LEAD.

The foregoing from the Richmond Whig, with the remarks of the Raleigh State Journal, we cheerfully copy, and add, that Mr. Twitty, a worthy and intelligent citizen of Rutherford county in this State, passed through this place a few days since on his way to Richmond with a fine specimen of nearly pure lead, taken from a mine in his county, where he says the quantity is inexhaustible, and the quality first rate. The hunters in the neighborhood have been in the habit, a great number of years, of supplying themselves with bullets, from this mine, which, owing to its remoteness from market, and the absence of facilities for its transportation, has never been worked as a lead mine. The war and the Rail Road to Rutherfordton will now make it valuable.

LEAD! LEAD! LEAD!—We would most earnestly call the attention of Southern people to the importance of increasing the quantity of lead. There are large quantities of this metal in various parts of Virginia and other Southern States. It is only necessary to be known that there is a demand for every pound that can be got. Individuals cannot employ their means more profitably than by working lead mines.—The sooner they do it the better for them and their country. We cannot kill all the Yankees without the help of lead.—Steel will do very well for those who will stand close quarters. But there are a great many of them who "calculate" on keeping at a respectable distance and picking us off at "long taw." We must have lead for them.

The Richmond Whig publishes the foregoing paragraph and requests all papers in the Southern States to copy it. We do so with pleasure; and, at the same time, beg leave to refer our readers to a paragraph prepared for our last issue, but deferred till to-day, where it will be seen that the Governor of this State has discovered, through Prof. Emmons, where plenty of, lead, saltpetre, &c., can be had, and is taking active steps to procure an inexhaustible supply, having already laid the matter before the authorities at Richmond.

OUTRAGEOUS MURDER IN MISSISSIPPI.—The Memphis Appeal learns the subjoined facts from a citizen of Washington County, Mississippi:

On the 13th of July, Mr. Preston Pickett, an influential planter of Egg Point, while riding along the Levee near the Point, was shot by some person concealed behind a quarter of cotton wood bushes, at a distance of not more than fifteen or twenty paces. The weapon used was a double barreled shot gun. Fifteen shot entered the clothes of Mr. Pickett, but fear taking effect in his body. The murderer, supposing Mr. Pickett killed, stepped from his ambush, but seeing him standing with pistol in hand, made his escape through acres-field. Mr. Pickett returned to the hotel, which was about three hundred yards distant, where he fainted from loss of blood consequent upon his injuries.

A physician was called in, Mr. Pickett's wounds were skillfully dressed, and he was rapidly convalescing, when, on the following Wednesday night, his assassin, fearing he was not mortally wounded, entered the room in the hotel where Mr. Pickett was lying, attended by his body servant, chased the boy out, and placing the muzzle of a double-barreled shot gun so close to Mr. Pickett as to burn the bed clothes on its discharge, fired both barrels into the body of the wounded and prostrate man, literally tearing him to pieces, and killing him instantly. The murderer escaped, and although the most strenuous efforts were being made to ferret out the cold-blooded assassin, up to the time our informant left no trace had been found of the perpetrator of this inhuman deed.

FROM PENSACOLA.—We have been favored with the following extract from a letter, dated Camp Dreux, near Warrington, Fla., July 29:

We have a Wilson Zouave, a Frenchman; he has deserted from them, musket, knapsack and all. He fired upon them as he left the island upon his little raft.—He has a brother in New Orleans, and says he would not fight his brother for all the Northern countries in the world. We have sent them two messengers; one, a dog with a tin kettle to his tail, was set upon Santa Rosa and started for Pickens with a bag of particulars of the battle of Manassas, and the other a small boat with the same news.

They have retaliated by sending us a proclamation of Col. Brown, offering a reward of $3,000 for every one of Capt. Clanton's Montgomery Mounted Rifles, dead or alive. Well, all this is splendid, and if we are ever allowed to go with Capt. Clanton's men and give battle to the Zouaves, there will not be many left to obtain the reward.

SPUNKY OLD YANKEE WOMAN.—We find the following anecdote going the rounds:

An elderly lady, who attended a meeting of the First Vermont Regiment, arose, full of enthusiasm, and said she thanked God that she was able to do something for her country. Her two sons, all she possessed in the world, were in the Regiment, and the only thing she had to regret, was that she could not have known it twenty years ago—she would have furnished more.

HESSIAN GUNS.—We saw yesterday about 1800 of the guns taken from the Hessians at Manassas, in the recent battle, which had been brought to this city to clean up and fix for use. About 10,000 more were expected to arrive. Nearly all of those we saw were loaded, not having been discharged (in the usual way) by their former owners. Some of the muskets bore evidence of the hard usage which they had received.—Richmond Dispatch.

FOR THE N. C. WHIG.

The Mecklenburg Beauregards.

Mr. Editor:—This is the name of a new and splendid company of twelve months' volunteers, about being organized in the lower part of this county, and composed of the very best citizens in the country. The company now numbers between forty and fifty, who will go into camp for two or three days, in order to practice drilling, and for effecting a more thorough organization, on Thursday morning, the 15th, at Mt. Hebron, 7 miles below Charlotte, on the Charlotte & S. C. R. R. A free invitation is extended to all persons who may be deemed worthy and well qualified to join the company, and share its honors and glories, its privations, sacrifices and labors.

Miscellaneous War Items.

The first New Hampshire regiment under command of Col. Mason C. Tappan who is about as well qualified for a colonelcy as a dog is for a preacher, passed through Baltimore on Friday last, en route for home.—The regiment numbered about 850 men. New Hampshire has furnished but two regiment for the war, and a portion of one of them is in durese at Richmond.

Colonel Mann's Pennsylvania regiment is thoroughly demoralized, according to Northern account. On Friday, 350 of the men passed through Baltimore for home, and the remainder will probably be disbanded.

It will interest the reader to learn, on unquestionable authority, that only about 8,000 troops passed through Baltimore last week for Washington and the upper Potomac, while not less than 10,000 returned home, their term of service having expired.

NORFOLK, Va., August 6.—On Sunday two or three steamers took from Newport News a large number of Yankees and went seaward. The troops could be distinctly seen to come from the woods and march on board the steamers. This is strictly correct, since my informant is in a position to know. It was reported here, on high authority, last night, that eight or nine armed steamers were off the peninsula; and about 12 o'clock drums were beating at some of the post, but we believe nothing important transpired.

The Lincolnites have resorted to a new feature of warfare to detect our movements in the way of balloons. On Saturday, the Lincoln professor attempted an aereal passage in the neighborhood of Sewell's Point.—This was done by means of a little steamer coming out in the stream, from which the balloonist was to ascend. His effort, however, was a failure, and he was compelled to relinquish the idea of peeping into our batteries, which was his full design.

INCIDENTS AFTER THE BATTLE.—The Lynchburg Republican publishes a letter dated in camp at Manassas, July 23d, from which we make some extracts:

I can't realize myself in "the pomp and circumstance of war." But, great God, what have I seen—the wounded, the dead and the dying. You can possibly imagine my first feelings, though they were Yankees, when I looked in upon them—some shot through the head, some with legs and arms broken, some through the stomach, and in fact all over; and to hear their mournings and their groanings, and I thought "is this war?"

They, (the Yankees,) almost to a man, say if they had known how things were down here with us, they never would have come. They say if they can get well, they will never come again unless to fight for us.

Among the things which we have captured are 30,000 handcuffs—think of that—to manacle us with. These have been brought into camp, together with all their arms and munitions.

The property in all taken from the enemy is estimated at one million and a half of dollars. From what I have seen, it is doubtless so.

The scoundrels got our password, our uniform, and had a Secession flag at the head of their ranks when they made their first deadly fire, that raked us the worst of all.

The mails taken from the enemy and the letters written to their friends, show that they expected no trouble in taken us. It is curious to read their letters—in fact, funny.

John Daniel, noble, gallant boy, though shot down twice, rallied and fought lake a man. He was shot the third and fourth time, but fought the battle through, and is now doing well—very well. All, all fought like men and heroes.

☞ We were pained to learn, as our paper was going to press last evening, that Lieut. W. P. Mangum, son of ex-Senator Mangum, died of the wound received at the great battle on the 21st inst. We had hoped from accounts previously, received, that the wound was not so serious.—Hillsborough Recorder.

ARE the citizens of the Southern States aware that the people of the Northern and Northwestern States are making fruit one of their leading articles of trade, and that in a climate and soil to a great extent very unpropitious for fruit culture? Then why should not the citizens of the Southern States make Fruit, dried and green, one of the leading staples. Fruits grown under our Southern sun are noted for their size, fine flavor, and beautiful color.

The above statements are fully sustained by premiums taken over Northern Fruits, and the great amount of green and dried fruit sent North and Northwest by the Southern States during the last few years. ☞ Notice

FROM and after the 1st day of January next, we will be pressed to sell our customers and customers and the rest of mankind for cash and cash only, any article in our line of business that we may have on hand. Any person sending or coming for goods after the above date without money, will please excuse us, if instead of filling their orders, we furnish them with a copy of this advertisement; as we are determined not to sell a single article on credit. And those indebted to us are requested to call and pay as we want the money.

OATES & WILLIAMS.
