Your life is many times [illegible] may be rough
Rude boulders and [illegible] pathway may cumber
We shall find all these [illegible] enough
And a map made by [illegible] lessen their number
The trouble we fight will [illegible] pears
At the time of the [illegible] will seem
And the eyes worn with what [illegible] quickly with tears
Don't look for the bridge [illegible] to the stream

With gratitude [illegible] enjoy.
And needless anxiety speedily [illegible]
When foreboding of [illegible] annoy,
Fling it off as a burthen, eat, drink and be merry.
Attend to your duty, be cheerful and strong;
Where sunshine is brightest there bask in its beam
Keep your courage alive for your battle with prong—
Don't look for the bridge till you come to the stream

You may say 'tis your brother's sight that darkens the air
That your brain is [illegible] ills of tomorrow
To provide [illegible] prudence and [illegible]
For what [illegible] your sorrow

Meet what comes [illegible] to heaven the best
Don't look [illegible] to the stream
Why [illegible] fore
Life [illegible] with the brooding
To magnify danger will magnify fear
And doubt is a dastard wherever intruding.
Content with the joy that the present inspires,
No more on the woe that may come to you dream.
Meet Fate, when it strikes, with the force it requires—
Don't look for the bridge till you come to the stream.

Transplanting Evergreen Shrubs.

Many failures occur from lack of proper treatment at transplanting. There is no more beautiful shrub of this kind, than our native "Laurel" (improperly so called as it is not a Laurel), Kalmia latifolia, also called "Calico Bush." It is very rarely seen in cultivation, and there is a general belief that it cannot be transplanted from the woods, but if we would have it in our grounds, we must get nursery grown trees. We know of a great admirer of this shrub, who imported it from an English nursery, while it grew by thousands within a few miles of his place. Yet this shrub can be transplanted as readily as a willow, if one will at transplanting cut it back to remove every leaf. This appears like severe treating it, but unless one will cut the beast shrub back to a naked stem, he had better leave it where it grew, for it will surely fail. Treated thus, success is as certain as with any other shrub. In due time the naked stem will "break," producing an abundance of new shoots, and by autumn will be supplied with abundant foliage. Having done this, and seen it done by others, it may be tried with full confidence of success. We have no doubt that other shrubs of this class, if on their removal from the nursery were treated in the same manner, would succeed more frequently they now do. Yet few have the the courage, when they pay a dollar, more or less, for a shrub, to mutilate it in this manner. Still, it is worth trying.—American Agriculturist.

A Syracuse lawyer, in drawing up a brief, referred to a "gote," a "carpentir," a "hotell keaper" and a constebul," and yet he won his case. A lawyer who can weep before a jury has no need of any orthography at all.

Free Trade.

The reduction of internal revenue and the taking off of revenue stamps from Proprietary Medicines, no doubt has largely benefited the consumers, as well as relieving the burden of home manufacturers. Especially is this the case with Green's August Flower and Boschee's German Syrup, as the reduction of thirty-six cents per dozen, has been added to increase the size of the bottles containing these remedies, thereby giving one-fifth more medicine in the 75 cent size. The August Flower for Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint, and the German Syrup for Cough and Lung troubles, have perhaps the largest sale of any medicines in the world. The advantage of increased size of the bottles will be greatly appreciated by the sick and afflicted, in every town and village in civilized countries. Sample bottles for 10 cents remain the same size.
