PROSPECTUS
OF THE
FAYETTEVILLE JOURNAL.

The undersigned proposes to publish in the town of Fayetteville, N. C., a weekly newspaper of the first class, to be entitled THE FAYETTEVILLE JOURNAL.

Regarding the editorial office as one of surpassing responsibility, it will be the constant aim of the undersigned so to work in his high vocation as to render the Journal in all respects worthy of a favored place in the confidence and esteem of the patrons. Its columns will be devoted to all those matters and things usually found occupying the front ranks of journalism—such as Politics, Agriculture, Commerce, Manufactures, the Arts and Sciences, Literature, General Information, &c.

The undersigned is not without experience in the business to which he proposes to embark, as he has some other branches of knowledge that will contribute to the value of his labors as a journalist, and possessed of the facilities presented in Fayetteville for the making up of a varied and acceptable country paper, he flatters himself that he will be able to meet, in his editorial capacity, such requirements as a generous public may place at his hands.

A share given out, the columns of the Journal will be devoted in part only to the consideration of political matter. At some seasons this will doubtless be a main part; at others, considerable more may be expected. But, at all times, the exertions of the editor will be used in aid of those who have at heart the improvement, moral and intellectual, of the rising generation, the prosperity and advancement of the good town of Fayetteville, and the physical development of the rich and varied resources of the entire State.

To those who know the editor, an exegesis of his political views would be altogether supererogatory; to those who do not, it is but fair to say, his principles were formed in that school of which the great Ashland was recently the great head. In a word, he is a Whig of the straightest sect, adhering to the conservative doctrines of the fathers of Washington and those who stood around and supported his administration. Times much, however, it is deemed proper to say: but, aside from its politics, it is believed, the paper will contain enough to make its reading interesting to the comfort and accomplishments of all sorts, ages and sexes.

In fine, it will be the object of the editor to make the Journal one of the most racy, readable, and welcome papers of the day—in all respects worthy of the State, and of the Press of the State.

TERMS.—If a sufficient number of subscribers be obtained, the Journal will be issued in the spring of the next year, in a large and beautiful form, at the low price of Two Dollars in advance; Two Dollars and Fifty Cents if paid during the year; and Three Dollars if not paid until after the expiration of the year of subscription.

In the meantime, communications on the subject of the publication may be addressed to the subscriber at Rockingham, Richmond county, N. C.

PIANO FORTES.

BEING appointed agent of Newman, Brother & Son's Pianos, I am prepared to furnish any order that may be directed for these celebrated Rose Wood Iron Frame Pianos. Messrs. Newman have been manufacturing for a number of years for themselves, have good reputation, and I would recommend any persons desirous of obtaining a fine toned and durable instrument, to call upon me and I will explain the advantages of these instruments over others. This class of instrument does not require tuning as often as other Pianos, neither do they want to draw up after being used for 3 or 4 years. Terms moderate. Call before purchasing on the subscriber.

JAMES HARTY,
Agent for Newman Brothers, Charleston N. C.

☞ Notice.

THE Notes and Accounts due the late firm of Voss Bell & Co., have been placed in my hands for collection, and those indebted to said firm MUST not expect longer indulgence, as it CANNOT be given.

To the citizens of Mecklenburg and adjoining counties.

ALL persons having Minerals of any kind on their land, if they would take the trouble of bringing them to John E. Foreman's office in Charlotte, he would take pleasure in examining them; and if valuable, would go and examine the lands, and make a report of the same, which would be entered in a book for the benefit of Capitalists who are wanting to invest in Mining lands. It would be of vast benefit to the country at large, and prove a record or history of the Mineral Mining Interests of Western North Carolina, and after my decease the Book would be deposited with the Clerk of the County Court.
