[illegible] the following beautiful verses from the New-England Weekly Review.—The sentiment does honor to the head and heart, and the language to the ability of the writer.

MY NATIVE LAND.

Adieu to thee land, Good Night!—Byron.

The boat swinges from the pebbl'd shore,
And proudly drives her way;
The crested seas roll up behind—
Ev'ry dark grey land I see no more,
How sweet than present now!
Than dark grey land, by sunset land,
Than land of rock and pine,
I'm speeding from thy golden sand,
But ere I leave a farewell hand
To each a share as mine!

I've gazed upon the golden cloud
Which shades thine emerald sod,
Thy hills, which Freedom's share hath plow'd
Which nerve a race that have not bow'd
Their knee to aught but God;
Thy mountain floods which proudly fling
Their waters to the fall—
Thy birds, which sing with ruddying wing
The sky that greets thy coming Spring,
And thought thy glories small.

But now we've shrunk to yon blue line
Between the sky and sea,
I feel, sweet home, that thou art mine,
I feel my bosom cling to thine—
That I am part of thee.
I see thee blended with the wave,
As children are the earth
Close by a twisted mother's grave,
They weep for her they cannot save,
And feel her holy worth.

Thou mountain land—thou land of rock,
I'm proud to call you free;
Thy sons are of the Pilgrim stock,
And nerved like those who stood the shock;
At old Thermopylæ.
The laurel wreaths their fathers won,
The children wear them still.—
Proud deeds these iron men have done,
They fought and won at Bennington,
And bled at Bunker Hill.

There's grandeur in the lightning stroke;
That rives thy mountain side;—
There's glory in thy giant oak,
And rainbow beauty in the smoke
Where crystal waters dash:
There's music in thy winter blast,
That sweeps the hollow glen;
Less manly sons would shrink aghast
From piercing winds like those thou hast,
To nerve thine iron men.

And thou hast gems; aye living pearls,
And flowers of Eden hue,
Thy loveliest, are thy bright-eyed girls,
Of fairy forms and ebon curls,
And smiles like Hermon's dew—
They—hearts like those they're born to wed.
Too proud to nurse a slave,—
They'd scorn to share a monarch's bed,
And scorge lay their angel head
Deep in their humble grave.

And I have left thee, Home, alone—
A pilgrim from thy shore;
The wind goes by with hollow moan,
I hear it sigh a warning tone—
"Ye see your home no more!"
I'm cast upon the world's wide sea,
Torn like an ocean weed;—
I'm cast away far—far from thee;
I feel a thing I cannot be—
A bruised and broken reed.

Farewell, my native land, farewell:
That wave has bid thee now—
My heart is bow'd as with a spell,
This candle's pang!—Would I could tell
What ails my throbbing brow!
One look upon that tallog streak
Which bounds yon eastern sky;—
One tear to cool my burning cheek,
And then a word I cannot speak—
"My native Land—Good bye."

Notice.

Ran away from the subscriber's plantation, in Anson county, a negro man by the name of DEEN, about 35 years old, and remarkably black, with one squint eye. Deen had been confined in the Jail of Richmond county as a runaway for the last 15 months; from whence he made his escape; was retaken and lodged in the Jail of Lenoir county; was brought thence by the Jailor of Richmond to this place; confined in his Jail and sold out for his prison charges; at which sale he was purchased. He took off with him his wife, a girl by the name of Dolly, about 18 years old, also remarkably black, stout, and clumsily proportioned, the property of the Rev. Elias Sinclair, of this place; also another girl about 19 years old, by the name of Jinny, of a yellow complexion, and of ordinary size, the property of Hampton Covington. It is believed that said negroes are aiming for Pitt county, as negro Deen's wife recently was purchased there.

Fifty Dollars Reward.

Ran away from Wm. Barnes, of Wayne county, a negro man named MOSES, about 35 or 40 years old, weighing about 160 lbs. large beard, with a scar on his chin, caused by a whip saw, the lower part of one ear bit off, large scars on his belly occasioned by a burn, another scar on his leg by a cut with a broad axe. The said negro went off about 8 years ago, and carried off with him his wife, Phebe, belonging to me. The said negro Phebe is a small yellow woman about 35 years of age; no particular marks recollected. I expect the said negroes are passing about the State as free negroes. The above reward will be given for the apprehension and delivery of said negroes to me, or lodging them in any Jail in the State so that I get them, or twenty-five dollars for either of them.

The pork, except where the quantity is otherwise designated, will consist of one hog to each barrel, excluding the feet, legs, ears and snout; any deficiency of weight to be supplied with good fat side pieces, which may also be substituted for the hams.

The pork, whiskey and vinegar to be contained in seasoned heart of white oak barrels, full hooped; and the soap and candles in strong boxes of convenient size for transportation.—The pork to be delivered at New Orleans, Baton Rouge, Pensacola, Cantonment Jesup, Cantonment Gibson, Jefferson Barracks, Fort Armstrong, Prairie du Chien and Saint Peters must be carefully packed with Turks' Island salt, and in pieces not exceeding ten pounds weight, each. Salt will only be received by measurement of thirty-two quarts to the bushel.

The candles to have cotton wicks.

The provisions for Fort Armstrong, Prairie du Chien and Saint Peters, must pass St. Louis for their ultimate destination, by the 15th of April, 1830. A failure in this particular will be considered a breach of contract, and the Department will be authorized to purchase to supply these posts.

The inspection of provisions will be made at the time and place of delivery; and all expenses paid by contractors until they are deposited at such store houses as may be designated by the Agent of the Department.

The privilege will be reserved to the United States of increasing or diminishing the quantities, or of dispensing with one or more articles, at any time before entering into contract; and also of increasing or reducing the quantities of each delivery one-third, on giving sixty days' previous notice.

Bidders not heretofore contractors, or who have not furnished satisfactory evidences of their ability to fulfil the engagements they may have proposed, are required to accompany their proposals with such evidences of their character, which must be certified to by the Marshal or by some person well known to this Department, otherwise their proposals will not be noticed.

There can be no [illegible] evidence of responsibility required at this office before the contracts are made, which will be either in the Department at Washington or with the Paymaster in Treasury drafts on some point in the Westward.

It is desirable that each proposal be in a separate envelope, and marked Proposals for furnishing Army Subsistence.
