WITHOUT THE EXPENSE OF AN EUROPEAN JOURNEY!

The crystallized salts, as obtained in a pure state from grapes and choice fruit, in a portable, palatable, simple form, are now presented to the public of a America as the grandest resolvent of impure blood, corrector of the liver and regulator of the bowels—the natural promoter of

HEALTH AND LONGEVITY.

Eminent physicians claim this achievement a new era in the allied science of medicine, as it furnishes the blood with its natural salines that are lost or eliminated every day.

SAL-MUSCATELLE

A POSITIVE, NATURAL

Sick Headache and Dyspepsia Cure.

Sal-Muscatelle is nature's own product. It supplies to the system the want of sound, ripe grapes and fruit; it is the simplest and best preventive and cure for all functional derangements of the liver and its kindred ailments; prevents the absorption of malarial diseases—fevers of all kinds; counteracts the effects of bad air, poor drainage and impure water; a powerful oxydizer of the blood; a natural specific for all skin eruptions, sick headache, biliousness, nervousness, mental depression, and will remove the effects of accidental indigestion from excessive eating and drinking. Have it in your homes and on your travels. It is a specific for the fagged weary or worn-out.

"We All Like Sheep."

The verses that follow are passing current, and are amusing enough to reproduce:

"We all like sheep," the tenors shrill
Begin, and then the church is still,
While back and forth across the aisle
Is seen to pass the "catching" smile.

"We all like sheep," the altos moan
In low and rich and mellow tone,
While broader grows the merry grin,
And nose gets further off from chin.

"We all like sheep," the sopranos sing
Till all the echoes wake and ring;
The young folks titter, and the rest
Suppress the laugh in bursting chest.

"We all like sheep," the bassos growl,
The titter grows into a howl,
And e'en the deacon's face is graced
With wonder at the singers' taste

"We all like sheep," runs the refrain,
And then, to make the meaning plain,
The singers all together say:
"We all, like sheep, have gone astray.

Protecting their Rights.

Probably no concern in the country has adhered more strictly to the determination to achieve success by the liberal use of printer's ink than has the Brown Chemical Company of Baltimore, Md. Starting business about five years ago, they have expended over $1,500,000 in the preparation and circulation of printed matter, more than half of which has been paid for newspaper advertising. All this has been done to make known the virtues of their celebrated Brown's Iron Bitters.

As might be expected, very large sales have resulted from this enormous outlay. In fact, Brown's Iron Bitters is about as staple in many drug stores as is flour at the corner grocery. Like all good things, Brown's Iron Bitters has been largely imitated. There are unscrupulous manufacturers who cater to just this sort of trade, and some dealers are so lacking in principle, that because a greater profit can be made on fraudulent than on genuine medicines, they are willing to delude the public by pushing off Iron Tonic Bitters and other Tonic Medicines in place of the genuine Brown's Iron Bitters, which is undoubtedly one of the purest and best medicines known. These frauds have been practiced so extensively, that the Company, finding all other means inadequate, have at last determined to try a little cold law to put a stop to them. Suits for heavy damages have therefore been commenced against Frederick Stearns & Co., Detroit, Mich., who are known as the Non-Secret Medicine Manufacturers, for selling Iron Tonic Bitters; against Meyer Bros. & Co., of St. Louis, Wholesale Druggists for selling Brown's Iron Tonic, prepared by C. J. Lincoln, Little Rock, Ark., and against Jas. A Dickinson, a druggist in Baltimore, for selling Iron Tonic Bitters with his name upon the label, which medicine was made by Koshland, Hollander & Co., of that city, and claimed as an imitations. We wish the Brown Chemical Company every success in these suits, as it is high time those who have pluck enough to carry large enterprises such as theirs to success, should be protected from those who live not by their own genius and effort, but by copying and counterfeiting things that have been made standard any valuable by others.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

[From our Regular Correspondent.]

WASHINGTON, April 5, 1886.

The House of Representatives has been giving itself to strikes for the past few days, while the Senate has been taking a rest voted by the majority, so that the Republican Senators could fight in caucus over the Edmunds' resolutions. When they passsed these resolutions last week, they supposed they had gotten through with a discussion which had been neither as interesting nor as profitable as had been anticipated.

Some of the Republican Senators did not consider it binding upon them to follow the line of party action indicated in the resolutions, and held that they were free to vote upon the President's nominations according to the merits of each case. But Mr. Edmunds angrily demanded what was the use of passing his resolutions if they were to get no good out of them.

Caucus after caucus was held, but no agreement was reached, and it is asserted that the debate was sometimes more acrimonious than the Senators care to acknowledge. Hoar, Logan, and Morrill are among the refractory Senators, and oddly enough, the latter, who is Mr. Edmunds' most stubborn combatant, represents the same State as he. Mr. Morrill contended that an attempt to reject the democratic nominees would do the Republicans no good. It would be regarded by the people as partisan obstruction, and would be resented as such. Mr Edmunds and his adherents tried to secure the adoption of a dozen differently worded propositions, each practically committing the caucus to carrying out the letter of the Edmunds resolutions, but each was beaten as soon as it was offered.

The result will be that the Edmunds resolutions will be virtually repudiated. There is, and has been, no cohesion among the Republican Senators. There is no sincerity in any course they agree upon. One half of them are jealous of the other half, and policies are voted for which no one intends shall be carried ont. There are too many Presidential aspirants among them for any harmony of purpose. They have neither helped the party nor individual members so far.

The continued illness of Secretary Manning and the recent illness of other Members of teh Cabinet and of Col. Lamont, the President's efficient private secretary, have greatly increased the labor of Mr. Cleveland, during the past week. Sickness in the Cabinet has called attention to the very arduous nature of the duties which Cabinet officers are called upon to perform. And it would be difficult to find conditions that offer more liberal inducements to illness than may be found in the present Cabinet. The labor exacted of its members is unrelenting, constant, and severe.

There are few persons who know how very much Secretary Manning was overworked. He found it impossible to conduct the affairs of the treasury Department by giving the business only a general supervision. Immense labor was required of the Secretary personally.

The continous strain of weighty responsibilities, addded to the everlasting worry of petty detail, makes a havoc with the nerve forces that only regular seasons of repose can repair. And recuperation is not to be thought of in Washington official life. Society makes larger demands upon public men every year. To entertain and to be entertained is to perform the duties attached to the position. To close the doors of a house that custom has rented to society for the season, as it were, is to be inhospitable and eccentric. It is true Mr. Manning went very little into society, and left social duties usually to his wife, but for all that he had no rest.

It is to be hoped that the Senate's vote to employ half a million dollars in the erection of another monument here to Lincoln will receive an emphatic protest in the Lower House. There is not even the poor argument for the Senate bill that Lincoln has no memorial, as is the case for instance with Lafayette. There is a statue of him in front of the City Hall reared by the colored race, another called Emancipation group, besides several busts and oil paintings in the Capitol.

It might be urged that these memorials are inartistic, but the Senate's proposed work might be more so. The construction of immense piles of stone as memorials of the dead is an antiquated custom, more fitting the era of mound builders than one of enlightenment. It is true Washington has such a one here, but that was begun years ago. The modern idea of a worthy memorial, and one commended by every feeling of humanity, is an asylum, a hospital, an art gallery, or other institution that will benefit the living as well as honor the dead.

Neatness in Women.

A woman may be handsome or remarkably attractive in various ways, but if she is not personally neat she cannot hope to win admiration. Fine clothes will not conceal the slattern. A young woman with her hair always in disorder and her clothes hanging about her as if suspended from a prop, is always repulsive. Slattern is written on her person from the crown of her head to the soles of her feet, and if she wins a husband he will turn out, in all probability, either an idle fool or a drunken ruffian. The bringing up of daughters to be able to work, talk and act like honest, sensible young women, is the special task of all mothers, and in the industrial ranks there is imposed also the prime obligation of learning to respect household work for its own sake and for the comfort and happiness it will bring in the future. Housework is a drudgery, but it must be done by somebody, and had better be well done than ill done.

Paris has been authorized by the Chamber of Deputies to build public works in order to employ her idle population.

Senor Muruago, the New Spanish Minister to the United States, is to arrive in Washington this week. He is instructed to make every effort to secure a treaty of commerce.

A Sickening tale from the West:

A Western writer comes to the front with a story ghastly and horribly tragic: Half of a mining camp among the mountains were so grievously afflicted with scurvy that as the only hope of saving their lives, the well buried the sick up to their necks in the earth—which mode of treatment is said to be a specific for the ailment. One of their number was detailed to guard the sufferers during the night and the man, overcome by fatigue, fell asleep, when hungry wolves came and ate off all the heads of the poor wretches close to the ground! Rendered speechless by the disease, they could make no outcry, and met their awful fate in silent, shuddering horror!—Observer and Gazette.

Horse Sense.

Old Solomon says: "Some of dese white men dink dey is getting it down mighty fine on the rabbit foot racket; but dey don't know it all yit. Rabbit foot aint gwine to do them no good onless they git horse sense wid it. Any no 'count nigger can git a rabbit foot and keep de witches and harnts from pesterin' him, but he can't find no money wid it when its hid, onless he's got de horse sense to 'long wid it. And de onliest way he can git horse sense is to go some dark night in de woods until he comes to an old dead horse's skull shinin' white on de ground, and when he find it, pick it up in his teeth and carry it as fur as he can, and when he's 'blighed ter drap it keep right on and never look back till he's out of de woods. If dat don't give him horse-sense, and de most owdacious luck for evermore I ain't a talking.—Wil. Star.

The State of Texas is so cosmopolitan that the governor's message is printed in four languages. English Germans and Bohemians make up the population. State laws are printed in four languages, in about this ratio: 30,000 copies in English, 16,000 copies in German, 5,000 each in Spanish and Bohemian. Hence four tongues are legally recognized.

It dosen't follow that you must do a mean thing to a man who has done a mean thing to you. The old proverb runs: "Because the cur has bitten me shall I bite the cur?"

A lady of charitable disposition asked a tramp if she could assist him by mending his clothes? "Yes madam," he said, "I have a button, and if you will sew a shirt on it I will be greatly obliged."
