Who's your choice for Aldermen?

By all means let us have the cigarette factory.

Next Sunday will be the fifth Sunday in Lent.

Twenty eight years ago today the battle of Averasboro was fought

Large crowds flock to Charlotte daily to hear Moody and Sanky.

Now that the Noggeration is over we will probably get some news.

High water and cold weather have reduced the catch of shad in the Cape Fear.

Yesterday one hundred and twelve years ago the battle of Guilford Court House was fought.

Our Congressman, the Hon. F. A. Woodard, is at home for a few days to escape the press of office seekers.

Our merchants will stand in their own light if they don't do all they can for the establishment of a cigarette factory here.

With a little effort we think a stock company could be formed for the establishment of a canning factory in Wilson. Start the ball.

Farmers, read the article under the head "Tobacco Leaf," Capt. Pace gives some good ideas about the preparation of plant beds.

The establishment of a cigarette factory here means a big pay roll for its operatives. This means a big trade for our merchants.

The fishing season is now on us. We learn that a party of seven gentlemen went to Contentnea one day this week and returned with one little "red hoss."

This morning the sun rose at eleven minutes past six o'clock; will set eight minutes past six—making the day's length eleven hours and fifty one minutes.

The Tyson boys can look at a man and size him up in a few minutes. If you want to be sized, call, at Oettingers, where the Tysons will be glad to show their skill at sizing.

We are all good democrats—one as good as another. It is evident that but one can be appointed to the postmastership, it is to be hoped that the one, whoever he may be will give the office his entire attention.

The old and reliable, tried and true, furniture dealers—Wooten & Stevens, talk to you in our advertising columns this week. They are too well known for us to say a word in their praise. Their goods, like their words, can be relied on.

Boys, we love to see you enjoy yourselves. Confine yourselves to flying kites during the day. It is very dangerous to fly lantern kites at night. We know of one instance where considerable property was destroyed by fire by this practice.

Dont fail to attend the supper given by the Ladies Aid Society, tonight, in the store next to the post office. The ladies are engaged in a praiseworthy work and should have your hearty cooperation. Everything you may desire will be served at very moderate prices.

Candidates in the different wards for aldermanic honors are getting to be numerous. Allow us to say right here that the present incumbents, in our opinion, are the best Wilson has ever had. We hope they may be induced to allow their names to be at the head of our government for another twelve months.

From every quarter of our State comes the cry of "mad dog." THE ADVANCE had no malice toward the last legislature—though we are not pleased with some of its work—or we would have wished that all these "mad dogs" had been taken to Raleigh and shut up in the Capitol with the legislature. If this had been done we think a dog law would have been the result.

Willie Stallings is on a visit to his parents and his "best girl."

Mr. Sam Vick a former resident of Wilson, was in town this week.

Dr. R. W Joyner is in Washington City on business—not political.

Miss Hattie Bynum, of Greene county, is visiting Mrs. Arthur Copeland.

Mr. B. H. Tyson was with us again this week. We understand Mr. Tyson is doing a thriving business in lightning rods at Rocky Mount.

The Equitable Assurance Society.

We invite the attention of our readers to the thirty-third annual statement of the Equitable Life Assurance Society, which appears elsewhere in this paper. To our mind, it discloses a remarkable financial achievement. It also strikingly illustrates the grand capability of American enterprise, energy, sagacity, and pluck. Thirty-three years ago, this society was organized in the city of New York, with a capital stock limited to $100,000; it's 153,000,000 of assets today tells the tale of its stupendous success: in the commencement of its career, it provoked, by it's bold aggressive policy, the fiercest antagonism of its older rivals, their opposition, however only served to stimulate it's energy, and to speed it forward upon every line of advance with ever increasing momentum, until at this time it stands among the great insurance institutions of the world, like Mt. Blanc amid The Appenines. This society always emphasizes the absolute security, which its massive financial strength and conservative management guarantees to it's policy holders; it points also with pride to the invariable promptness with which it meets every just demand. Nearly $11,000,000, paid on death claims and matured endowments during the past twelve months, without delay in any case, is it's sufficient pledge for the future upon this point. It has been the pioneer in almost every important reform, in life assurance, since it's organization—its free tontine policy is a marvel of symplicity: entirely devoid of all techicality and all that ugly mass of conditions, which in too many places, furnish convenient concealment, for a loop-hole of escape, or a hook upon which to hang a contest. This waives all restriction as to residence, travel, or occupation after one year, and non-forfeitable after three. Every policy issued upon this plan, in 1862, and maturing this year, shows a cash return of more than the whole amount of premiums paid—in addition to the protection for the entire amount of policy for 20 years. If space allowed, we might show that this system of Tontine insurance is the only one, which equitably distributes the benefits of life insurance, giving to the faithful and persistent policy-holder, his just share of all its profits; we might, we think, also demonstrate, to that class of investors, who seem to harbor the delusion, that they are to live forever, for the express purpose of managing their income, that the sequel might bring no discredit to their reputation as financiers if they should secure a 15 or 20 year endowment in the Equitable. Surplus, after all, is the final test of strength; $31,000,000, which is the largest amount of surplus held by any insurance company in the world; while 40,000,000 of income received and 200,000,000 new insurance written, during the past year, attest the enterprise, and irresistible energy, with which it is pushing it's conquest, and planting it's outposts, in every direction to the very verge of civilization. It is truly a wonderful organization, but a greater wonder still is the fact, that any one who has it in his power to do so should fail to secure for those who are committed to their guardianship, the protection, which it proffers for them, in what may be their greatest hour of need. Messrs. J. W. Davis and Son., represent The Equitable at this place.

SARATOGA SAYINGS.

Latest bruising exercise. Roller skates at the Alliance Hall.

Mr. John R. Dildy was in Farmville Sunday, visiting his "best girl."

Mr. Ben F. Moore of Kittrell, was in town last week visiting friends and relatives.

That clever gentleman, Mr. L. N. Shelton, of Farmville, was in town last week.

Mr. Henry Davis, of Eureka, was in town last week visiting his sister, Mrs. Dr. Peacock.

Mr. John Ellis, of near Old Sparta, has accepted a position with the Singer Sewing Machine Co., as canvassing agent, and moved his family here.

There is a decided change in the weather since Mr. Cleveland took his seat, now that everything is calm and serene, corn planting will soon be in order.

Misses Alice Owens, Birdie Speight, and Lula Speight, left Saturday to visit friends and relatives near Fieldsboro. They returned Sunday, and speak delightfully of the jolly times at "Grandpap's."

Mr. W. H. Davis, of Wilson, agent for the Equitable Life Assurance Co., was in town a few days ago. Mr. Davis is a hustler, and posesses many qualities superior to his brother agents in the undertaking before him.

Married—Mr. Joseph Moore, and Miss Elizabeth Williams, at the home of the bride's father, Mr. Henry Williams in Greene county, Wednesday, March 1st. Rev. J. T. Moore officiating. The happy couple passed through town. Making their way homeward. Late in the afternoon of March 1st.

While sleeping alone by a dim camp light,
Visions home seemed darker than night,
Though every thing robed in purple green,
There was never a sight like ours seen.

A perfect likeness of our present sweetheart reduced to an infant babe rocked to sleep in her mothers arms.

That was a happy couple that passed through town last Friday evening, and we must say from actual experience, sister, don't put too much confidence in a lovers vows and sighs. Let him tell you that you have lips like strawberries and cream, and cheeks like a carnation, and eyes like an asterisk, but such things oftener come from a tender head than a tender heart.

B.

Leaf Tobacco.

By ED. M. PACE.

Ed. Rawlings is putting up a new walling.

In pitching a tobacco crop let "quality," not "quantity" be your guide, and the reward for your labor will be big prices.

W. M. Carter, Esq., has adjusted his losses with the insurance men and will in a short time commence the erection of a brick factory. You can't down a working man of the Carter stamp.

M. W. Reed, Esq., of Durham, who has a resident buyer on this market in the person of Mr. C. H. Williams, was in the city Monday evening. He left on vestibule train at midnight for home.

We were glad to see in our city on last Monday, Mr. J. O. W. Gravely, of Rocky Mount. He was negotiating for the purchase of our old street lamps. They will make a good light for a village, and cheap too, Jake.

One of the boys familiar in the tobacco trade was giving a few lessons in a walking match the other night with his vest pulled up instead of down, imitating little George treading the wine press. Some say it was in honor of the safe return of the Elm City tramps.

Last Thursday evening one of our prominent "pinhookers" bantered the boss auctioneer upon a wager that he would not walk him to Elm City, which was readily accepted. The money was put up, and at 2.10 P. M. they left Wilson Tobacco Warehouse with a sufficiency of the needful in case of a snake bite, for Elm City, taking the railroad track. At 5.30 P. M. they wired the stakeholder that they reach their destination at 4.10—making the trip without meeting with any obstruction in two hours. They were fortunate in striking a delayed freight train and reached home by supper time. Both displayed pluck enough, but very poor judgment, in our opinion. Honors were easy.

This is the second time of late that we have had occasion to speak of the dirt roads leading into town, notably the Stantonsburg road from Nash street to the colored graded school. It is almost impassable and a disgrace to a civilized community, with stagnant water standing in the half filled ditches. The whole line could be easily drained. That road is thickly settled by colored people who work as cooks, nurses, teamsters and laborers in town, and it becomes the town authorities to give this place some attention. If it is not attended to you may expect cholera or any other contagious disease to be spread by those people throughout the town during the approaching warm weather. A warning in time, &c.

Farmers as a general rule are poor hands to take advice. The indications point to an alarming fact that the reports from the Atlantic cotton states of the already large increase in the sales of commercial fertilizers being one-third more than last year, means one thing if no more, that the farmers are preparing for a larger cotton crop, which means that that staple will be down to 6 and 7 cents. Texas, through her Commission of Agriculture, has called a convention which met at Austin last week for a movement for the reduction of cotton acreage. The Fort Worth Gazette gives it as its opinion, if the movement fails you may look for five cent cotton and hard times. Make your own supplies—that's the first move to success. But so long as you are compelled to feed your stock on Northern hay and buy bulk meat your failure is only a matter of time.

It is not too late to sow plant land. Below we give you what the Southern Planter says on the subject: "Tobacco plant beds should be gotten ready and sown this month. The best plant bed is one made on newly cleared land, in a sheltered situation, with a Southern aspect. The ground should be well drained, yet moist, and no way of preparing it for the seed seems to beat the old-fashioned one of burning it. This gets rid of all weed seeds and insects. Having cleared the ground of all underwood, lay poles across it every two or three feet, and on these pile brush wood sufficient to make a fierce and lasting fire. Let this burn down and then rake the ashes over the bed and allow them to remain, thus destroying all seeds of weeds within two or three inches of the surface. After the ashes have cooled, then chop them into the soil to a depth of two or three inches, not more, and rake as fine as possible. Upon this fine surface sow the seed, which should be mixed with fine dry ashes, or sand, to insure equal distribution, and tread or roll in. If the soil be not rich, a dressing of rich ammoniated fertilizer should be worked into the bed with the ashes. A quick growth of the plants is to be aimed at, so that they may attain sufficient size by planting time. It is a wise and safe precaution to cover the bed with tobacco netting, as it both hastens the germination of the seed and keeps out the fly, which is frequently most destructive just as the seeds begin to germinate. This netting should be raised six or eight inches above the surface of the bed, and be so supported as not easily to crush down by wet or snow. A tablespoonful of tobacco seed will sow a bed of ten square yards.

ROCKY MOUNT ROCKETS.

We understand that some addition are to be made to our Society, you cant keep us down, our boys will go off and gobble up the best looking girls in the state and bring them to this beautiful City. If we keep on we will have as many pretty women on our streets of an evening as one sees in Wilson.

John Lewis is going to wake up and prophesy someting great for the "Queen City" next summer you just wait and see, we can't say for certain what he will predict but whatever it is you can bet that it will come true. John never fails to claim that, "I told you so," no matter which way the cat jumps.

The shops at this point are moving steadily forward and will shortly be ready for work. A number of valuable peices of machinery have been placed in position. The Railroad Company are using none but latest improved machines and continuing on this line. One room alone containes machinery valued at $20,000 thus far about $100,000 has been expended in improving their plant.

The West end Land and Improvement Company has sold out to a syndicate of ten, their holdings in Rocky Mount property at $27,000. Among those prominent in the new syndicate we note, Col. John F. Divine, Genl. Supt. of the W. & W. R. R. Capt. Gardner, chief engineer on same road, and Mr. Higgins Supt. of transportation at South Rocky Mount. Two influencial members of the Southern Express Company are also holders of stock. The Hon. F. M. Simmons has cast in his lot with the new Company and altogether it looks just now as though the scheme would be a grand success.
