NEWS.

From the Daily South Carolinian.

Extracts from Late Northern Papers.

RICHMOND, January 30.—A flag of truce brings the New York Herald, of the 28th, to the agent of the Petersburg Express.—The War Department at Washington, on the 27th January, appointed Rev. Bishop Ames and Hamilton Fish, of New York, Commissioners to visit the prisoners captured and confined in Richmond and elsewhere, under such regulations as are prescribed by the authorities having them in custody, and relieve their necessities at the expense of the United States. In pursuance of an order heretofore made, both Commissioners have accepted and will accompany another quota of rebel prisoners from Fortress Monroe under a flag of truce.

No advices have been received of movements of troops in Kentucky.

General Seigle's resignation has been accepted.

The condition of affairs in Mexico is regarded with much interest by the Federal Government. In the Senate, the Committee on Foreign Relations deferred action on the late message of the President, submitting the project of a treaty, on account of subsequent material changes in the aspect of the Mexican question.

The Committee on the District of Columbia have decided to report adversely on the matter of abolishing slavery.

A disastrous fire has occurred in Boston.

In the House, the Committee on Roads say that the railroad facilities between New York and Washington should be increased speedily. Under the present system, the army is suffering for the want of supplies. An arrangement is being made to complete a new railroad line.

The Danish bark Jurgue Lorentson, from Rio bound for Havana, with 4,800 bags of coffee, was seized on the 25th ult., by the United States ship Morning Star, and ordered to Philadelphia.

Three Confederate officers from North Carolina, captured at Hatteras, who were yesterday coming Southern to be exchanged, were detained and not allowed to come by the flag of truce, notwithstanding urgent remonstrances.

There is a great panic in Washington.

There is a report that the Federal troops have met a terrible and bloody fight at Bowling Green.

It is supposed that the Treasury note loan and bid will pass the House on the 29th, prompted by stern necessity. Opposition is expected.

The Methodist Episcopal Church South in Alexandria is occupied by the Federal forces as barracks.

PHILADELPHIA, January 27.—Breadstuffs flat, owing to the foreign news.

Not Confirmed.

RICHMOND, January 31.—Neither the Government nor news agent has received any news about the battle at Bowling Green, except the panic reports about it, founded on the Northern papers.

The Government has no news about the capture of St. Louis. The latest Northern papers do not refer to it. Nor is there any official confirmation of the battle on James Island, near Apalachicola.

The Burnside Expedition, etc.

RICHMOND, January 30.—New York papers of the 29th have been received at Norfolk.

Burnside, in his official report to the Federal Government, says that he has reached Hatteras, after a very foggy and stormy passage, and most of his smaller vessels were anchored safely in the harbor before the severest portion of the gale was experienced. The propeller City of New York, loaded with powder, rifles and bomb, was wrecked. The steamer Louisiana is ashore the gun boat Zouave, loaded with 17,000 rifles, 300 boxes powder and 30 boxes revolvers; the Grapeshot, loaded with bombs; the New Brunswick, with the Fourth Maine Regiment; the Pocahontas, with the Rhode Island Battery; the Eastern Queen and between thirty and forty other vessels are missing—probably lost. Burnside has the largest portion of his fleet inside Hatteras, awaiting reinforcements.

In New York, the Burnside expedition is the theme of conversation, and fears and speculations are expressed by the capitalists regarding the vast amount fruitlessly expended. The ship merchants are pleased at the idea of a market for their old hulks.

Col. Allen, of New Jersey, a surgeon and two others, were drowned in their efforts to relieve the steamer City of New York.

Secretary Staunton has prohibited the receiving of letters by flag of truce, except to prisoners of war.

Four Yankee Regiments encamped at the bend below Woodsonville, this side of Green River, under cover of their heavy guns on the other side, send out pickets during the day towards Horse Cave, but draw them in at night.

NASHVILLE, January 31.—A private despatch from Bowling Green says that the remains of Zollicoffer and Peyton were received by our out posts this evening, and will reach here to day under military escort.

Latest Northern and European Intelligence.

RICHMOND, February 1.—The New York Herald, of the 30th, says:

There is nothing later from the Burnside fleet. The storms had delayed its operations.

On the 29th, a skirmish occurred near Occoquan, in which nine Texans were killed and one taken prisoner.

Financial matters continue to agitate Congress and Wall street.

The steamer Philadelphia has arrived at New York with a cavalry company from Fort Pickens.

No later European news.

DO CATTLE NEED SALT.—W. Price, V. S., of Ravenna, questions the necessity of salt for stock. He writes as follows:

"I once kept a horse seven years without salt, and all this time he was perfectly healthy. He kept his muscle well without grain, endured work extremely well, drank but little water, sweat but little, and was never troubled with worms. I have also fattened cattle without salt, and found them to do as well as those that had it, and that they had harder tallow. I know of several persons who have kept work horses for years without salt, and they all agree that they stand work better, and last longer without than with it. Some of these experiments were of nearly twenty years' standing. Excesses of salt in the stomach cause an irritation that requires water to antidote; and if not given, a fixed disease results. No animal can have a natural appetite, when filled with a strong brine."—Ohio Farmer.

WHAT NEXT?—We learn that the Federal Government has notified the authorities here that they will receive no more copper coin in payment of postage. Parties, therefore, who may hereafter send letters North will have to procure silver coin to pay postage, or they will not be forwarded.—Norfolk Day Book.

EDITORIAL CONVENTION.—The 12th day of March has been fixed on as the day for the meeting of the Editorial Convention at Atlanta.

SALT.—We don't think there will be much more difficulty experienced from an inadequate supply of salt; our people are making it all along the coast, and apparently of excellent quality.

Hardly a day passes on which we do not get a fresh sample of salt from some parties just entering upon the making of it.—To-day we have specimens of coarse and fine salt, made by Capt. T. W. Gore, at Little River, S. C. It is as nice an article as any body need want.—Wilmington Journal.

A GALLANT OFFICER.—Col. George S. Patton, of the 22d Virginia regiment, is now in the city. He is a very gallant, as well as accomplished officer, and a native of Richmond. He was severely wounded at the battle of Scarey Creek, and has yet recovered fully. His regiment is from the Kanawha Valley. It is to be hoped he will soon be able to take the field, and yet lead his brave men back to the homes from which they are now driven.—Richmond Dispatch.

MORE BLOODY BATTLES EXPECTED.—The New York Herald says:

We are entering upon the most exciting period of the war. Its real work is only just commencing. The victory just obtained by our troops at Somerset has been a most sanguinary affair, and will be followed by a succession of other conflicts of a similar character. Between this and May we shall either have to subdue the rebels, to deal with them as we please, or we shall have ourselves to submit to the Southern yoke.

THE BATTLE AT SOMERSET.—The Lynchburg Virginian says that a lady who reached that city on Wednesday evening, direct from Winchester, reports that she read the Baltimore papers at that place, in which a loss of seven or eight hundred of the enemy is conceded. They are not jubilant, and admit that their loss in killed and wounded is greater than ours.

ESCAPED.—Col. Magoffin, who was recently captured by the Yankees at Sedalia, Missouri, escaped from durance vile in his St. Louis prison last week, and is again with Price. This is the second time the gallant "rebel" Colonel has outwitted the Abolition thieves.

The Yankee Congress has passed a bill creating two additional Assistant Secretaries of War.
