ELECTION NIGHT.

Watch for News From Marion County, Ind.—The Pivotal County of a Pivotal State.

Charlotte Observer.

Those who will want news showing definitely the trend of the country's vote without waiting for it through most or all of election night might keep their eyes and ears open for news from Marion county, Ind., which includes Indianapolis. This is the pivotal county of a pivotal State which for many years past has almost invariably gone with both New York and the country. Moreover, Marion county uses voting machines, which should enable the result to be known by 7:15 o'clock, Eastern time. How to interpret this result is told in an Indianapolis special to The Boston Transcript. "A Republican editor," the correspondent writes, "says that if Bryan carries Marion county, all is lost. The county is a little more Republican than the rest of the State. If it goes for Taft by 1,000 plurality it will show that Indiana is mighty close, and that the last precinct and election district may have to be waited for in order to know where the electoral vote falls. If Marion county gives Taft 2,500 plurality, it will show, according to this observer, that the State has gone Republican by 25,000. People vote with such regularity in Indiana, party lines are so firmly held, and the organization is so complete, that these figures doubtless possess excellent interpreting value."

The correspondent goes on to illustrate how, even in places not storm centres politically, voting machines, may tell a tale for the whole country. "When President Roosevelt returned to the White House four years ago, after casting his ballot at Oyster Bay," it is recalled, "he was met in the lobby by Teddy, Jr., who gave him the Buffalo returns. 'These are impossible figures,' the President answered. 'There must be some mistake. You cannot have that right.' A few minutes later the youth came to the chamber door again to say that these Buffalo figures were right; whereupon the President knew the whole thing was over. Similarly, the product of the Indianapolis voting machines, in spite of the hour's difference in time, will flash very early into the East, and these will show how real has been that Western wave of Bryanism of which much has been heard."

It would be a convenience to the whole country if New York City used voting machines. Scarcely less worthy of attention than New York City returns, however, are returns from central Indiana and voting machines make these available in complete form at an early hour. A veracious bawl through the megaphone that "Bryan carries Marion county, Indiana," would probably mean, sure enough, that all was over—all but the jubilation.

Confident of Victory.

Special to The Robesonian.

Raleigh, N. C., Oct. 26th,—The following telegram was received at Democratic headquarters here this afternoon:

A. H. Eller,
Chm. Dem. State Committee,
Raleigh, N. C.

We are confident that Bryan will win in the Electoral College. I am wiring to urge you to call upon the voters of your State to be active and to appeal to those in strong Democratic sections to bring out the full Democratic vote so that a big majority of the popular vote will be cast for Bryan and Kern. A large majority of the popular vote will be cast for Bryan and Kern. A large majority of the popular vote will help to secure the reform legislation to which our party is committed. A big majority in your State will help the Democratic party everywhere. Please leave no effort untried to get out the full Democratic vote in your State. Appeal to the Democratic papers which have done so much in this campaign to aid in this work.

Norman E. Mack.

Eugene Harris, 28 years old, was shot and seriously but not fatally wounded Sunday morning at his home in Wilmington by George Roderick, a middle-aged white man and an ex-convict. Roderick resisted arrest but was later arrested after being severely clubbed. He recently completed a year's sentence on the roads for resisting officers who went to arrest him for attempting to shoot his wife and other members of his family. The shooting Sunday was the result of the attempt of Harris to drive Roderick away from his (Harris') home.

Had a Close Call.

Mrs. Ada L. Croom, the widely known proprietor of the Croom Hotel, Vaughn, Miss., says: "For several months I suffered with a severe cough and consumption seemed to have its grip on me, when a friend recommended Dr. King's New Discovery. I began taking it, and three bottles affected a complete cure." The fame of this life saving cough and cold remedy, and lung and throat healer is world wide. Sold at all drug stores. 50c. and $1.00. Trial bottle free.

Culture, The Watchword of The Age.

For The Robesonian.

When a contest was held for the naming of the first city, on Mount Olympus, all the gods were there. Jupiter sat high above all others. Athena being the winner, the city was named in honor of her—Athens. "Here," said she, "the world will look for wisdom. My sons shall teach culture, and my posterity will be known wherever the earth be peopled." For an instance let us look at Hannibal, the great man of culture, who shook the foundation of Rome with his eloquence, the greatest city on earth at that time. Look at Cæsar, Alexander and Napoleon, who caused the nations of lesser cultured minds to bow down at their feet. If we have freedom, we must have a cultured mind. With spiritual and mental culture we are less sordid and selfish, and the more open our minds are to great and grand truths that lead us out of the mire of suffering, poverty, drudgery and disease.

It is the animal, or sensual, man who is selfish, and bound on the grinding wheel of thralldom. The god within us is the only one who can help us overcome the tiger of ignorance and drive him out and make place for cultured power and give us eternal and absolute freedom. Without a cultured mind and heart we cannot overcome our animal instincts and tendencies which are inbred. As Mr. Gladstone said, "Let us begin to work with God in man and man in God." If so, the tiger of folly dies and the Christ within us awakens and all the chains and shackles that have bound us are forever broken and shattered and we are forever freed. In a way it is a fight and struggle to reach the summit. But remember, he builds too low who builds beneath the stars. But there comes a time, however, as we work through the different degrees of evolution, when all overcome the tiger of ignornance. The plane of culture is not fully attained until a decisive victory is gained over lower conditions.

Soul culture, living in ideals, makes one magnetic, charming and attractive. To increase one's power of attraction one must cultivate high ideals. For it is the grand panorama, unrolling day by day and displaying marvelous beauty, color, shape, painted by the divine artist for the enjoyment of this human pilgrimage. For our soul sails leagues and leagues beyond, still leagues beyond these leagues there is yet sea. Life without culture is like day without sunshine, roses bereft of sweet nature perfume. Culture is guide to those who are weary of waiting and watching in darkness and gloom. Culture to the heart is like dewdrops to violets, left on the dust-ridden wayside to die. Culture leads the way to our highest endeavors, lightens and lessens the pain of each sigh. Life without culture is like spring without flowers, brook-streams that move not, or star bereft of sky. Culture creates efforts most noble, promps us to live, and resigns us to die.

W. T. Moody.

Barnesville, N. C., Oct. 18th, 08.

It will be news to many that Hannibal, the great Carthaginian general, who was sworn by his father to eternal enmity toward Rome, ever shook that city by his eloquence.—Editor.]

61 Night Riders Arrested.

Camp Nemo, Reelfoot Lake, Tenn., Dispatch, 26th.

Fourteen more prisoners were brought into camp today in connection with the recent night rider outrages in this section. This makes a total of 61 prisoners now in custody here. Three mounted scouting parties went out and two of them returned. The third will not be back before tomorrow night. The detachment away today is under command of Capt. C. B. Rogan, U. S. Army.

As an illustration of the temper of the people an accident which occurred Sunday when one of the prisoners now in camp was taken is of interest. The prisoner's wife came to the gate as the party headed by Capt. Rogan passed and said: "Thank God, the time has come when I can tell what I know. You've got a man there," she said, pointing to the wagon load of prisoners, "who is one of the ring leaders; he came to my house and held a pistol on me and I'm going to tell what I know." The woman will be summoned before the grand jury.

Judge Taft and Secretary Root, to their discredit as great and truthful men be it said, are going around the country, as are many smaller men who pattern after them, attributing the panic of 1893, which originated under the Harrison administration in 1892, to the Wilson-Gorman tariff act, which was passed by Congress August 4, 1894. The justice of the Republican argument, intended to saddle the responsibility for that panic upon the Democratic party, could not be better illustrated than by Aesop's fable.

"THE WOLF AND THE LAMB."

As a Wolf was drinking at the head of a running brook, he spied a stray Lamb paddling at some distance down the stream. Having made up his mind to seize her, he thought to himself how he might show cause for doing it "Villain!" said he running up to her, "how dare you dirty the water that I am drinking!" "Indeed," said the Lamb humbly, "I do not see how I can disturb the water, since it runs from you to me, not from me to you." Be that as it may," replied the Wolf, "it is but a year ago that you called me many ill names." "Oh, Sir!" said the Lamb trembling, "a year ago I was not born." "Well," replied the Wolf, "if it was not you, it was your father, and that is all the same; but it is no use trying to talk me out of my supper;"—and without another word he fell upon the poor helpless Lamb and tore her to pieces.

Solictor Sinclair Makes a Fine Speech to the Democrats at Orrum.

To the Editor of The Robesonian

On Saturday, October 24th, the citizens of our little town had the pleasure of listening to one of the best campaign speeches of the season when Hon. Neill A. Sinclair, of Fayetteville, addressed them on the issues of this campaign. The address took place in the spacious auditorium of Stinceon Institute and a goodly number of both ladies and gentlemen was present. The speaker was introduced by Prof. M. Shepherd, our next Representative.

In the beginning Mr. Sinclair gave the origin of both the Democratic and Republican parties, then a history of their past records and what they stand for today. His discussion all the way through showed us clearly the Democratic party is the only party in the South in existence today with a record of which it should be justly proud, and that, unlike the Republican party, it still maintains the Jeffersonian standard of equal rights to all men and special privileges to none. In his closing remarks he urged the fathers to educate their boys, teaching them the history of their State and the parties, for in the future when they shall become the standard bearers of our government, having a thorough knowledge of the records of both parties they will not do other than vote the Democracic ticket, the ticket of the intelligent white man of the South.

Mr. Sinclair made a fine impression and we will be glad to have him again.

Two Women Kiss Mr. Bryan.

New York Dispatch, 26th.

When William J. Bryan entered the Astor gallery at a reception of the Woman's Democratic Club at the Waldorf-Astoria today he was kissed by two women, in the presence of nearly 700 others and narrowly escaped the embraces of a third. Mrs. Bryan was present. Mr. Bryan displayed some embarrassment.

Have Never Seen a Colored Person.

Monroe Enquirer.

Mr. Ellis B. Purser, who lives in New Salem Township, says that in his neighborhood there are no colored people; that there is not a colored person living within seven miles of his home and that he has children going to school who have never seen a colored person.

Levi Wharton, formerly postmaster at Ashwood, Pamlico county, has been arrested by Postoffice Inspector Buck and bound over to Federal Court on the charge of stealing a valuable letter from the mail. The letter was said to contain a check for $40 which Wharton endorsed and collected. He was removed from office some time ago for irregularities, and was held by Commissioner C. B. Hill under a $200 bond.

Where Bullets Flew.

David Parker, of Fayette, N. Y., a veteran of the civil war, who lost a foot at Gettysburg, says: "The good Electric Bitters have done is worth more than five hundred dollars to me. I spent much money doctoring for a bad case of stomach trouble, to little purpose. I then tried Electric Bitters, and they cured me. I now take them as a tonic, and they keep me strong and well." 50c. at all drug stores.

HUSBAND DEAD, WOMAN SANG.

Thousand Listened Carelessly to Songs Which Came from a Broken Heart.

Those who attended the concert given in Lumberton recently by Victor's Royal Venetian Band were charmed with the exquisite singing of Madame Grace Keys-Miller. Her singing was not the least enjoyable feature of that altogether enjoyable concert and the following, taken from a recent issue of The Charlotte Observer, in addition to its interest as a story of wonderful self-control and courage will be of especial interest to all who heard her:

"If you were to receive a telegram that your husband, or your wife had died with entire suddenness in a distant city, hundreds of miles away, could you face an audience of 3,000 people three hours later and sing, without wavering, song after song before a crowd that applauded, ignorant of the tragedy behind the songs?

"That is what Madame Grace Keys-Miller, soprano, did at the Auditorium Tuesday night, and so successful was she that not until yesterday did the story leak out. It is a tale of courage, of determination to do what she was expected to do.

"It was about 5:30 o'clock in the afternoon when the lady received a message notifying her of the death of her husband, Mr. Miller, who was then in Ithaca, N. Y. They live in Washington. She was on the programme with the Victor band for a number of solos. As soon as she recovered from the first shock, knowing the large number of people which would be present, expecting to hear her, she determined, without any solicitation on the part of the management, to take her place as usual. And she did. The unknowing audience encored her frequently, listening with carefree spirits. If her heart was not in it, her hearers did not suspect it. But now that the truth is known, one can remember things—a lack of the power in the voice that might have been there, a seeming indifference as to whether she was encored or not, a failure to respond sometimes when the applause would have been deemed sufficient excuse for response by one more anxious. But there was no breaking down."

News Notes from Bee Gee.

Correspondence of The Robesonian.

Well, as I have never seen any news from Bee Gee I decided to let you hear from us. I don't suppose every reader of The Robesonian knows where Bee Gee is, so I will tell you that it is situated on the Virginia & Carolina Southern railroad, 4 miles from Lumberton and is a prosperous little place. The Bee Gee Mfg. Co. has in operation a brick mill, shingle mill and cotton gin and is doing some nice work.

We had a runaway last Saturday night and they say if they had not run away they would not have gotten away at all; and I guess they were right.

Some awful tales have been told that were certainly not true about some things that were done Sunday. It's all false.

We had an unwelcome visitor in our community Saturday night.

Sorry to report the sickness of Mrs. A. M. Stephens and Mrs. J. L. Willoughby.

Mr. B. A. Ivey passed through our community Monday en route to Mr. A. H. Prevatt's.

A Dog Finds His Way Back Home, 300 Miles.

Would you think that the homing instinct of a dog would lead him safely back home a distance of 300 miles when he had been brought away from that home in an express car? That's what a dog did the other day—or rather, the performance of the feat took several days and it started from here. Mr. J. T. Burruss, vice president of the Akers Lumber Co., of Lynchburg, Va., spends a good deal of time in Lumberton looking after the plant of his company about seven miles out from here, near Raynham. He went back to his home in Lynchburg recently and came back one Friday, bringing his dog with him. That night the dog disappeared and Mr. Burruss knew nothing of his whereabouts until he was advised that the dog reached home on the following Wednesday. It is some 300 miles from here to Lynchburg, and since the dog left Friday night and reached home the following Wednesday morning he evidently did not lose much time on the road enquiring the way.
