LOCAL RIPPLES.

—When are the martins coming?

—Yesterday was like balmy spring

—Cabarrus Court opens next Monday.

— Is the city to be lighted by electricity?

— Will Charlotte Insurance agents reduce the per centum of Insurance now that the law has been changed?

— Col. A. H. Buford, president of the Richmond & Danville Railroad, was at the Buford House last night.

—Mr. Henry Nathan, Jr., is temporarily confined to his room from erysipelas in the foot, but is improving.

— A meeting of Charlotte Chapter No. 39, Royal Arch masons, is called for to night at Masonic Temple, at half past seven o'clock.

— How will it do to enforce the vagrant laws just for once in Charlotte? Are there not too many idle people standing about the streets?

— We are asked to say that a meeting of Charlotte Lodge Knights and Ladies of Honor will be held this evening at the usual place of meeting.

— Mrs. Jas. M. Rea, of Providence township, this county, died yesterday morning, and will be buried this evening at the Methodist church at Harrison's.

— Will some one of the Mecklenburg members give us the names of the legislators who voted for the dog law, and vice versa. We want to place them on record.

—Capt Ross Robertson was proud of his company while in Washington at the inauguration, and he had good reason to be. It is one of the best in the South.

— Ex-Sheriff Alexander is getting terribly in earnest about delinquent tax payers. He says he is going to collect by distraint after the 25th inst. A word to the wise is sufficient.

—Mr. C. S. Holton left last evening for Asheville to attend the convention of the Young Men's Christian Association, which met yesterday in that city, and to which he is a delegate.

—This is the latest spring whereof the memory of man runneth, but all indications point to a heavy fruit crop. We want to be in time, hence we say now: "Cream and peaches for two."

— Who is responsible for the extension of the city's limits by the Legislature? Don't all speak at once. Somebody will have to answer for it before the people—the voters. "All's well that ends well."

— The Mt. Holly & Denver railroad when completed, will be another feeder to Charlotte. Why not boom it along here a little. If we haven't got dollars to give, we might give a little "moral support."

— The following were registered among the arrivals at the Central yesterday: Judge J M Baker and wife, Jacksonville, Fla; W. L Springs and Clement McCune, Philadelphia; D E Lyon, Pittsburg, Pa.; Geo E Briggs, New Bedford, Mass.; S Flagg, N Y Times; G E Downs, Fitchburg, Mass.

— Charlotte railroad men take notice: The law to prevent the running of freight trains on Sunday was amended by the Legislature just adjourned. The law now provides that freight trains carrying live stock, fruits, vegetables, or perishable matter, shall be exempted from the provisions of the law, and such trains will be permitted to pass on Sunday.

The Graded School.

Miss Lucy Robinson, the teacher in the lowest primary grade of our city school, has been called home by the serious illnes of her mother. Her place, for the present, will be filled by Miss Ida Wells, one of her friends, who has the reputation of being a very superior primary and kindergarten teacher; so the patrons of the school can rest assured that the little folks will still be in good hand.

Off for New Orleans.

A party consisting of Mr. J. S. Spencer, and his two daughters, Misses Sallie and Lola, Miss Mamie Yates, Miss Mamie Wadsworth, Miss Minnie Wriston, Mr. McDonald and Mr. D. C. Anderson left this morning on the 1:45 train, via Atlanta, for the New Orleans Exposition. They go by the Atlanta & New Orleans Short Line via Montgomery, represented by T. F. McCandless, Atlanta, Ga.

The Liberia Fever.

The Arkansas fever among the colored people in portions of this State seems to have subsided, to be followed by the Liberia fever which seems to have broken out in Asheville, if we may judge from the following which we clip from the Asheville Citizen: "The colored population of Asheville are having weekly meetings to consider the question of migrating to Liberia, and we are informed that quite a number, embracing some of our most influential colored citizens, have consented to go—are indeed leading the movement,—and that quite a begira of this population will take place some time this year for that 'halcyon land' in Africa to which they are invited by some over sanguine individual."

They say Bigelow is suing "Bettie and the Baby" for half of their gift money, but the baby don't care a sou, so long as it can get plenty of Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup.

THE PATRICK SUIT.

JUDGMENT BY NONSUIT.

Mr. F. E. Patrick Brings a Suit Against the Richmond & Danville Railroad Company, and His Counsel Submit to to a Nonsuit.

One of the most important and interesting cases tried in Mecklenburg Superior Court for many years was the case above mentioned, which ended yesterday by the plaintiff taking a non-suit and an appeal to the Supreme court.

This action was brought by the plaintiff on a contract dated in August, 1876, for the lease of a small portion of the Richmond & Danville Railroad platform, on which Mr. F. E. Patrick was allowed to erect a cotton compress, the Richmond & Danville Railroad company reserving the right to determine the lease and reclaim possession, whenever in the judgment of the president or general superintendent of the road, they should think it necessary. Mr. Patrick testified that this notice required to determine the lease had been served upon him in writing according to the contract by Col. T. M. R. Talcott, the general superintendent. He then offered to prove that Col. Talcott agreed verbally with him to revoke the notice and to reinstate the lease. To this the defendant's counsel objected, because

First, The power conferred upon Talcott to determine the lease did not imply a power to reinstate the lease, and that no such power was implied, simply because he was the general superintendent of the company, and that the plaintiff could not offer in evidence Talcott's verbal promise to revive the lease until the grant of that authority to him was made certain and definite.

Second, because the complainant charged that no notice was served upon him by Talcott to determine the lease, and that under this allegation he proposed to prove that a notice was served, but was afterwards revoked, and that the variation between the allegation and the proof was fatal.

The points raised by the counsel for the defense were sustained by the court, and the plaintiff submitted to a nonsuit and appealed. The principal points for the defendant (the railroad) were raised and argued by ex Judge Schenck, who added considerably to his already high reputation, in this section of the State, as an able lawyer.

Among the witnesses for the railroad who were present, but did not testify, were Col. A. S Buford, president, Col. A. B. Andrews, vice president, Col. Talcott, formerly general superintendent, Mr. Sol. Haas, general freight agent, and Capt. C. C. McPhail.

The case was first tried at the Spring term 1879, and a judgment of $5,000 rendered in favor of the plaintiff, Patrick, before Judge Seymour, which was set aside and a new trial granted. It came up again for trial at the last Fall term of the Superior court, and after engaging the attention of the court for a day and a half, a juror took sick, and a mistrial was made.

The points raised were new in several respects in trials of this nature, and the rulings of Judge Phillips appear to us to be based upon good common law.

A Plant Covering Patent.

It seems that certain parties are dispensing to tobacco raisers in this State for a consideration the right to use what is called a plant protector, which they claim to have patented. It consists of nothing more nor less than a thin piece of cloth attached to a frame which is placed over the plant beds as a protection from frost and also from the fly. The following in reference to the so-called patent may be of interest to tobacco raisers, and perhaps be instrumental in saving them some change:

DANVILLE, VA., March 6th, 1885.

Dear Sir: We desire to call your attention to the fact that one Samuel Garard, of Durham, N. C., claims to hold letters patent bearing the date January 10th, 1885, for covering plant beds with cloth, and offering to sell county and farm rights for said purpose. We desire to inform our friends, to secure letters patent it is necessary for the party applying to first make oath that he "is the original discoverer." We know this device has been in use for three years or more, and extensively used both in the West and in this great tobacco section. We have no hesitancy in advising you to pay no attention to any one claiming such right, believing it a fraud.

Make the path of him who seeks a "royalty" distribute his tracks with his heels towards your premises.

Your friends truly,
ED. M. PAGE & CO.

RAISING THE WIND.

How a Kentucky Youth Compelled his Father to Sign Checks.

LOUISVILLE, KY., March 12.—A sensation was created yesterday at Bowling Green, Ky., by Charles Moore entering the house of his father, Dr. J. P. Moore, one of the best known and wealthiest citizens of the State, and demanding that his aged parent sign notes to the amount of $6,110, which he refused to do. The young man then seized his father by the throat and choked him severely. Releasing his hold upon the old gentleman's throat, he brought forth two revolvers, which induced the father to come to terms and sign the documents. As soon as he could recover he had his son arrested. Young Moore is in the government's employ at Evansville, Ind. The father is in a very feeble condition and refuses to prosecute his son.

A Regular Machine.

"Taking your paragraphs about a Chambersburg, Pa., physician who can write his name with both hands," says a New Orleans correspondent, "I think that New Orleans can boast of a young man who can do the same, and also write backwards, beginning with the last letter; also upside down, and again to write that to read it one must look through the paper at the light, or he can write any way, and also do figuring. His name is John B. Meyer."

A STINGLESS HONEY BEE.

Concerning a Harmless Insect That Used to Improve Each Shining Hour.

Jacksonville Times-Union.

It may not be generally known to those who have been stung by the common black honey bee or the still more dangerous "improved Italian bee" that in the State of Yucatan and some other of the Central American States there is a honey gathering bee that has no sting, and that such bees will secure for their owner as large an amount of honey as do the stinging bees. The following extract from that very intelligent lady, Mrs. Hester P. Walker, the daughter of Dr. Henry Perrine, who was murdered by the Indians in 1840 on Indian Key, will give some important knowledge of these wonderful bees, that may be cultivated in Florida, she says:

"About the year 1838, I think, my father sent to Key West and Indian Key some hives of stingless bees. Three were sent to Indian Key, and when we were there in 1839 and 1840 one hive still remained; the other two in swarming time had steered for the mainland and were lost. Those at Key West had also disapgeared. Their hives were simply hollow logs. Their cells were entirely unlike the common bees', being an octagon about as large as an ordinary marble and holding about a teaspoonful of pure, clear honey. This is as I remember them. At one time when a flag of truce was flying the Indians reported to the officers at Fort Dallas that they had found a new bee that did not sting. It is possible that some of our pioneers may have found trees of such honey and yet been afraid to make use of them from the entirely different appearance of the comb and honey. They are worth seeking for, and if found will but add another to the strange and wonderful list of Florida's productions.

"Father sent at the same time of sending these to Florida a hive to old Peale's Museum in New York. Peale kept them a long time, feeding them on sweetened water and amusing himself with the consternation of his visitors at finding bees flying around the museum. These succumbed to the cold."

If any of these bees yet remain in Florida, as another monument to that illustrious man who did and sacrificed so much for the good of Florida, they should be carefully cultivated and increased in numbers. If not, others should be introduced from their original habitat.

How to Train the Stomach.

New York Tribune.

What we need is a course of stomach gymnastics. We should begin by requiring more work of our stomachs. It is preposterous to suppose that a little exercise three times a day is enough to keep them in a healthy condition. We should exercise our stomachs in a systematic way, beginning by eating raw oysters at intervals of every two hours, and gradually substituting for oysters food more and more difficult of digestion. By careful training of this sort we could in time be able to digest pork with perfect ease, and those of us who might wish to become stomachic athletes might be trained to digest tomato cans, or even boarding house mince pie. There is no reason why man, who is many respects stronger than the goat, should not rival or even surpass that animal in digestive feats. If the goat can eat tomato cans and underclothing without causing him the slightest uneasiness, man ought to be able to thrive on a similar diet.

Brother Edmund's Sodalities.

New York Sun.

The transfer of Senator Garland to the cabinet will be a great loss to the senate, but if the Philadelphia Times tells the truth about him, the change will fall with particular heaviness upon the Hon. George F. Edmunds, of Vermont. Garland's exit from congress leaves Edmunds the last and lone of a trio that were well matched on and of the legislative floor. "Thurman and Edmunds who were then on the judiciary committee and twins in their law and their frolics, found in this Arkansas man," says the Times "a match for their legal acumen and their quiet social desires. They took him in and the three became fast friends." Now that Mr. Edmunds is left to himself, what will he do, and how will he do it, will afford an interesting study to his brother senators. Will he henceforth sip his cup of senatorial "cold tea" in solitude, or will he pluck up heart from another brotherhood, and start afresh?

It must not be forgotten that there are points in Brother Evart's record that entitle him to consideration if the Vermont statesman should think of organizing another small sodality of jovial senators.

Minnie Palmer's Stockings.

Denver Tribune Republican.

If there's one thing in the world that a woman likes better than another it's silk stockings Minnie Palmer has 'em. She has 240 pairs, and they are so cleverly contrived as to look little at the bottom and big at the top. That is, the feet are all in dark colors, which gradually develop breadth from the instep up and spread away into designs of lacings and embroideries.

One of the loveliest pairs she wore was of cream and garnet, so exquisitely combined that they might well be termed a symphony in stockings. Queen Elizabeth, in whose time silk stockings were invented, would give poor little Minnie an awful shaking up should she suddenly be resurrected into court life again.

The standard of fine ladyism nowadays is silk stockings, and the little song and dance actress has struck fashion at high tide.

Failure of an Old Cotton House.

NEW YORK, March 12.—Von Gundell & Mayhoff, cotton brokers, have failed. The house is an old established one, and was operating on the "bull" side.

Exposing a Medium.

It was in San Francisco. She was playing ghost, and somebody grabbed part of her ghostly garments as she was gliding out of the cabinet. She screamed and cried out that it wasn't fair. One of the beauties of Brown's Iron Bitters is that its beneficent work is all fair and square. People may investigate as much as they please; and the more they investigate, the more they see what wonders this famous tonic has accomplished. Mrs. Eliza Craddock, 981 Sixth street, Harrisburg, Pa., writes, "I found speedy relief from bad blood and indigestion by using Brown's Iron Bitters."

That fat man, who the ladies declare is the handsomest man in Washington, used to be an invalid, but he took to hard drinking, not of whiskey, but of Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup, and now he walks right over the very slenderest dudes, and don't care at all.

The removal of Prof. Sanborn, of N. H., after being pronounced incurable by a score of physicians, from Las Vegas, N. M., to his home, was effected by administering Dr. Harter's Iron Tonic, which has restored him to his former good health.

What Can I Get

TO EAT?

The above question is asked every day by the anxious housekeeper. We have been on the look out and have in store a great many nice things. We call attention especially to our

Family Roe Herring

—AND—

Florida :-: Mullets,

Which go a long ways towards a nice breakfast. Our Fulton Market Beef and Pickled Salmon will help on out at Tea time.

In our boyhood days we remember how we smiled when the cook brought in the "SLAP-JACKS." Our Dried Peaches and Apples can do good service in making them.

Try our Key Sardines, no can opener required.

Our line of Catsups, Sauces and Potted Goods, will be found complete.
