CITY AND STATE NEWS.

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 14, 1870.

[illegible]

Gov. Graham's Address.—This address is to be delivered today on the Fair Grounds, on the life and character of Chief Justice Ruffin, formerly President of the State Agricultural Society.

Congressional.—Long war speeches and crimes of the several convicts during our late Rebellion, have so remarked that we believe they were all pardoned. We learn that this was a mistake. The following are white [illegible] Pl[illegible] Jones, James Martin and [illegible].

Passengers.—We regret to say the press of the state was not so fully represented as we desired to see. We were pleased to see on the Fair Grounds Mr. Yates of the Western Democrat, on Tuesday, and yesterday Mr. [illegible] of the Greensboro Patriot, Mr. [illegible] of the Washington Gazette, Mr. Davis of the Roanoke News and Mr. Hence of the Old North State, were on the ground.

A Breakdown.—The storm at the Fair grounds yesterday, was of the fiercest kind and most disagreeable considering the exposed condition of the many hundreds who could not secure shelter. During its continuance many incidents occurred, some of which threatened to be quite serious, but most of them [illegible] more of the ludicrous.

A [illegible] of colored people crowds [illegible] The accumulated [illegible] the timbers [illegible] there was a crash and a general tumble on every side, but, fortunately, no one was hurt.

Sheriff [illegible] had his umbrella turned wrong side out and the cover torn away, leaving his head very exposed indeed.

There were several [illegible] their owners across the [illegible] in which, though we could not [illegible] the owners, for the life of the thing our sympathies were with the hats.

The [illegible] of the spotted negro and learned pig, with other very unnatural curiosities suffered [illegible] exhibition of monstrosities [illegible]

[illegible] a great drawback to the Fair, was a complaint to you about the hackman and omnibus drivers, who demanded [illegible] from twenty-five to fifty cents, [illegible] to fill the demand on their services.

Mr. Phillips's Address.—The Annual Address of Rev. Charles Phillips, D. D., before the State Agricultural Society, which was concluded just in time to avoid the storm, was a most excellent one, worthy of the occasion and of himself. We should but mar it by attempt a synopsis of it. It was too well linked and connected together for its beauty and eloquence, learning and practical sense to be appreciated from mere extracts. His tribute to the memory and useful labors of the late Gov. Swain was beautiful and true, and was received with applause. The tenor of the discourse was to show the intimate connection and mutual dependence of muscle and brain education and labor, and the necessity of employing the one for the best success of the other.

The address was well delivered and very attentively listened to for such a large audience.

Thoroughbred Cattle were worn on the horns of the footballs were made and furnished by M. Wm. Hutchings, Saddler of Raleigh, who has on hand a fine display of saddle and harness work, of which we shall speak hereafter.

Serious Parade.—After the storm yesterday, the Fire Companies of the City paraded on the Fair ground, the procession [illegible] Steam, No. 1; Mechanics' No. 2; Victor (colored) No. 1. After moving around the track, there was a trial of power, in which we learned the Victor (colored) No. 1, bore off the palm and took the premium.

[illegible] who offered [illegible] would have assigned the [illegible] on Salvation [illegible] enabled him to [illegible] their youthful glory. The [illegible] no sediment. It does not stain the skin, but will color the hair in a very [illegible]

[illegible] Spread the Truth.

[illegible] that it is unfaithful to advertise a remedy, however valuable it may be. Queer reasoning this. It is like saying that an article which the world needs should be hid in a corner—that benefits and blessings may be dog-sticky diffused [illegible] the secrecy of [illegible] and restoring health should be a close monopoly and not accessible to all. The argument is bad. It is worse than that; it is dishonest. Dr. Boerhaave's Stomach Bitters—an absolute [illegible] had never been known beyond the reporters of the [illegible] what would have been the consequence, the good effects of spring and summer [illegible] to be advertised in every newspaper of any prominence in the Union, [illegible] have been translated into all written languages, [illegible] to the remotest corners of the earth, and [illegible] the necessity of employing the best means for the best success of the other. [illegible] Raleigh, N. C.

[illegible] Stock and Dairy.

In this department our Fair, if not a failure, is very far from being what it ought to be, both in number and quality of the articles [illegible]

[illegible] also of the [illegible]

One cow and calf, two bull calves and three heifers of the Devon breed, exhibited by T. M. Holt, Esq., of Alamance; one fat Alderney bull belonging to W. G. Upchurch, Esq., of Raleigh, and the following [illegible] of which we have noticed out—one fat Devon heifer, one Durham bull, one Jersey bull, one Durham cow, a splendid animal, one very fine grade bull and one very superior milch cow and calf. There were also a fine head of fat cattle, belonging to Mr. W. R. Crawford, butcher, of Raleigh.

We noticed among the hogs, one pair thoroughbred Neapolitan, one Brazilian pig, one pair Essex grades, one pair Chesters, a very fine black sow and four pigs, but we did not ascertain the names of any of the exhibitors.

There were a few Merino, Southdown and native sheep, but the display was not large, and often a strong argument in favor of a dog law.

Arts Hall.

In addition to articles in this Hall, mentioned by us yesterday, we notice the following:

By T. R. Briggs of Raleigh, cooking and parlor stoves and heater.

By Julius Lewis of Raleigh, stoves of various patterns, and other articles.

Bee hives, Langstroth's, Kings, Diamond, and an improved hive and bee house combined.

By Hutchinson and Bishop, manufacturers, of Newburn, a large lot of cedar and pine buckets of excellent quality.

One dozen corn brooms made by J. Watson, a blind man, of Salisbury.

Willow baskets, exhibited by Mr. Hege of Forsyth county, equal to any made in the world.

One mattress, manufactured by John Harrison, mattress maker and upholsterer, Raleigh.

Handmade horseshoes and nails by M. Buckley of Raleigh.

Farmers Hall.

After a rapid survey of the above named Hall, we noticed the following: A fine display of leaf tobacco by Hunter, Forsyth; Tomato, Currant, Elderberry, Catawba and Concord wines, by Hege & Co., Davidson. A fine article of Scuppernong Wine, by Burbank & Gallagher. Corn Whiskey, C. C. Curtis, Alamance. Mrs. Wilson, of Granville, had a number of different varieties of wines, preserves, pickles, jellies, &c., on exhibition. Churchill & West, of Raleigh, exhibited a splendid lot of Delaware and Jersey sweet potatoes. Prestick, of Dublin, had wines of 12 sorts; jellies of 15 sorts; 11 different sorts of grapes; 10 varieties of apples; 3 different kinds of quince and 22 kinds of wines.

The Guilford Nurseries were well represented. Mr. G. S. Anthony had 60 varieties of apples.

Mrs. S. G. Wilson of Granville had some 75 varieties of apples.

The New Garden Nurseries, Greensboro, J. Lindley & Son, had a fine display. Among the articles exhibited by this enterprising firm we notice the following: Apples, 147 different kinds; 8 varieties of pears; 1 of Quinces; 200 kinds young apple trees; 12 cherry trees; 112 varieties of peas; 7 nectrine; 21 apricot; 16 Rasberries; 4 Gooseberries and 10 Strawberry varieties.

The above is but an imperfect sketch, but our lack of space and time must excuse it.

Mr. Shultz of Forsyth, had a fine lot of hard and soft soap, also Mrs. Wilson of Granville. Butter, cheese and vegetables of every description were to be seen and in such quantities as to make it perfectly impossible for us to notice. Corn, rough wheat, peas, &c. of every description in their perfection, were exhibited. This department was well filled and we will in a day or two give a full description of the numerous articles that were exhibited.

Owing to the interruption, caused by the storm, we were unable to prepare for other notice of the Fair for this issue. We will make full amends to-morrow.

Trial of Speed Wednesday.—At ten o'clock a trotting match came off for $100, best two in three, mile heats.

The entries were two—Parson's "Twist" and Haywood's "Fannie," won by Twist first and third rounds, the second being a dead heat. This was the prettiest trotting that has been witnessed on the track since the Fair opened.

At three o'clock a trotting match came off; premium $60, best two in three, mile heats. Entries, Harvey's "Express" and Waggoman's Baldy Davis; won by Express in two straight heats.

Royal Company.—Every admirable distinguished Tragedian and the talented Company with whom he performs, continue to draw overflowing houses. Last night "King Lear," was performed to a large and appreciative audience, and would merit a fuller notice at our hands, if the interest of the hour did not prevent our expatiating.

Pickpocket Arrested.—We understand that two of the pick-pockets, who have been operating during the Fair, were captured yesterday; one of them with his hand actually in a gentleman's pocket. One was arrested in the city, the other on the Fair Grounds. We did not learn the names, nor any of the particulars of either arrest further than stated above.

[illegible]

John [illegible] for 7 years, at the Cleveland Superior Court, for stealing a mule from [illegible] of Rutherford. We take the following particulars of his case from the [illegible]

"Voss was arrested at Marion, [illegible] months ago and has been in [illegible] before his trial at Shelby. He was connected with Wheeler's gang of horse thieves and counterfeiters. [illegible] at the head of a small gang [illegible] with a much larger one, whose headquarters was in Somerset county, Ky. [illegible] was captain of the club and [illegible] plates for counterfeiting. The gang was connected to [illegible] business of counterfeiting spread so as to [illegible] The counterfeiting was carried on [illegible] handsomely fitted up cave [illegible] The gang took many newspapers and had their own telegraphic wires in the mountains [illegible] keep [illegible] world.

John Voss turned State's evidence in one of the cases in which he was indicted [illegible] has been the means of the conviction of nineteen [illegible] stolen [illegible] North Carolina and acknowledged to have stolen quite a number of horses [illegible]

A New Nation.—[illegible] Saturday last, a gentleman [illegible] several years past has been engaged in the Vermillion gold regions returned to this city, and at the American House discovered a Prussian flag. What is that? he asked turning to a friend. "That is the Prussian flag," was the answer. "Then the Lord" says the pioneer, [illegible] interest in the stranger, who was questioned as to his enthusiasm over the [illegible] European kingdom. "Oh," says he, "it is not because I care anything for Prussia, but I have been [illegible] time, and when I saw that rag, (red, white and black,) [illegible] I didn't think the Radicals had destroyed the stars and stripes and got up a new flag, with the red for the Indian, the black for the nigger and the white for the rest of us!"

Grave Vice Chancellor—Meeting of the Literary Board.—The affairs of the University being under consideration, His Excellency piously said: "The motto of a great State Institution should be like that of our Divine Master, 'Suffer little children to come unto me.' As soon as the boy is weaned, he should be sent to the University, that his tender mind may be impressed with loyal truth. With these sentiments we congratulate the University of North Carolina a wonder to the universe!"

Cube Harris said: "Let the brethren the University readin', ritin' and rithmetic—the three r's. That's the way I was educated."

President Pool said: "I've got the bullest Faculty for teaching them three things. They knows jography and cyphering by heart."

Gen. Bolivar said: "Don't bother the children at the University with spellin'. I never could tire nothing about spellin', and I am the best spellin' in the State, and a great soger to boot."

Ashley, from Buzzard's Bay, rolled his eyes towards Heaven and devoutly said: "The great educator of youth is prayer and the fear of Satan! Amen."

The Commercial Advertiser of this city, a Republican sheet, in an article reviewing the condition of the party in the State, concludes as follows:

"Judging from the symptoms manifested in various sections of the state, we are almost convinced that the patient is in a very bad way. We say this at the expense of being charged with giving the cold shoulder to the Republican party. In these days of reckless lying somebody ought to have courage to tell the truth. If some good friends of General Grant would only have the courage to speak the truth to him it would be productive of much good, but it is unfortunate for the President that he is surrounded by obsequious flatterers without brains and without honesty."

Two actions for trespass were brought against "our beloved Governor" in the Cleveland County Superior Court, for outrages committed by Kirk's Gambs while quartered in Shelby. One of these was for the illegal arrest of Mr. Williams and the other for violently taking bacon from Mr. Thomas Wells. The cases were deferred. "Our son" Judge Lewis Olds was present to defend Dad.
