THE HARBOR CONVENTION.

The Convention which assembled at Savannah last Tuesday to discuss the condition of Southern Harbors, and the approaches thereto, was one of the most important bodies which has assembled at the South since the war. Its membership was large and representative. There were delegates regularly appointed from seven of the South Atlantic States, and the Convention as an expression of public sentiment did its work well, as is attested by the adoption of the resolutions published in THE OBSERVER yesterday.

It was the most remarkable convention in one respect, that we ever attended. It was a business, not a speech-making convention. It was apparent before the convention assembled that there was great unanimity of opinion among the delegates as to what the character of resolutions ought to be, and when the committee on resolutions met it was found that there was nothing in the way of unanimous report. The action of the convention adopting the resolutions was also unanimous, and ligitimate arguments on the subjects likely to engross the minds of the members, was stiffled when the report of the committee on resolutions was adopted without a dissenting voice.

It was not only harmonious, but it was harmonious for good to the South; aye for good to the country, in showing to the members of the Federal Congress about to assemble the great unanimity of the people in the Union to have the harbors and theapproaches thereto improved, to the extent of their necessities, commensurate with their growing commerce, and the importance of their local importance.

The influence of the Convention will be felt in the halls of Congress It will be felt in the new throb of life which will be given to Southern commerce and Southern development,

There is a new life in front of us. The past is dead, and will be shortly forgotten. God speed the day. We want to see more River and Harbor Conventions; more unanimity among the people; less sectionalism, and more united effort for the good, grandeur, glory, and prosperity of our common country.

The Value of Water as an Aid Blasting.

Attention is called by the Coal Trade Journal, in an elaborate article, to the fact that the value of water as aid to blasting, when used in connection with explosives, is rapidly becoming recognized in this country, as well as in the larger mines and quarries of Europe. Among the favorable points pertaining to this process, special mention is made of the fact that the powder, in exploding, bursts the tube containing the water, and—careful estimates showing—with increased power or explosive violence; this is because the rending force is extended through the water, in accordance with certain well known principles of hydrostatics, over the enlarged interior area of the bore hole, due to the space occupied by the water tube. A much larger quantity of the material to be mined or quarried is thus brought down or loosened with a smaller quantity of the explosive used. Again, the heat given off by the burning of the powder and surrounding gases converts a larger proportion of the water into steam, the elastic force of which assists in the operation of blasting, and the steam and remaining water together extinguish the flame and flash of the powder.

Died from Yellow Fever.

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 27.—A death from yellow fever occured on board the steamer Vedezuelan, in this port yesterday. The steamer sailed from Liverpool, Oct. 17, via, Central America, Mexican and West Indian ports. The Health authorities have had the vessel thoroughly fumigated and feel no uneasiness concerning the matter. Earnest Richardson Purser of the steamer was sick when the vessel arrived, and died this morning. He did not, however, have yellow fever.

Business Failures.

NEW YORK, Nov. 27.—The business failures occurring throughout the country during the last week, reported to R. G. Dun & Co., number for the United States, 199, and for Canada, 15, a total of 214, against 240 last week, and 223 the week previous. Except that failures are increasing in the South and on the Pacific coast, there is nothing special to note this week

The Rosadalis Remedy

ROSADALIS is a sovereign remedy for all diseases of the blood. It has no equal for the cure of nervous disorders. Read this:

I would like to bear testimony to the merits of ROSADALIS, by saying that some eight years ago I was totally prostrated, and could get no relief from our family physician, but after taking one bottle of ROSADALIS I became entirely restored to health. I now weigh 175 lbs., but when I first took your medicine I weighed only 130. I cheerfully recommend it to all, and especially those afflicted with nervous debility.

Vice Presidents Who Have Died in Office.

Four Vice-Presidents besides Mr. Hendricks have died in office. George Clinton began life as a sailor in a privateer, served as a lieutenant in the expedition against Fort Frontenac, studied law and entered politics as a member of the Colonial Assembly of New York. He became a member of the Continental Congress in 1775 and was afterwards a brigadier general In 1777 he was elected Governor of New York, which office he held for eighteen years in succession. After a retirement of four years he was again elected Governor in 1801, and in 1804 was chosen Vice President with Thos Jefferson. He was re-elected in 1808, with Madison, and continued in office until his death, in April 1812.

Elbridge Gerry, of Massachusetts, after having been a member of the Continental Congress from 1776 to 1785, a signer of the Declaration of Independence, in 1797 and Minister to France in the latter year and Governor of Massachusetts in 1810 and 1811, was, in 1812, elected Vice President at James Madison's second election to the Presidency. He took his seat as President of the Senate March 4, 1813 He died in Washington Nov 23, 1814

William R King served in Congress from North Carolina, his native State from 1811 to 1816 After serving as secretary of legation he returned to this country and settled in Alabama, from which State he was in 1819 elected to the United States Senate where he remained until 1844 He resigned to accept the mission to France, and upon his return in 1846 was re elected to the Senate, which he left to take the Vice Presidency with Franklin Pierce in 1853. He had acted as President pro tem. of the Senate for more than ten years.

Henry Wilson's real name was Jeremiah Colbath, He left New Hampshire and his name behind him in 1833, when he was twenty one years of age, and went to Natick, Mass, where he learned the trade of shoemaker In 1840 he entered politics by becoming a member of the State Legislature, in the two branches of which he served eight years. After considerable activity in politics he was elected to the United States Senator in 1855, in which body he remained until 1872, when he was elected Vice President on the ticket with General Grant. He died in Washington, November 22, 1875.

Lord Tennyson's Gruffness.

The London Life tells some anecdotes of Lord Tennyson's peculiar gruffness. On one occasion he was at a garden party, and somebody offered him a sandwich. He was laboriously munching this when the hostess rushed up to him with anxious inquiries about his health and entertainment. "Thank you, madam," he said, "I am eating a sandwich. Are your sandwiches usually made of old boots, may I ask?" Another time he was asked to read one of his poems at a house where there was a party of young girls. He blankly refused. "I shan't!" he said. Presently he noticed that one of the girls was so deeply disappointed that the tears stood in her eyes. He laid his hand on her shoulder and said, "Would you like to hear me read?" "Oh, yes!" she exclaimed. "Then I will. People say I am a brute, and they are right, but I will read to you." And he took the book and delighted everybody by reading for a long time.

Gents, to make a good appearance, should have shapely looking feet. Fine fitting shoes, constructed on scientific principles cover up defects, and at the same time develop all the good points in one's feet. Rev. Dr. Armstrong and Bishop Keane

A large meeting was held in Atlanta, Ga, Tuesday evening in the interest of the pending campaign in Ireland for home rule. The leading speakers were Rev. Geo C. Betts, of St. Louis, Hon Henry W. Billard, Judge O A Lochrane, and Rev Dr. J G Armstrong rector of St. Philip's Episcopal church, now under suspension on charges affecting his ministerial reputation. Dr Armstrong, who is a native of Ireland, denounced in strong language the terrible oppression to which he said his native country was subject. Taking his audience into his confidence, Dr Armstrong said: "On one of the platforms where it was once my missioned to speak, and where sympathy was needed, the hand that extended it was that of Bishop Keane of Richmond, Va. When, on a later occasion, trouble came to me, of which you have heard, the first telegram I received expressing confidence in my integrity and good will for the future was from the same Right Rev. Bishop Keane, of Richmond, 'an Irishman for whom now I have as strong a respect as ever throbbed in an Irish breast.'" The cheers and demonstrations at this point became an ovation. The speaker concluded with a strong plea for Irish rights

HANAN'S WALKINGFAST.

WHAT THEY SAY ABOUT THE HANAN SHOE.

Nos. 31 & 32 Park row,
New York, Sept. 23, 1885.

MESSRS. ROGERS, PEET & CO.

Gentlemen: Having noticed in this morning's Sun your advertisement concerning the Hanan's Waukenphast shoe sold by you, I cannot refrain from expressing, unsolicited, my satisfaction with a pair which after a year's almost continuous wear, I am just about discarding. I had been accustomed to having my shoes made to order, paying from $9 to $13 a pair for the same. Last summer—I mean a year ago—wishing for a pair of shoes at short notice for a trip to the mountains, I stepped into your establishment and purchased a pair of Hanan's. For ease and comfort on long tramps in the country I have never had their equal on my feet; while for durability they come about as near to the Irishman's ideal as anything I ever saw. He said he "didn't care what kind of shoes he had so long as the uppers were indestructible and the soles were made of eternity." They have worn out the second sole and the uppers are still perfectly sound and whole.

I am glad to add my testimony to their excellence, though a total stranger to the Hanan's or to any member of your firm, and you are at liberty to make any use of this communication you may see fit.

Respectfully Yours,
MORTIMER LIVINGSTON
