hallcock, L. M. Burnette, Jr., T. A. Cole, Daisy Parsons; Misses Rosa Moore, Lucy Hawkins, Lily Huntley, Ethel Aderatt, Shepherd Leak, Ellen Pinkston, Jodie Horton, Marion and Iora Little, Elizabeth Horne and Mary L. Lowry, of Denver, Col.

EVENTS OF THE WEEK IN STATESVILLE SOCIETY

(Special to Daily News.)

Statesville, June 4.—The first of the series of June weddings to take place in Statesville and vicinity occurred Wednesday morning at 8 o'clock at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John C. Dunlap, in Bethany township, when their daughter, Miss Eleanor Dunlap, became the bride of Ralph H. Fleming. The marriage, which was a pretty one, was witnessed by a large company of friends and relatives, a number of Statesville people being present. The house had been tastily decorated for the occasion, a large arch of ivy and daisies being arranged in the parlor. The bridal party preceded by the officiating minister, Rev. C. A. Munroe, of Hickory, entered the parlor from the hall to the strains of a wedding march played by Miss Connie Williamson, of Mooresville, and stood beneath the pretty arch while the words were said which made them man and wife. The ring ceremony was used. Immediately after the ceremony and congratulations a light breakfast was served the entire party, after which the bridal party drove to Statesville and Mr. and Mrs. Fleming left on the westbound train for a bridal trip to Asheville and other points. The usual shower of rice fell upon them as they entered the train.

The bride is one of Bethany's best known and popular young women, and the wish of her friends is that the future of she and her husband shall be as bright and auspicious as the beautiful morn on which they plighted their troth. Mr. Fleming is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry J. Fleming, of the Linwood community. For the past few years he has been engaged in the railway mail service. He and his bride will reside in Charlotte.

The marriage of Miss Rosa Mae Pittman and William F. Ingram was solemnized Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock in Western Avenue Baptist church, which had been made very attractive by decorations of ferns and daisies. The wedding march was played by Mrs. J. F. Mitchiner and the bridal party entered in the following order: First came the little flower girls, Edna Mitchener and Sadie Evans, followed by the ushers, C. F. Cabood and Isadore Woodward, who marched up the middle aisle and took positions on each side of the bank of greenery adjacent to front of the pulpit. The bride came up the middle aisle accompanied by her maid of honor and sister, Miss Gertrude Pittman, and was met at the altar by the groom, who entered from the side with his best man, J. B. Rose. The ceremony was performed by the bride's pastor, Rev. J. F. Mitchener. Immediately after the ceremony and hearty congratulations, which followed, the bridal party drove to the home of the groom's father, near Eastside, and Rose streets, where a wedding supper was spread.

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel E. Pittman, of East Spring township, and is a worthy young woman. She has made her home in Statesville for past few years. Mr. Ingram is a native of Bethany and has resided in Statesville for some years, coming here from his old home in Shiloh township. The couple received quite a number of valuable and serviceable wedding gifts.

Cards inviting as fashionable a number as could be made with propriety to friends of the contracting parties were sent out for the marriage of Miss Mamie Lee Mitchell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Mitchell, to Mr. Thomas Lee Turner, of Statesville, which took place Wednesday afternoon at 5 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents, on East Front street, Rev. Dr. Hoke officiating. The house was prettily decorated with cut flowers and potted plants, and the ceremony was performed in the presence of a large number of relatives and friends of the contracting parties. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Ethel Mitchell, who was her only attendant, and Mr. Turner was attended by his brother, Mr. Ernest Turner. The bride was attractively dressed in a pretty traveling suit of blue with hat to match, and carried a bouquet of bridal roses. The groom is a young man of good character, and is a member of the firm of Turner Bros., proprietors of the Statesville Steam Laundry. The bride is an excellent young woman, a favorite with her friends. She and her brother went from their home in the Shiloh country, seven miles west of Statesville, to Memphis, May 24, and the marriage took place two days later. Mr. Deal, who is an Iredell man, formerly lived in Shiloh township and he and Miss Raymer were sweethearts before he went to Memphis, where he is now in business. None of the home folks except the immediate family and a few intimate friends of the bride knew of the object of the trip to Memphis at the time of her departure.

John W. Allison, of Statesville, and Miss Emma Moore, of the Scotts community, were married Wednesday afternoon at the home of the bride's father, James W. Moore, Rev. W. A. Kennedy, of Statesville, officiating. Immediately after the marriage the bride and groom drove to the railway station, accompanied by a party, and boarded a westbound train for a trip to the mountains. On their return they will be at home in Statesville. The bride is a member of one of the foremost families of the Scotts section. Mr. Allison is an official of the Iredell Lumber company, of Statesville.

Signalizing the approach of her marriage to Dr. Bunting, of Baltimore, which takes place later in the month, a number of delightful social functions have been given during the past few days in honor of Miss Catherine Copeland. The popular daughter of Capt. J. W. Copeland. Rivaling in brilliance with the bridal roses was the function given yesterday afternoon by Mrs. C. A. Henkel in honor of Miss Copeland. The handsome Henkel home on Broad street was beautifully decorated for the occasion, sweet peas and roses being used in profusion, and a large number of guests enjoyed the hospitality of the home. Receiving in the parlor with the bride and the hostess were Mrs. Dargan, of Statesville, and Mrs. Dougherty, of Tennessee, who is spending some time with Mrs. Henkel, the other house guests of Mrs. Henkel who presided in other rooms were: Mrs. H. A. Blum, of Mt. Holly; Mrs. William Neeson, of Winston-Salem; Miss Connie Charles, of High Point, and Miss Lelande Henkel, of Lenoir. The guests played bridge, and the prize, a pretty beaded purse, was won by Mrs. Blum, who, in consideration of a heart shaped box of bridge mints, presented the prize to the bride-elect. Mrs. J. Earl Rankin, of South Carolina, who is the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Rankin, presented to Miss Copeland a piece of pottery, a souvenir of the occasion. The guests were: Misses Ethel Rankin, Mary Lee Coffin, Ethel Mitchell, Ethel Mitchell, Lelande Henkel, Connie Charles, Mrs. Dougherty, Mrs. Blum, Mrs. Neeson, Mrs. Dargan, Mrs. Henkel, Mrs. Rankin, Mrs. Charles, Mrs. Coffin, Mrs. Mitchell, Mrs. Mitchell
