Sunday Reading.

To Parents.

"A pebble in the trembling rill,
Has turned the course of many a river;
A dew drop on the baby plant
Has warped the giant oak forever."

"Train up a child in the way he should go," or "initiate a child at the opening of his path." Human life is a warfare. The arch-adversary, with his dismal host, has arrayed himself against us. And he, and all emissaries must be put under our feet ere we can be welcomed into the New Jerusalem, with robe, and palm, and crown.—How important, then, that we should be drilled for the struggle previous to the actual engagement. The term, "train" is a military expression. It does not imply merely the inculcation of one or two lessons, or the correction of one or two faults. To train is to discipline. Several years are generally spent in teaching the young cadet the science of war, and in inuring him to the hardships of the camp.

So parents are enjoined to teach their children the theory and the practice of spiritual warfare. They are to be made acquainted with the fundamental truths of the Bible, and with the prominent passages in its history and biography. And they are to be taught to practice those moral virtues and christian duties which adorn the profession of Godliness.

In a word the youth is to go forth into the world fully armed. His mind is to be so stored with religious knowledge that there is no room for infidel principles. His heart is to be so filled with love for God and his service that there will be no necessity to resort to sensual indulgences in order to find excitement.

Life is a journey. From the cradle to the grave there are at least two paths. How important that the child be initiated into the right one at its very opening. Many pious persons have embraced the delusive notion that children ought not to commence the world religiously. They should make no step in this important matter until the mind is matured. They should be capable of comprehending the various creeds which have obtained in the world. And after a due investigation of the doctrines and government of all the leading churches, then they should attach themselves to the one which they prefer—then they should start for Heaven.

But is mental maturity indispensable to piety? We must have some correct knowledge of our own depravity, of the atonement, of repentance and faith, and of future rewards and punishments. Not that these subjects must be fully understood, but that they must be believed as the truth of God. This is all that is necessary in order to the commencement of a holy life. And what child is incapable of believing? How many examples of consistent early piety have we? Who has not felt the strivings of the Spirit long before the years of sound discretion? And if the Spirit of truth woos us to God while we are yet of tender years, who will affect to be wiser than this Spirit, and say it is too soon?

If parents wish their children to travel the celestial road, where is the propriety of starting them in the way to ruin, with the hope that they will ultimately wander into the right path?

"Train up a child in the way he should go, and when he is old he will not depart from it."

THE FUTURE LIFE.

BY WILLIAM CULLEN BRYANT.

How shall I know them in the sphere which keeps
The disembodied spirits of the dead,
When all of this that time could wither, sleeps
And perishes among the dust we tread?

For shall I feel the sting of senseless pain
If there I meet the gentle presence not;
Nor hear the voice of love, nor read again
In thy serenest eyes the tender thought.

Will not thy own meek heart demand me there?
That heart whose fondest throbs to me belongs?
My name on earth was ever in thy prayer,
Shall it be banished from thy tongue in heaven?

In meadows fanned by heaven's life-breathing wind,
In the resplendence of that glorious sphere,
And larger movements of the unfettered mind,
Will then forget the love that joined us here?

The love that lived through all the stormy past,
And meekly with my harsher nature bore,
And deeper grew, and purer to the last,
Shall it expire with life, and be no more?

A happier lot than mine, and larger light,
Await thee there; for thou hast moved by well
In cheerful duty; in thy place of rest
And love all, and rendered good for evil.

For me, the sordid cares in which I dwell
Shrink and consume the heart, as heat the scroll;
And with hath left its mark—that first sad fall
He left its frightful scar upon my soul.

Yet, though thou wert the glory of the sky,
Will thou not keep the same beloved name?
The same fair, thoughtful brow, and gentle eye,
Look on me in heaven's serene beatitude?

Oh, if then wert lovely on this earthly home,
The wisdom that I learned so ill in thee—
The wisdom which is love—till I become
Thy fit companion in that land of bliss?

INFLUENCE OF WOMAN

It is by the promulgation of sound morals in the community, and more especially by the training and instruction of the young, that woman performs her part toward the preservation of a free government. It is generally admitted that public liberty, the perpetuity of a free constitution, rests on the virtue and intelligence of the community which enjoys it. How is it that virtue is to be inspired, and how is that intelligence to be communicated? Bonaparte once asked Madame de Stael in what manner he could most promote the harmony of France. Her reply is full of political wisdom. She said, "Instruct the mothers of the French People." Mothers are, indeed, the all-powerful and effective teachers of the human race.—The mother begins her process of training with the infant in her arms. It is she who dictates, so to speak, its first mental and spiritual publications. She conducts it along the impressible years of childhood and youth and hopes to deliver it to the rough contests and tumultuous scenes of life, armed by those good principles which her child has received from maternal care and love.

If we draw within the circle of our contemplation the mothers of a civilized nation, what do we see? We beheld so many artificers working, not on frail and perishable matter, but on the immortal mind, moulding and fashioning beings who are to exist forever. We applaud the artist whose skill and genius present the mimic man upon the canvass; we admire and celebrate the sculptor who works out that same image in enduring marble; but how insignificant are these achievements, though the highest and fairest in all the departments of art, in comparison with the great vocation of human mothers! They work, not upon the canvass that shall fail, or the marble that shall crumble into dust, but upon mind, upon spirit, which is to last forever, and which is to bear for good or evil, throughout its duration, the impress of a mother's plastic hand.

Our security for the duration of the free institutions which bless our country, depends upon the habits of virtue and the prevalence of knowledge and of education. Knowledge does not comprise all which is contained in the larger term of education. The feelings are to be disciplined; the passions are to be restrained; true and worthy motives to be inspired; a profound feeling is to be instilled; and pure morality inculcated under all circumstances. All this is comprised in education. Mothers who are faithful to this great duty will tell their children that, neither in political nor in any other concerns of life, can man ever withdraw himself from the perpetual obligations of conscience and of duty; that, in every act, whether public or private, he incurs a just responsibility; and that in no condition is he warranted in trifling with important rights and obligations. They will impress upon their children the truth, that the exercise of the elective franchise is a social duty of as solemn a nature as man can be called to perform; that a man may not innocently trifle with his vote; that every free elector is a trustee, as well for others as himself; and that every man, and every measure he supports, has an important bearing on the interests of others as well as his own. It is in the inculcation of high and pure morals, such as these, that, in a free republic, woman performs her sacred duty, and fulfils her destiny.

EARLY TRAINING

Who can estimate the value of correct training in early life? Dr. Rush has well said: "Mothers and school-masters plant the seeds of nearly all the good and evil in the world." If this be true, and we are sure it is, how responsible is the position they occupy. We are sure the venerable doctor would allow us to place Sunday School teachers in the rank of school-masters. And who can estimate the value of their operations in moulding the minds of the young, and sowing the seeds of piety and virtue in their hearts? They are casting the salt of grace into the fountains of moral feeling, which, if left to themselves, would send forth the bitter waters of sin to devastate the world. If they are not educating the young, they are doing more, they are teaching them how to educate themselves—showing them how they may carry out the wise man's instruction "Get wisdom, and with all thy getting, get understanding." Thus sings our accomplished country woman, Mrs. Sigourney:—

If thou hast planted a flower
Or fed a fainting fly,
And have it from its garden bower,
Thou marvest 'twill fade away?
Is thought but gathered gold,
Entrusted and unfaithful,
That gleaming hoard of worth untold,
Thou knowest the thief may find?

There is a plant that lives,
No autumn season's strife,
But with an unbroken fragrance shrives
The wintry rose of life;
There is a wealth that rolls
The poverty-strong tide,
The guardian of the souls that trust,
For immortality.

O ye, whose lives are bright,
Whose blossoms feel no blasts,
Seek knowledge by the easy light
Of youth's unclouding morn;
While order encircled
Seek wisdom's lore sublime,
And win the garland, and the gold
That cannot change with time.

A TEACHER'S COUNSEL

My young friends do you ever break the Sabbath? Bear in mind when you violate the day of the Lord, you openly trample upon one of the Commandments of your God, and thereby incur his displeasure. If you do not wish to make God angry with you, do as he tells you: "Remember the Sabbath Day to keep it holy." If God says you must remember his day, should you not do so?

When you do wrong, be assured, God will be angry with you. You cannot hide any of your actions from him. He sees you, go where you may. You may go into a room and shut every door, and yet God will see you. You may go into the deepest and darkest cave on earth, and still he sees you.

Although some of you are very young, yet you know good from evil, or when you do right, and when you do wrong; and if any of you are not able to judge in a particular case, seek advice from your parents, minister or teacher, and be sure to choose the good and refuse the evil.

Some little children have learned to count and light, as well as to break the Sabbath. Let me caution you against all these dreadful sins. Keep out of the company of those who commit such wicked actions. Ask the Lord to give you a new heart, and to make you his children, and then you will be so happy. And if you are faithful,

"Grace will preserve your following years,
And make your virtue strong."

WHAT IS BLASPHEMY

Webster defines blasphemy "to speak of the Supreme Being in terms of impious reproach. To revile or speak reproachfully of God or the Holy Spirit." We presume no man who pretends to be a Christian would commit this intentionally, and yet we fear that many do it thoughtlessly. A common instance of this is seen in the manner of speaking of the weather. We blush to find in one of our Western exchanges the following shocking paragraph:

"The thunderpeals of the last week, with the broiling hot sun, would have been creditable to July. The clerk of the weather evidently lost the hang of his business. He should be removed or reformed."

Who "maketh his sun to rise on the evil and the good?" Who "sendeth rain upon the just and upon the unjust?" That mighty Being who has said that he will not "hold him guiltless that taketh his name in vain." We think that the editor of the religious paper containing the above paragraph does not undesstand "his business," and certainly ought to be "removed or reformed."—Lutheran Observer.

Having been engaged in business for so long a time, at the same old stand, it would seem useless and unnecessary to give publicity to the fact that I am still "jogging along and blessed with good health and strength," but my friends Messrs. Holton & Williamson having lately commenced the "North Carolina Whig," in the place of the old familiar "Charlotte Journal" that is gone by, cheered and made glad so many hearts, at every week it presented itself, I thought I would be doing our energetic and persevering friends great injustice were I not to assist them all I could in their arduous, laborious and responsible undertaking.

To those who have so liberally patronized me for the last number of years I return my grateful acknowledgments, still soliciting your continued kindness and custom, feeling confident that it will be to your advantage and interest. I am still occupying my old stand in Charlotte, on Main street, near Mr. J. B. Kerr's Hotel, and nearly opposite R. H. Brawley's new building.

CHERRY PECTORAL

For the Cure of

COUGHS, COLDS, HOARSENESS, BRONCHITIS, WHOOPING-COUGH, CROUP, ASTHMA, AND CONSUMPTION.

Of all the numerous medicines extant, (and some of them valuable) for the cure of pulmonary complaints, nothing has ever been found which could compare in its effects with this preparation.—Others cure sometimes, but at all times and in all diseases of the lungs and throat where medicine can give relief, this will do it. It is pleasant to take, and perfectly safe in all cases with the directions. We do not [illegible] who have not. Families that have once used it will always have it in the house. Clergyman [illegible] Coughs and Colds which [illegible] consumption.

Mr. [illegible] Manchester, Lancaster was considered [illegible] in consumption, by the best of physicians in Boston and New York, who, at the request of the Institution of A. C. in this country, and the Diploma of the Ohio Institute at Cincinnati, has been given to Dr. CHERRY PECTORAL for their Government in consideration of its extraordinary excellence and usefulness in curing affections of the Lungs and Throat.

Read the following opinion founded on the long experience of the eminent Physician of the port and City of

J. C. AYER.— St. JOHNS as 8, 1851.

Five years trial of your CHERRY PECTORAL in my practice, has proven what I foresaw, from its composition, must be true, that it eradicates and cures the colds and coughs to which we, in this section, are particularly liable.

Of such a remedy has not yet been discovered, nor do I know how a better remedy can be made for the diseases of the Throat and lungs.

J. J. BURTON, M. D. F. R. S.

See what it has done on a wasted constitution, not only in the following cases but a thousand more:

PERRYSBURG, Jan. 24, 1851.

Dr. Ayer: In the month of July last I was attacked by a violent cough in the names of Caleb Gerrish. I removed to San Francisco, in hope of recovering health from a change of climate and diet. My disease, however, was followed by a severe weight and tight sensation. I finally started for home but received no benefit from the voyage—My cough continued to grow worse, and when I arrived in New York I was once more marked by my acquaintances as a victim to consumption. I must confess that I was [illegible] reason to doubt what you, friends, so kindly, at this time, I concluded to keep your truly invaluable medicine with little expectation of deriving any benefit from its use. You would not receive these lines did I not regard it my duty to state to the afflicted, through you, that my health, in the space of eight months, is fully restored. I attribute it to the use of your CHERRY PECTORAL.

WILLIAM W. SMITH.

Washington, Pa., April 12, 1848.

Dear Sir:—Feeling that I have been spared from a premature grave, through your instrumentality by the providence of God, I will take the liberty to express to you my gratitude.

A cough and the alarming symptoms of Consumption had reduced me too low to leave me anything like hope, when my physician brought me a bottle of your "Pectoral." It seemed to afford immediate relief, and now in a few weeks time has restored me to sound health.

If it will do for others what it has for me, you are certainly entitled to the benefactors of mankind.

Sincerely wishing you every blessing, I am

Very respectfully yours,

JOHN J. CLARKE, Rector of S. Peter's Ch.

Charlotte, N. C. no 1—1

For the removal and permanent cure of all Diseases arising from an impure state of the Blood or habit of the System.

Among the many and important discoveries of this generation is one whose fame will be written, as with a sun beam, in the history of the past. Sands' Sarsaparilla stands forth alone, and by its own works proclaims its power—that mute eloquence so irresistibly affecting in the appeals of the suffering for relief, has been answered. Thousands of cases of diseases have been cured by this invaluable medicine, such as are furnished in the records of time. These things are not done in secret places, or in some unknown town, but are performed in our populous cities and public places. They are brought before the world in substantiate, beyond doubt, the healing virtues of this preparation, and the fact established, although gigantic, are as plain as the light of day.

The Sarsaparilla is combined with the most effectual aids, the most salutary productions, the most potent samples of the vegetable kingdom; and its unprecedented success in the restoration to health of those who had pined under the most distressing chronic maladies, has given it an exalted character—furnishing, as it does, evidence of its own intrinsic value, and recommending it to the afflicted in terms the afflicted only can know. It has long been a most important deideratum in the practice of medicine, to obtain a remedy, similar to this—one that would act on the liver, stomach and bowels with all the precision and potency of mineral preparations, yet without any of their deleterious effects upon the vital powers of the system. Although possessor of powerful healing properties, it is entirely harmless, and adapted to the most delicate constitution. When in perfect health, no effect is produced by its use, except an increase of appetite; but when disease is in ascendency, the vitalizing and carrying fluid, as it runs along the path of life, then its mysterious influence is felt and seen; it unknots new life and vigor, and brings health and strength to the suffering and diseased.

SCROFULOUS AFFECTION OF THE EYES

WINCHESTER, KY., October 29, 1849.

A. B. & D. SANDS—GENTLEMEN: I would not have resumed to write to you, if it was not my duty to let the public know the almost miraculous effect your Sarsaparilla has had upon me. My limbs were covered with ulcerous sores, so that I could not walk during the whole Spring and Summer. In consultation I recommended the use of your Sarsaparilla and after taking two bottles was entirely cured. I must also tell you of another wonderful cure. My brother was afflicted with this scrofula in his head, so much so that he was in danger of the loss of his sight, the disease, and permanent blindness seemed to be his fate. Three bottles entirely restored his sight, and we cannot but recommend all similarly afflicted to use Sands' Sarsaparilla. Yours, truly,

BENJAMIN F. BUCKNER.

ITS POPULARITY ABROAD.

From South America.

MARACAIBO, VENEZUELA, April 12 6, 1849.

Messrs. Sands—Gentlemen: I consider it a duty to the public to make known the great benefit I have received by using your valuable Sarsaparilla. About three years since I was attacked with Rheumatism in my shoulders, and also in my legs, and so severe was the pain, that I was unable to sleep. I tried all of the best medicines I could hear of without receiving any benefit, until through the advice of a friend I procured some of your Sarsaparilla, and after using four bottles in the course of fifteen days, I found myself entirely well. I have no hesitation in saying your Sarsaparilla is the best medicine I ever took, and can confidently recommend it to my friends and the public.

Your obedient servant,

J. M. JESURUN.

Here is another, nearer home:

New York, Jan. 8, 1850.

Messrs. Sands—Gentlemen.—I have great pleasure in acknowledging to you the great benefit I have received by the use of your Sarsaparilla. A subject of pulmonary disease, I made a voyage to Europe, but while there continued to be afflicted. A few weeks after my return, I was seized with a violent hemorrhage of the lungs, and from the debility and great prostration of strength that followed with the protracted difficulty of respiration, I am entirely relieved by the use of your Sarsaparilla, which I consider a most important and truly valuable discovery in the healing art. I feel that I have not for fourteen years enjoyed so good health as at present.

Very gratefully yours,

S. E. SEYMORE

Another Scientific Wonder!

Great cure for Dyspepsia! Dr. J. S. Houghton's

PEPSIN,

the true Digestive Fluid or Gastric Juice, discovered by RENNET, extracted from the fourth STOMACH of the OX, after exactly the same Baron Liebig, the celebrated Chemist, by J. S. HOUGHTON, Chemist, Philadelphia, Pa.

This is a rare wonder at remedy for INDIGESTION, DYSPEPSIA, JAUNDICE, LIVER COMPLAINT, CONSTIPATION, and DEBILITY, curing after Nature's own method, by Nature's own Agent, the Gastric Juice.

☞ Half a teaspoonful of Pepsin, taken after dinner, will digest or dissolve, Five Pounds of Beef! in about six hours out of the stomach.

PEPSIN is the chief active agent or Great Digestive Principle of the Gastric Juice—the Solvent of Food, the Purifyer, Preserving, and Stimulating Agent of the Stomach and Intestines. It is secreted from the Digestive Stomach of the ox, forming in ARTIFICIAL DIGESTIVE FLUID, precisely like the natural Gastric Juice, and combining all the properties of a CORDIAL and PERFECT DIGESTIVE ELIXIR. By one of this preparation, the pains and evils of DIGESTION and DYSPEPSIA are removed, and they would be as a feast by Stomachs. Dyspepsia or Indigestion, pains, gripes or HOLLOWNESS, HABITUAL CONSTIPATION, NERVOUSNESS, DEBILITY, MALADIES, NERVOUS BREAKDOWN and DYSPEPTIC CONSUMPTION, are on the verge of the grave. The Secret Remedy, given which it is based, is in the original CURIOUS and REMARKABLE

SCIENTIFIC EVIDENCE!

BARON LIEBIG in his celebrated work on Animal Chemistry, says: "An Artificial Digestive Fluid, analogous to the Gastric Juice, may be easily prepared from the mucous membrane of the Stomach of the Calf, a which various articles of food, as meat and eggs, will be *softened, dissolved and digested, yet in the same manner as they would be in the human stom
