THE NORTH CAROLINA MANUAL,

Published by authority and under the auspices of the General Assembly, will soon be issued under direction of the Secretary of State.

The material for this work has been collected and prepared by John H. Wheeler, Esq., who has spent a great deal of thought and labor in completing it. As a hand book of reference, it will be the most complete and valuable work of the kind ever published in the State. No public man, or man of business, should be without a copy. It will be a book of about 300 pages.

Comprising a Map of the State; the counties and population of each, showing the Congressional and Senatorial districts; the Constitution of the United States, with late amendments; the Executive officers of the United States from the Revolution to 1874. An engraved diagram, showing the movements of each state in square miles and the population of each and of every square mile; the ratio of representation in Congress at each Decade. The Constitution of North Carolina, with recent amendments; the population of each county from its organization to 1870. Executive, Judicial and Legislative Departments of North Carolina; Statistical tables of the popular vote in each county, for President, Governor, Congress; a special statement of the qualified voters from records of census, distinguishing white from colored; the counties of the State, origin of name, with a list of Senators and Representatives in the General Assembly from date of formation to present session; and much other statistical and interesting matter, with full index to the same.

The price of the book is $2.00 in fine cloth binding. Postage to be added when sent by mail.

KELLY'S PATENT UMBRELLA-HOLDER,

For Buggies, Wagons, Boats, Saddles and other open Vehicles. This exceedingly ingenious and useful invention supplies a want long felt by those who ride in open vehicles. It is so simple in its construction that a child can manage it after once observing the apparatus. It can be screwed down to any vehicle without inconvenience. It does not disfigure the appearance of any wagon or buggy. It can be placed at any elevation, or inclined in any direction with perfect ease in a moment's time. When not in use it can be so disposed between the cushions, by the simple turning of a thumb screw, as to be entirely out of the way, and will subject persons riding to no inconvenience whatever. Any person of ordinary mind can adapt it to his vehicle without the aid of directions. Its price is within the reach of all. Every owner of an open vehicle should have one. Any kind of an Umbrella will adjust. They can be purchased, wholesale and retail, at JULIUS LEWIN & CO'S. Price at retail $3.

QUEENS AND BELLES.—A correspondent of the Washington Republican was at the ball at the Greenbrier White Sulphur Springs last Wednesday, and he gives a vivid description of the "German," "who were at the ball" &c., &c. Descanting upon the beauty and the Chivalry of the South he concludes with the queens and belles of the occasion from which we make a partial extract. He says the queens and belles of the White Sulphur I feel to designate by "name and local habitation" are LEAVE ALONE.—It may all be very fine to be an angel, and with the angels stand, but this being a hermit and living alone, is not quite so fine. At the present writing we don't know much about the angel business, but as to living alone, "we know how it is ourself." For two long, dreary weeks we have tried it. For two long, dreary weeks we have been the only soul in the house. We have had no one to love us—none to chide. All alone we went to bed, not to sleep a word was said. We got up in the morning just as quietly night at the delightful watering place. The arrangements consummated promise a most happy affair.

CHATHAM COAL.—Mr. P. H. Webb, of Chatham county, gave us a call to-day. He brought with him a specimen of bituminous coal, very fine. It was taken from a vein 7 feet 8 inches thick, and was from the Altamahaw mine. The supply is inexhaustible, and promises a handsome yield and profit to the company.

THE LADIES' FESTIVAL.—The festival last night held by the ladies of the Methodist Episcopal Church, in the store of the new Barringer building, next door to the State National Bank, was well attended and liberally patronized. It will be continued to-night, when we trust visitors will double the number of last evening. The object of the enterprise is the most laudable.

BOYS' MILITARY COMPANY.—The boys' friend, Mr. A. P. C. Bryan, contemplates at an early day, the organization of a boys' military company, consisting of 50 members, who after being properly drilled, will elect their officers and be in readiness to compete for the cadet premium at the approaching State Fair. Mr. Bryan proposes to have an economical, and at the same time a neat and lasting uniform for the boys; something as follows: zouave pants, (red,) blue blouse, and a red skull cap, the cost of which will be within the reach of all. This organization meets the encouragement of all whom attention has been called to the subject. There is nothing more beneficial to the young than proper exercise, while the manly form is developed and exceeding grace imparted, even to the most awkward. Let your boys join.

A PHOTOGRAPH.—We stopped into Shelburn's gallery this morning for a few moments and took a glance at some splendid photographs. Among a number we were particularly struck with the artistic elegance and beauty of a little seven year old girl, Miss Bettie Carmer, daughter of our popular druggist J. R. H. Carmer. She was dressed as a lady of the period in a long train, and resembled closely Minnie Warren, who, it will be recollected, was some years ago exhibiting in the city with Commodore Nutt. Shelburn tells us Miss Bettie completely surprised him on entering his rooms, with the dash, abandon and style with which she managed her costume. Tucker & Co. and our friend Creech can tell you how they were surprised when she gave them a call. The eagerness of their clerks to wait upon so charming a little creature could scarcely be restrained. A young fellow who fortunately is married and whose name is similar to a prominent river in Italy, came near killing himself running for a breakfast shawl. In the language of (oh never mind who) the word is now "how high is dat."

A NEGRO THIEF GETS AWAY WITH A VALISE, BUT COMES TO GRIEF.—Mr. N. M. Vinson, a respectable citizen of Johnston county, on the eve of returning home proceeded to the Central Depot this morning, and soon thereafter, the train arriving, he walked into a car and deposited his valise on a seat, when he went outside for a few moments. Just before the departure of the train, on going inside of the car, he discovered that his valise was non est inventus. He immediately spoke to Policeman Crossan, who was standing near, concerning his loss, with the promise of a reward if found. Crossan commenced search at once, and soon got on the trail of the thief, for two colored men, who were lookers on, told him who the man was, and gave him all the necessary description, though they said nothing while the thief was carrying his prize away.

Rob Whitaker, formerly of this county but latterly of Wilmington, was the "spotted one," and Crossan after searching half of the city over spied him coming out of a store near the Depot Grove and at once took him into custody. He got along well enough with his prisoner until he was approaching the sacred confines of the lock up, when the latter became suddenly restive and made a break for his liberty. He was knocked down twice, but his head being as hard as a mule it had but little effect upon him, for he arose and ran some three or four squares with the fleetness of an equine. Crossan fired two shots at him (which missed) on the wing and finally overhauled him. The thief had a pistol and attempted to shoot the officer, but in his flight threw it away. The valise was secured and will be returned to the owner. It had been broken open and contained a considerable amount of Confederate currency, a bond or two of the same character with several legal papers. The thief evidently made a water haul.

hills and far away." I rush in where angels fear to tread" by venturing to specify some of them and their costume.

I would say beforehand that I can only recall but few by name of the hundreds of my fair sisters who were notably quoted for beauty of person, grace, refinement in manners, and good taste displayed in their costumes.

Mrs. H. Coster Cabell, of Richmond, Va., wore a white dress trimmed with black Chantilly lace, flounces, skirt draped with a pale blue crape scarf, blue feathers in the hair, pearl ornaments.

Miss Kate Cabell was arrayed in blue tarletan, trimmed with purple satin and violets. She wore no ornaments, herself being the fairest jewel in the galaxy.

These two ladies are by birth, education and refinement the reigning queens of society in Richmond, fair Richmond on the James; of sad memories and lost hopes.

The honor and stately dignity of the Old North State was creditably upheld by the magnificent Miss Grimes. I will not attempt to describe her person or costume for fear of making a failure. You gentlemen of the press would simply say she was "stunning," to use one of your emphatic and expressive words. She is neither a blonde nor brunette in complexion, but the happy medium betwixt and between, and extremes don't meet or separate in the fair Carolinian.

AN INNOCENT OLD LADY.—The other day, on a Michigan Central train, coming East, was an old lady who had never travelled a great deal. She wasn't used to the ways of the book agents, the peanut boys and the prize package nuisances who pass through the train every few minutes. When the peanut boy came along, and dropped a big African peanut into her lap, she shocked it, opened her mouth, and dropped the kernel down, instead of regarding it with silent contempt or pitching it out of the window. The book agent came along and dropped a book into her lap. The said she was "much obleged," and carefully locked it up in her valise. The prize package boy came along and dropped a sample, and she wondered how the road could afford to give way so much. When he returned she had opened it, and was wearing the breastpin and eating the gum drops. The book agent came back and wanted his book, and before she would give it up she called the conductor to see if it was right. The card boy wanted pay, and she appealed to the passengers. When she understood that he was right, she handed over twenty-five cents with the remark, "Well, of I hain't all-fired turned round. I wish I'd stald to hum!"—Detroit Free Press.

A MONKEY IN TROUBLE.—Sam. Wilcoxen, of the Eagle Brewery, has a small menagerie of monkeys, badgers, foxes, coyotes, and the like. He also has a large Newfoundland dog, on whose back he sometimes places one of his pet monkeys, when he is going for a walk about the town, the monkey fastened to the collar of the dog by a string. As a general thing, the monkey enjoys his ride, but we saw him a day or two since when he would willingly have traded himself for one less privileged specimen of his own species. His canine steed, being allowed to roam the streets at will, saw another dog that he thought he could whip, and forthwith went for him like a hairy hurricane. In a moment both dogs were on their hind legs, and going for each other like two sausage machines. This made times very lively for the monkey, as the strange dog evidently considered him as part and parcel of his antagonist. Such wails of despair as that monkey uttered, and such hideous faces as he made, we never heard or saw. He would climb down the side of the dog he bestrode opposite to where the war was going on, and thence peep over occasionally, his jaws quivering, visage distorted, and his eyes starting from their sockets with terror. As the dogs were constantly changing sides, it made times awfully lively for the monkey. When he jumped to the ground the string held him, and he found himself trampelled under the feet of both friend and foe, and he was glad to get again upon the back of his steed and face the battle. The poor monkey was in a worse fix than the boy who stood on the burning deck, and had not the dogs been separated, he must soon have been rendered a fit subject for the Stockton Insane Asylum. As it was, he did not get over examining the end of his tail for wounds for four hours after the battle; perhaps he had fears of the hydrophobia.—Virginia, (Nev.) Enterprise.

the Congressional election in the State, remarked, "Well, there are seven gentlemen elected, and they ought to have one darkey to wait on them."

The Recorder wants to know what use the Hillsboro' radicals will make of the tar and powder they got from Raleigh to celebrate their glorious victory?

Capt. Fred. Strudwick's majority is between 800 and 900. How are you Geo. Mason? When will that committee again assemble?

Edmund Thompson, of Orange, cleans thirty-eight and a half bushels of wheat from a traction over two acres of wheat.

Gen. Graham, now at Beaufort, leaves there this week for one of the Virginia Springs.

On Monday night, the newly elected Judge McKoy, was serenaded at the Purcell House, and replied in an impromptu and eloquent speech. Mr. James T. Legrand, Senator elect from the Twenty-sixth Senatorial District, composed of the counties of Richmond and Montgomery, also present, responded in a cheering speech.

Says the Charlotte News, speaking of General R. F. Hoke: "We were favored by a visit last week from this gallant son of North Carolina, who fought his way up from a Lieutenancy to a Major-Generalcy. He has travelled through Texas and the Southwest, and prefers N. C. to them all. He gives it as his deliberate opinion that our farmers can make more than those in the most favored portions of Texas, Louisiana, and Arkansas."

A CURIOUS ROCK.—Captain A. Tanner, a contractor on the Carolina Central Railway, brought us a rock yesterday, which is worthy of a place in some museum. It was taken out of the earth sixteen feet below the surface, one mile this side of McAlpine's Creek, on the land of Mr. Brown Wallace and is very similar to the rock which was taken out of Boggan's Cut sometime since. It has clearly embossed upon it the shapes of trees and undergrowth, all painted as with the most delicate pencil of an artist.—Observer.

The Statesville American says: Found a short time ago, about six miles Northeast of Statesville, a brass button about three-fourths of an inch in diameter; that had been heavily gilded on the face. Around this are the words "Republica de Columbia." In the centre is the figure of a soldier, or some emblematic person, with the left hand resting upon an anchor that stands upright. The right hand holds a long spear that stands near that side with the cap of Liberty on the top of it. There is a cap on the man's head, and above it apparently a mitre and a loose garment hanging from the left shoulder. Underneath is the word Marina, the Spanish word for Marine, a sea soldier. "On the 17th of Dec. 19, a Union was formed between Venezuela and New Grenada, and the two States merged into the Republic of New Grenada, and the two States merge into the Republic of Columbia." "This union existed only ten years, and was never cordial; in November, 1829, Venezuela seceded from it, and in May, 1830 Ecuador also withdrew." How then, did this button, that belonged to this defunct Republic, get lost here in Western North Carolina?

Peru Settle brought it over probably.—SENTINEL.

A DESPERATE SUICIDE.—Was committed near this place on last Friday morning. Mr. Martin Privett, an old and respected citizen, some months ago had an attack of fever, and had been deranged ever since, ended his life at the above time in the following horrible manner: His wife had prepared breakfast and asked him to come out to it, but he said that he did not want any; she insisted, when he told her to eat on, he would be out directly. She left him, but just as she commenced eating she heard the loud report of a gun issue from the room he was in. She rushed in and found him lying on the floor already dead—his brains scattered all over the room, and the blood streaming from a horrible wound in the head. It seems that he had cocked the gun—a musket—and had set it upon the floor and placed his head to the muzzle, and had then, with an umbrella touched off the trigger. He must have died instantly. There was a hole in the side of the head the size of a common chair post. Most of the shot stayed in the head, but some of them went out at the back of the head and struck the ceiling above, and some of his brains were also sticking to the ceiling. This is undoubtedly the most horrible suicide we ever heard of. It is thought his mind caused him to commit the deed.—Monroe Eng.

choose which assume much time. For the first few days we studied economy, and boarded ourself. We soon got tired of eating the outside slice of bread at every meal, and threw the loaf away, and bought crackers. Remembering the difficulty that Brother Beecher had with his dishcloth a few years ago—an account of which he gave in his miscellany at the time—we resolved not to wash any dishes, but just put the dirty ones to soak, and use clean ones. As long as the dishes hold out we shall get along with that part of housekeeping all right, but they wont last always, as the pile of clean ones is daily growing smaller, and the pile of dirty ones larger. The crisis in this particular is approaching, and unless "the folks" come home pretty soon, we shall have to borrow some dishes. For the first few days we made the bed up nicely every morning. For the next few days we put it off till night, and for the last few days we have'nt made it at all. We were charged particularly to water the house plants, and take care of the bird. The plants have caused us a good deal of trouble, Let we left the door of the cage open about the first time we carried that animal off, and he hasn't troubled us much since. Of course we'll "catch it" when the folks come home, but that is a good deal easier than it is to catch the bird. On the whole we are free to say that we don't like housekeeping, and if ever we should be "born again"—and according to very good authority we have all got to undergo that operation, we earnestly hope we shan't be born a woman—and especially a housekeeping one. We would rather be an angel.—Elmira Gazette.

DIDN'T KISS HER.—A gentleman who has been recently travelling in the lower counties tells us the following amusing story: He was stopping over night at a house where the partition walls were particularly thin. The adjoining room was occupied by a mother and her daughter. After retiring the mother began to rebuke the daughter for an alleged partiality to somebody named John, which soft impeachment the daughter denied vigorously.

"But," said the mother, "I saw him kissing you at the corn-pen yesterday morning, Amanda."

"No, ma, he wasn't kissing me at all."

"Why did you have your head so close up to his for? you deceivin' critter."

"Well, you see ma, I had been eating pitallas (the fruit of a species of cactus,) and you see, ma, I got some of the prickles in my lips—and—and—"

"And what, you wicked, wicked critter."

"And I couldn't get them out myself, you know, and John pulled them out with his teeth—but he didn't kiss me nary time."—San Antonio Herald.

Says the Asheville Pioneer: "On the 9th inst., some infamous rascal went to the house of Mrs. Ellen Goodlake, a widow lady living in this place, and attempted to steal some fowls which were kept near the house. Mrs. Goodlake hearing a fuss among the chickens, and supposing it to be a young dog kept on the place, started out to put a stop to his intrusion upon the most, but no sooner did she open the door than a burly black negro seized her person and mutilated her face and head seriously by blows and cuffs, but he was prevented from carrying out his murderous intentions by the approach of parties who heard the desperate appeals of the poor helpless woman for aid. The black fiend has not been identified."

The Fifth Ward Club of Wilmington, won the flag offered to the Club making the largest conservative gains in the late election. The flag is to be presented to the Club to morrow by Miss Engelhard, daughter of Major Engelhard, of the Journal.

MANHOOD RESTORED. A victim of youthful imprudence, causing premature decay, nervous debility, etc., having tried in vain every known remedy, has found a simple self cure, which he will send free to his fellow-sufferers. Address J. H. REEVES, 78 Nassau St., New York.

TO THE WHOLESALE TRADE

Judging the future by the past, we enter with confidence upon the our new enterprise of separating our Wholesale from our Retail Trade, by having a separate and distinct House for each; and in doing so we flatter ourselves that it will not only meet the approval of our numerous customers, but that an "Exclusive Wholesale House" will bring us a large influx of new trade, and of a character not heretofore enjoyed.

It must be obvious to every buyer that a strictly "Wholesale House," arranged and adapted for that trade only, with a corps of experienced Wholesale Salesmen, with a Stock carefully selected for that Trade only, and moreover, the avoidance of coming in contact with retail buyers, which we and you all have heretofore found to be no pleasant one, as it frequently happens that the retail buyer is your very neighbor, (perhaps your own customer), such a house, we assert, must and will commend itself to the trade.

Four years ago we advertised that we intended to make Charlotte a wholesale mart and born "The Wholesale House." We now have the proud satisfaction of seeing it an accomplished fact.

We now call your attention to the fact that we have converted our superb store into an exclusive Wholesale House, where you can find all lines of goods necessary for country stock, viz: Dry Goods, Clothing, Boots, Shoes, Hats, Notions, Groceries, Hardware, Millinery, all the beautiful Rose, bought in large quantities and from the very first hands.

Our stock is now arriving and will be complete about the 1st of September, and will be the largest of any here, the pretensions of others to the contrary notwithstanding. We respectfully invite your personal inspection, or write to us for catalogue.

Very truly yours,
WHITEHOWART & RINTELS.

RETAIL.

Now, a few words about that. We now occupy the superb house heretofore so favorably known as the Mantle Room, Brown & Co's., Dry Goods House, to carry on our Retail business, and as "Excelsior" is and has always has been, our motto, we claim also in that line to excel in stock, to excel in lowness of prices, and to excel generally. We will, in that house, have a corps of thirty Salesmen, and Sales-Ladies, all experienced, affable and obliging.

We will make the Millinery branch a speciality.

POSTPONEMENT

FIFTH AND LAST CONCERT

IN AID OF THE

PUBLIC LIBRARY OF KENTUCKY

MONDAY 30TH NOVEMBER, 1874.

LAST CHANCE

AN EASY FORTUNE!

A postponement of the Fifth Concert of the Public Library of Kentucky has been so generally anticipated, and is so manifestly for the interest of all concerned that it must meet the approval of all. The day is now absolutely fixed and there will be no variation from the programme now announced. A sufficient number of tickets had been sold to have enabled us to have had a large drawing on the 31st July, but a short postponement was considered preferable to a partial drawing. Let it be borne in mind that

THE FIFTH GIFT CONCERT

IS THE LAST WHICH WILL EVER BE GIVEN UNDER THIS CHARTER AND BY THE PRESENT MANAGEMENT.

That it will positively and unequivocally take place as announced on

MONDAY, 30TH NOVEMBER,

that the music will be the best the country affords, and that
