Twenty-five Dollars Reward.

RANAWAY from the subscriber, his negro boy MOSES. He is 21 years of age, about 5 feet 10 inches high, robust, long feet and very much turned out at the ankles, and looks down when spoken to. He was seen at McDaniel's Mills in Robeson county on the 21st ult., and was in Fayetteville about three weeks ago. The above reward will be paid for his delivery to me or for his confinement in any jail so that I get him.
W. D. JOHNSON.
Bennettsville, S. C., Aug. 14, 1862. 52tf

$100 REWARD.

STOLEN from my stable, near Lewisville, Forsyth county, N. C., on the night of the 11th inst., a small bay HORSE, heavy built, black legs, mane and tail, no visible marks. No other marks recollected. Gait, fine pacer, short trot and pace; age about 11 or 12 years. A person was seen lurking in the neighborhood, supposed to be the thief, who answers to the following description: 21 or 22 years old, fair complexion, blue eyes, light countenance, light brown hair, well-built frame, about 5 feet 8 inches high; wore a brown frock coat, black cassimere pants, (quite new,) new boots, black or blue gray flannel shirt, and gray hat; carried a red striped black made of hearth rug with the fringe on.
A reward of $75 will be given for the arrest, confinement and conviction of the thief, and $25 for the safe delivery of the horse.
He is supposed to be the same Horse thief that was arrested in Fayetteville a year or two ago, by the name of Fry, a very unknown thief.

Runaway,

MULATTO WOMAN by the name of LUCY; about [illegible] years old, of medium size, but now quite corpulent.

The woman is probably in or near Town, but may have been led off in the direction of Newbern by Bill Cox, a free mulatto man who has been at work at Newbern, probably on the Wilmington & Weldon Road at a Depot North of Warsaw. I will pay $25 for the delivery of said girl to me or lodged in Jail in this County, or $50 if said girl is found in any other County and confined in the Jail of some one county, the party arresting giving me early information of the same.
JNO. D. WILLIAMS.

North Carolina Readers.

SCHOOL BOOKS are becoming very scarce, but we have on hand a good supply of the NORTH CAROLINA READERS, Nos. 1 and 2 by Rev. Professor Hubbard of the University of North Carolina, and No. 3 by Rev. C. H. Wiley, Superintendent of Common Schools of North Carolina.

Our customers having well nigh exhausted our stock of Northern Readers on hand when the war commenced, we hope will now turn their attention to these books by home authors, rather than allow their children to do without reading books.

For sale only at the old retail prices of 25 cents, 38 cents, and 75 cents.

Yankee Rascality.—Counterfeiting and forgery rank among the basest of crimes. Those who practice them seek some dark spot for the execution of their villainy, and use the utmost caution to avoid detection and identification. Not so in Yankee land. We have heretofore copied advertisements showing that our pursuing "brethren" do not hide their light under a bushel. The following we find in a late copy of the Philadelphia "Inquirer:"

"Rebel Notes and Postage Stamps.—Thirty-five different Rebel Notes, Shinplasters and Postage Stamps, sent post paid, on receipt of fifty cents. Trade supplied at fifty cents per 100 or $1 per 1,000. Address S. C. UPHAM.
403 Chesnut Street."

S. C. Upham thus advertises himself a knave, and is probably proud to be one. So far as he succeeds, he is as much a thief as if he were to steal the silver or rob the hen-roost of some housekeeper in the Confederate States, on the plea of injuring the enemy.

It is not the Confederate securities alone that Upham honors with his attentions. He seems to be a very enterprising gentleman. His thieveries are on an extensive scale. No less than thirty-five different notes, which appear in the currency of this republic, are forged and counterfeited by this man. It must be a most noble government which stimulates such virtuous enterprise on the part of its citizens! It must surely be "the best government in the world!" In the blaze of day, and in the public newspapers, S. C. Upham, 403 Chesnut street, announces that he has made large arrangements, with liberal terms to agents, to obtain by deceit and lies the means and goods of the people of the South. The government, at least, looks on quiescent, while he makes "an honest living!"

Does any one know a citizen of the Confederate States, outside of the list of convicts and professional criminals, who would entertain for a moment the idea of counterfeiting the notes of the North? Does any one know a Confederate citizen, not willing to be considered disgraced, who would be concerned in any way, with their distribution? Does any one know a Confederate newspaper which would not reject such an advertisement as that of S. C. Upham with disgust and contempt? Does any one know a Confederate who, if he could be guilty of Upham's crime, would not shrink from Upham's publication of it, as a sheep-stealer shrinks from the proclamation of his guilt? Does any one believe that, if such a man, so acting, could be found, public opinion here would not scourge him for his crime?

Junius says that a people may sometimes be wrong in their opinions, but they will always be right in their sentiments. We are sure that the unanimous sentiment of our people exclaims against such an act as Upham is proud of, and considered it as not included in honorable warfare. And they hold it as not only a crime, but one of the meanest and most sneaking sort. It is related to ordinary robbery and stealing, as poisoning is related to murder by open assault. The people, among whom such a vice can be practised, are not a people with whom we could tolerate association. Such conduct but deepens the ditch which separates and increases the disgust which repels us.—Richmond Enquirer.

An Honest Man.—The Bank of England Directors had a terrible fright two or three weeks ago—not on account of the loss of their water-marked paper, but from the summary invasion of the bullion of the Bank. A correspondent of the Birmingham Post tells the story thus:

The directors received an anonymous letter, stating that the writer had the means of access to their bullion room. They treated the matter as a hoax, and took no notice of the letter. Another more urgent and specific letter failed to rouse them. At length the writer offered to meet them in the bullion room at any hour they pleased to name. They then communicated with their correspondent through the channel he had indicated, appointing "some dark and midnight hour" for the rendezvous.

A deputation from the Board, lantern in hand, repaired to the bullion room, locked themselves in, and awaited the arrival of the mysterious correspondent. Punctual to the hour a noise was heard below. Some boards in the floor were without much trouble displaced, and in a few minutes the Guy Fawkes of the bank stood in the midst of the astonished directors. His story was very simple and straightforward. An old drain runs under the bullion room, the existence of which had become known to him, and by means of which he might have carried away enormous sums. Inquiry was made. Nothing had been abstracted, and the directors rewarded the honesty and ingenuity of their anonymous correspondent—a working man, who had been employed in repairing the sewers, by a present of £800.

The Empress Eugenie's Boudoir.—Luxurious and yet elegant splendor, most refined judgment, and a poetic temperament, are revealed in the arrangements of the boudoir of the Empress Eugenie. The doors are made of ivory, inlaid with gold, the furniture of rosewood, of graceful shape, and inlaid with gold, mirrors of ivory; the sofas and chairs are covered with pale red silk; the walls hung with dark paper, and the ceiling is an exquisite fresco.

A magnificent Syrian carpet voluptuously deadens the sound of footsteps. Around hang the most valuable paintings of the old masters, borrowed from the Louvre Gallery and Versailles, as well as two family portraits in oil, overshadowed by palms, ododendra, and camelias. The window-ledges are constantly adorned with fresh flowers, and on the writing-desk lie splendid portfolios, and books bound in tortoise shell inlaid with gold. Nothing is wanting which a sense of complete luxury can devise; not even the toning of the light. The red silk curtains, heavily edged with black velvet, throw a subdued hue over every object, and any one who enters the room may image that he is inhaling poetry.

Rumored Secession from the Scottish Episcopal Church.—The Edinburg Courant understands that it is thought that the new code of canons which is in preparation for the Scottish Episcopal Church, may be the means of dividing that communion. A large body of the clergy and laity, it is reported, intend to enter into relations with the Church of England, if any other ritual than that of the Prayer Book be adopted.
